MRS. WM. McMILLAN. MOBASSA, July 14.—Africa isn't such a wild, deserted region, after all. You realize this when you know what a gracious and beautiful woman acted as hostess to Theo. Roosevelt. The queen of the bungalow where Roosevelt spent many pleasant days in Mrs. Wm. N. McMillan. This latest photograph of her shows something of her appearance and social grace. Life at the McMillan ranch was not of the frontier sort, indeed, with such a hostess. Mrs. McMillan is something of an authoress. Her husband, of St. Louis, is rich, and they have a home in London. "Why do you remain in Africa?" a friend asked Mrs. McMillan. "Well, my husband likes it so much and I am so charmed with it, that I fear we are victims of 'Africantitis,'" she replied.
