R. B. Bennett Trade Pact

"I owe a debt to old Dalhousie that cannot easily be repaid. In a very different way I have tried to discharge it by making it known that I owed that institution. I believe it necessary for a man to work to succeed. I believe it necessary for young men to have an philosophy of life. I have found persistence a great virtue even if some men found it a great inconvenience."

After all, it is not what we take out of this institution. It is more what we put into it. In every part of this Dominion you find men who laid the foundation of their useful lives in old Da."

Dominion Wide Outlook

It was essential for Canadians to remember they are members of the Dominion of Canada rather than merely of provinces. That was not the case today. If he had not visited all parts of the country he would never have understood what was meant by Canada.

"Unity is essential, and unity means one sovereignty and one Dominion of Canada. It does not mean nine sovereignties. It does not mean the sovereignty of one National Parliament and nine legislative assemblies."

Residents of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were proud of their heritage. They find it a little difficult to understand the lesser breeds beyond the law and look down their nose a bit at the other parts of the Dominion. Mr. Bennett said that he was proud of their achievements as of Halifax Harbor. "God gave them the harbor."

He invited you to a wider patriotism than that of mere provincial life. Great as you may regard Nova Scotia—and it is great—I invite you to think of the vast land that lies beyond you, still part of Canada. Canada is British Columbia and Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario, Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

If all these provinces together and if we are to endure as a people we must fill our minds with a sense of unity and with a sense of the common and see narrow provincial boundaries do not divide Canada.

Combinations of powers seemed to be the fashion now just as combinations were in vogue in industry. Canadians must decide whether they will work out their destiny, he added. "You and I know that we can't stand alone."

Some people talked of the Monroe Doctrine but a writer had said no country which depended for its life on another should raise its head. Economically there were advantages of belonging to the Empire. Also, there was now such freedom as the British enjoyed.

Intelligent Democracy

Mr. Bennett pleaded for an intelligent democracy. Never in history had democracy been challenged like now. People objected to a course of debt but it was the voters who were responsible for a country going into debt. Their votes put legislators in office and their votes kept them there.

In a democracy, if an effort is made to move the economy, one opponent campaigned against the economy. The dictators, however, could "blow pencils" items of expenditure and that was the end of it. "Effective? Of course but it should be liberty. Is the price that should be paid for liberty? I deny it. Liberty is destructive of humanity."

Where, Mr. Bennett asked, would liberty be the sacrifice of the British. Four times they saved world civilization. The last time, in the Great War, was saved by Britain and her children—the Dominions.

"We are heirs of the ages. Our instincts are not derived from them. Aren't we better working out our destiny with them (the British) than with anybody else? Any combination now, although no one is allowed to see her at present doing as well as can be expected. Mrs. Murphy's many friends in this vicinity wish her a speedy recovery."

Mr. H. P. Wadman was a visitor to Charlottetown over the weekend, attending the funeral of his sister, Mrs. James Goss.

Foreign Powers Fear a Hitler Move on Ukraine in Spring

By MILTON BEONNER
New Service Staff Writer

LONDON—European chancelleries believe that this spring Adolf Hitler will take up the cause of the "oppressed Ukrainians."

That move would mean a threat to Poland and ultimately to Soviet Russia.

An outright Nazi annexation of Ukrainian territory may be attempted there may be an effort to set up a puppet Ukrainian state which would be a vassal to Germany just as Czechoslovakia now has become.

Meanwhile, many ardent Ukrainian leaders are working for an independent country—a Ukraine for the Ukrainians.

The two movements are largely independent of each other, but Hitler is perfectly prepared to let the Ukrainians do the work and then grab the fruits for himself and Germany.

The real Ukrainian movement is for long before Hitler came to power in Germany. Even in those days the Ukrainian lands were an independent country. In those days the Ukrainian lands were divided between Russia and Austria-Hungary.

After the World War, the Ukrainians found themselves subjects of four different countries. There are 30,000,000 in the Soviet Republic of Ukraine in Russia. There are over 5,000,000 in the Ukrainian possessions of Poland. In Rumania there are over 1,000,000 Ukrainians in Bukovina and Bessarabia. Finally, in Czechoslovakia there are some 600,000.

In the days preceding the Hitler era, patriotic Ukrainians living in other lands, helped to establish Ukrainian Bureaus in New York, London, Paris and Berlin. Their purpose was to publish to the world how their compatriots were being mistreated.

The dream and aspiration of the Ukrainians is a free and independent country for their own people. The dream and aspiration of Hitler and his Nazi colleagues is something quite different. It is set forth quite explicitly in his "Mein Kampf" book in which Hitler outlined all his policies and to which he has adhered very closely.

In that book he sneered at the old colonial policy of the Hohenzollerns. He maintained that what Germany needed for its excess population was not lands in hot Africa, but territory contiguous to Germany, ready for the plow, ready for the industrial German.

He said that the east was the future of Germany—and thus settled, he drew a picture of Germany 100 years hence with a population of 200,000,000. He said that the move in Eastern Europe fit in with this plan. He grabbed Austria. That made Germany surround Czechoslovakia and Poland. Then, after the famous Munich agreement with Premier Chamberlain of England and Daladier of France, he only grabbed "all the Sudeten German territories of Czechoslovakia, but a good deal more."

He looked on benevolently while Hungary grabbed a piece and Poland took Techen and its hinterland.

Asked flatly if he wasn't a gangster, he finally acknowledged "well, I guess I was. He denied being one of the unidentified slayers of Daladier."

He later corroborated Weinberg's testimony linking Hines and Schultz.

land. Then a significant event occurred. Presumably encouraged by hints from Italy Poland and Hungary wanted to grab the eastern part of Czechoslovakia, the Rumanian territory. Had they done so, they would have had a common frontier. It would have separated Rumania from Czechoslovakia. But more important, it would have been a barrier to Hitler's proposed thrust to southeastern Europe. Hitler promptly stopped the grab.

Instead, Czechoslovakia gave the Rumanians complete autonomy. They are thus the first group of Ukrainians in modern times to have complete rule over themselves. They are a standing example to the Ukrainians of Poland and Russia.

This map of eastern Europe shows how the Ukrainian ethnographical territory extends beyond the national boundaries of the Ukrainian Soviet republic—into Poland, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

Seek Dominion Responsibility For Unemployed Veterans

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Dominion responsibility for unemployed veterans who served in a theatre of actual war will be urged upon the government by the Canadian Legislative Council of that association meets members of the cabinet Tuesday.

The unemployment submissions represent the views of the great body of organized veterans. Col. W. Foster, executive chairman, said here today, adding he had been authorized specifically by the Canadian Corps Association, the army and navy veterans in Canada and the Canadian pensioners association to emphasize their views as being wholly in accord with those of the legion.

Col Foster expressed pleasure that agreement on the principle of a national veterans conference to co-ordinate the activities of their respective organizations. In the meantime, to ensure unity of effort during the period pending ratification of this principle by the association, the Dominion government was constituted a standing committee to provide for "united action in matters affecting their comrades country and Empire."

Mr. Chamberlain denied nothing had come of the visit. "We did not go to Rome to make bargains but to get in the best possible position to ascertain by personal discussion what was their point of view and to make sure that they understood what we were accomplishing all that. I can say we accomplished all that. I can say we accomplished all that. I can say we accomplished all that."

Mr. Chamberlain took up point by point Britain's rearmament program and described the progress made by the army, the navy and the air force, which he said was more rapid every day. He explained that in the year ending March 31, Britain will have added 40 new ships to the navy, the Royal Air Force, he said, is moving ahead at an equally remarkable pace.

Last September, he said, "every one knows that certain deficiencies were disclosed" in anti-aircraft defenses. Now, he added, the position has been improved "not only as regards the increase of guns and accessories but also in the organization for directing and manning them."

The Premier referred to his recent appeal for recruits for voluntary civilian defence and explained that what was wanted was men and women who would aid as air-raid wardens, fire fighters, and first aid and rescue workers.

A first order for 100,000 tons of steel for air-raid shelters for vulnerable areas already has been placed, he said, and in the next few weeks distribution of the shelters is to be started.

Mr. Chamberlain also told of progress in plans for evacuation from large cities in case of air raids and said a comprehensive survey of accommodation for children and mothers was under way.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

DEEP BROOK, N. S., Jan. 29.—(CP)—A. W. Lewis died in hospital today from injuries received Saturday night when a fire destroyed the poultry house of his son, David Lewis, near Deep Brook. Lewis and young chicks were lost in the fire.

Miners Demand Relief In Note To Premier King

GLACE BAY, N. S., Jan. 29.—(CP)—Miners demanded relief and threatened to take it if it was not forthcoming in telegrams sent from here to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia Saturday. The telegrams were drafted by a committee representing a sub-district convention of United Mine workers.

A reply received from W. M. Dickson, Dominion Deputy Minister of Labor, said the Dominion is making grants-in-aid to the provinces for relief and the Gloucester telegram would be brought to Premier Macdonald's attention. A second reply from A. D. P. Healey, Prime Minister's Secretary, said the message had been referred to "the departments of labor, justice and national revenue for attention."

The Miners' telegram said: "This committee from sub-district convention, U. M. W., instructed to telegraph you that the situation here at present is desperate and we demand relief at once. If not we will take it. The men refuse to be responsible for any action taken."

INDUSTRIALIST DIES

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., Jan. 29.—(CP)—James J. Warren of Toronto, President of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company Limited, died at his winter home here Saturday night. Mr. Warren, a native of Ontario, was 68 years of age. He followed a heart attack of short duration. He had made his winter home here for several years.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

FREDERICTON.—(CP)—Production of 4,440,558 pounds of butter in New Brunswick last year was the largest in the province's history. Cheese production also mounted to 540,427 pounds, a slight decrease from the previous year.

Not So Bad For A Bachelor

HALIFAX, Jan. 29.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett who has kissed as many bouquet presenters as any man in Canada set an all-time high here yesterday when he so greeted no less than six Dalhousie University co-ed students presented him with a basket of roses.

Zypha Linkletter led the six to the head table, made a little speech and handed Mr. Bennett the flowers. He leaned over and kissed her while the audience roared. Then in turn he kissed Joan Anderson, Shirley Kirkland, Ruth MacQuarrie, Helen Rogers and Maureen Allen.

governments and I recognize that it is with governments and not peoples that we have to deal. His address, before the Birmingham Jewellers Association, looked ahead to a critical week. made up of a certain number of tricks or technique."

He believed he had been a number of interesting performances and the play as a whole was well done. Mrs. Bramson, played by Nonone King, lacked somewhat the fullness he expected of the part; lacked a proper sense of timing for their own eccentricity that would sharpen the intensity of the play.

Dorothy McGuinness, as the maid Dora, gave a well modulated performance and the part of Olivia, taken by Elsie Wearne, was well done, but Mr. Sciljan felt that in his opinion scenes which he had played himself for what was to come.

Edward Tomkin's detective had "somewhat" but the adjudicator said that perhaps it was because he had a different idea of how the part should be handled. Both Frank McCarthy, as the leading man Dan, and Maurice F. Fenn as Herbert, were commended for good work. The former "remarkably good, in some instances."

KEY WITNESS

After Weinberg's death, Davis and Schoenhaus were removed to another building and held in their quarters.

Although Weinberg had glibly told of his association with Schultz, it was not until he was taken to a Newark beer tavern, in 1935, that he was not present when the gang boss was shot to death in a Newark beer tavern, in 1935.

Weinberg was known as one of the toughest of Schultz hoodlums, a man with an icy disregard for others.

The supposed death of his brother Schultz and the crude gangland disposal of his body were dismissed with a shrug when he testified at the trial. Hines tried to say he said so far as he knew "Bo" was dead and repeated the commonly accepted story he was entombed in the sewer.

Weinberg also was a witness at Schultz's several years ago, where he admitted afterward he committed perjury "to save $24,000 of my own money."

He said Davis, and others after months in the Tomb Prison, pleaded guilty and testified against Hines. "These are critical times. We can't continue long to go without a common policy—a foreign policy for the British Empire. Else are we going to frame a common foreign policy? It must be done and we are not so bankrupt in statescraft, my friends, that we British people can't do it. I still have faith in my youth. I still have faith in the genius of our people. It is equal to the task."

"Oh my friends, as I leave these shores I leave it still with the high hopes for the country, with sublime faith in its future and its destiny."

IRISH POET AND PLAYWRIGHT DIES

MENTON, France, Jan. 29.—(AP)—William Butler Yeats, Irish poet and playwright and winner of the Nobel prize for literature, in 1923, died Saturday of Roquebrune, in the French Riviera town of Roquebrune, it was announced today.

He was 83 years of age. His death, which followed a short illness, occurred at a boarding house where he was being nursed with his wife. He was buried tomorrow at Roquebrune.

dangered by an attempt to rule the world by force.

There were some rumors Hitler might announce the formation of the German labor service term from six months to one year, making a total of three years for labor and military services together.

Austrians, Sudetenlanders and Prussians will sit together for the first time in the great German Reichstag.

This first session of a new Reichstag will be the last in the setting of the "imperial" chamber in the Reichstag House. Hitler has ordered the Reichstag Building, gutted by fire shortly after the Nazis came to power in 1933, rebuilt for their own use.

Members of the Reichstag will ride to the Opera House through lines of black-shirted S. S. troopers. The Führer will address the 80,000,000 people, free are our rivers, broken are the shackles of the reparations system.

"The honor and independence of the Reich is safeguarded by the party and the German defence power on land, at sea and in the air."

"Throughout the land sounds the joyful symphony of German labor."

Great importance is attached to Hitler's speech because it comes in the middle of what appears to be a momentary vein of German political interest from eastern Europe to western Europe. It is taken as almost a certainty that Hitler will refer to the strained relations between Germany and the United States which many nations have withdrawn their respective ambassadors. If indications run true, there will be conciliatory passages in this reference.
