DAILY SELECTIONS FOR GUARDIAN READERS Furnished by W.S. Louson

SOME DAY.

I'm going home some day—
If I can find the pathway back;
For I have come too far, too far away,
A wanderer on a strange and alien track;
I saw the world ahead and only meant
To go a little way beyond—and then
To seek the old-time highway of content—
And live back home among my clan again.

I'm going home some day—
But every track I face is strange and new
God grant I have not wholly lost my way,
But that in seeking all the long years through
The mist shall lift and I shall find once more
The path that leads me to the dreams of youth—
The lanes of light—the life I knew before I left the old-time ways of faith and truth.

"I'm going home some day"—
So moves the dream of all the roving world;
The seekers of far lands who've lost their way—
God's countless aliens by the current swirled
From out the harbor and by tempest tossed
To unknown lands where they must ever roam—
But this is all that makes life worth the cost—
The endless dream, "Some day
I'm going home."

It does not follow that because you are a young man, or a comparatively young man you are therefore relieved of the responsibility of making a will.

Very early in life we are taught to live as if each day were to be our last. Pursuing this principle we will not fail to have our affairs in order—showing every consideration for our relatives and friends.

"Let all things be done decently and in order." This is a motif fundamental, and the Dominion Trust Company with its wide experience in the matter of wills wishes to be of real service to you.

The company, too, is well informed as to the common fate of the heirs of those who die neglect to make a will while yet in this world.
