STONE-RODD WEDDING—A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stone, Cornwall, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, when their daughter, Winifred Mac was united in marriage to Mr. John Wendt. Rodd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rodd, Winsloe, P. E. Is. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, who gave her away, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Mildred Hyde, cousin of the bride. The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk crepe with veil and orange blossoms and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses, carnations and English daisies. She was attended by her sister Mrs. Ruth, who wore a dress of yellow organdy and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Mr. Earl Diamond ably supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. K. Ross in the presence of over sixty relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The bride party stood under a arch of autumn leaves and wedding bells. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful necklace, also pearl earrings to the bridesmaid and cuff-links and tie pin to the best man. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, including a beautiful walnut dining-room table. Following the ceremony a delightful supper was served and in the meantime a large band of serenaders made their appearance. After an enjoyable evening spent the guests departed wishing the popular young couple many happy years of wedded life.

Special Services Mark 116th Anniversary Of Richmond Bay Congregation

On Sunday, Sept. 29th a most impressive anniversary service was held in the Old Presbyterian Church at Lot Fourteen, when the 116th anniversary of the Richmond Bay congregation was observed. Long before three o'clock, Presbyterians and their friends from far and near were gathering at the historic old church. The church, which had recently been decorated for the occasion, presented a very impressive sight, with freshly painted walls and ceiling, and the pulpit banked with flowers.

The service was opened with an invocation, and Psalm 86 was then sung. The Scriptures were read from I. Kings 8:22-53; Hebrews 10:19-25 and Hebrews 12:1-2, by the minister, Rev. Edwin White, B. A., followed by prayer by Rev. Walter McCleary, B. A., of Summerside Presbyterian Church.

The minister then presented a very interesting outline of the history of the congregation, extracts from which follow later. The male quartet, Messrs. Forbes, Hancock, Rogers and Mountain of Summerside, then favored the congregation with two beautiful selections which were received with deep appreciation by the congregation.

Rev. Walter McCleary, B. A., preached the sermon, stressing two main points, first a warning against the danger of looking back to the hindrance of present endeavor—the danger of living in the "good old," but "dead and gone days" that are gone forever, and thereby rendering these present, as well as future days less effective.

Secondly, he threw out, in most straightforward and inspiring manner, a challenge, "the challenge of sacrifice." He touched briefly on the sacrifices that made this church, and others like it, available to worshippers today, and pointed out, very impressively, that if we go back far enough in any history, we come to "a cross on a lonely hill," where Jesus showed for all eternity, the importance of sacrifice in life, for, as the speaker reminded his congregation, "Sacrifice is life." He ended a brief, but pointed and forceful address, with this challenge of the future, with its great essential—"Sacrifice as the norm of achievement."

After singing hymn 545, "Faith of Our Fathers Living Still," the congregation, which filled the church, bowed in silent remembrance of the faithful "cloud of witnesses" who, from this congregation, have "accomplished their warfare" and are at rest.

The congregation was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Walter McCleary.

The music was under the direction of Miss Blanche Cameron, the organist, and the choir was augmented by representatives of the choirs from the other sections of the congregation—Victoria West, Tyne Valley, Freeland, Miss Westland played the accompaniment for the quartet.

In 1758 P. E. I. came into possession of the British, and in 1771 a large number of settlers from Argyleshire settled in Richmond Bay West section of the Island. In 1784 or 1785 Pictou Presbyterians petitioned the Synod in Scotland to send them a minister who could preach in both Gaelic and English. Rev. James Macgregor of Perthshire was ordained in May 1786, and in June of the same year set sail for Halifax.

In 1770 P. E. I. obtained a government of its own, and in the following year, 1771, Rev. James Macgregor, the first Presbyterian missionary to P. E. I., visited Covehead and Princeton, preaching on the Sabbaths, and visiting the homes of the people during the mid-week. At Princeton they then worshipped in a tent.

On his second visit, in 1794, Rev. James Macgregor was so pleased with the progress at Princeton, which included the Richmond Bay Presbyterians, that he made great efforts to procure a minister for them.

In the following year the first Presbytery in Pictou County met, with Revs. Macgregor, Ross and Brown as ministers—one of whom, Rev. Mr. Ross, received a call to the same year, 1771, Rev. James Macgregor, the first Presbyterian missionary to P. E. I., visited Covehead and Princeton, preaching on the Sabbaths, and visiting the homes of the people during the mid-week. At Princeton they then worshipped in a tent.

Throughout the Maritime Provinces and especially among the railway men who knew him best the death of E. P. Gutelius was sincerely mourned. With a splendid reputation which he had built up on other large railways, Mr. Gutelius was appointed general manager of the Canadian Government Railways in 1912, and during his five years regime they paid $1,000,000 a year surplus, whereas never before had they paid operating expenses.

In 1917 Mr. Gutelius moved to Montreal to become vice-president of the Delaware and Hudson in charge of operation and traffic and continued in that capacity until his death. He was regarded as a railway executive of exceptional ability.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends took place recently in Gleebe United Church, Ottawa, when Miss Genevieve Mosher, daughter of A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Mrs. Mosher became the bride of Charles Burton Haram of the same city, the Rev. Dr. J. T. Thompson officiating. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home.

Trod Long Trek Guarded by Dog

HALIFAX, Oct. 2.—(C.P.)—Back in their old home here after 1500 mile trek on foot from an ill-fated new homestead in Northern Ontario, Alfred Gogon and his wife are singing praises of their husky dog Wolf, who served as the family watchman and bear-fighter, as well as baggage transport.

Wolf's regular job on the trip from near Saut Ste. Marie, Ont., was to draw their possessions in a cart. Unhappily when night came on the dog kept the proverbial eye open while he slept with his master and mistress on the side of the road.

One night in the Matapedia Valley in Gaspé sounds of a struggle awoke the Gogons in their tent. They found Wolf outside in a fierce struggle with a marauding bear. Gogon killed the bear with a bullet from his rifle and Wolf had a deep gash in his neck bandaged. His battle scars did not prevent the sturdy dog, half wolf and half husky, from leading the little family safely into Halifax.

The Gogons worked at odd jobs on their travels and made many of their meals on wild berries.

Safe with relatives in Halifax, the Gogons told of hardships. They left here 10 years ago and last April had a prosperous farm near the Sault. They estimated their possessions worth $15,000. A forest fire this year burned over their crops and reduced their comfortable home to ashes, destroying their livestock and agricultural implements.

Wolf proved his mettle in that disaster.

Tethered in a shed, Wolf gnawed through a leash in time to awaken his mistress and warn her of the approaching fire, then raced to the fields to bring Gogon on the run.

With $60 between them, the discouraged couple piled blankets, a tent, a rifle and the few odds and ends saved from the fire on to the dogcart and started for Halifax.

BENNETT made good before; he will do so again.

Writes Tribute To Mary Jones

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(C.P.)—Mrs. Mary Cadwalader Rawle Jones, widow of Frederick Rhinelander Jones, died in London after a brief illness. Mrs. Jones, who was 84 years old, lived in this city. Formerly a consultant to American and English publishers, she was a sister-in-law of Edith Wharton, novelist, who was born Edith Newbold Jones. She was the mother of Mrs. Beatrix Farrand, former consulting landscape gardener to Yale University.

The Herald Tribune writes editorially of her death: "She had the questioning mind, and with its turn for spiritual adventure there went a quick sympathy for every friend moved to exercise his or her wits in the pursuit of light. And her friends included the most diverse types—Henry James and Marton Crawford, Henry Adams and John La Farge. She did little writing herself but she was a happy stimulus to peers on the stage.

"It is impossible to bid her farewell without a tribute to one of her finest traits, her unquenchable courage. As her birthdays added up she seemed to renew the resilience of her prime, to grow more spirited, more sparkling and more resolute. To the end she was indomitable."
