

Woman's Realm :- Social and Personal :- Fashions :- Literature

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Whenever Baby is constipated, colicky, fretful - he needs this remedy. Know the genuine by Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

Etiquette
By Roberts Lee

Q. When one receives a wedding invitation or an announcement, is a gift obligatory?

A. An invitation requires a gift, but an announcement does not.

Q. When do men usually make their social calls?

A. On Sunday afternoons and on any convenient evening during the week.

Q. What is a corsage bouquet?

A. A bouquet of flowers fastened on the bodice of the gown.

Minard's Linctol for Coughs & Colds.

Household Hints
By Roberts Lee

PEARL BUTTONS

To restore pearl buttons to their original brightness, rub them with a little olive oil to take away the blurred appearance; then sprinkle with nail powder and rub well with a chamolisk skin.

SUNSTROKE

The weakest part of the spine is at the back of the neck. When in danger of sunstroke see that the back of the neck is well protected from the sun's rays.

BOILING MEAT

Use a spoon for turning the meat when boiling it, as a fork will prick it and render it dry and insipid.

Dorothy Dix Letter Box

A New Point of View for Discouraged Spinster. What Kind of Girl Should a Boy Seek?—The Best Cure for an Insanely Jealous Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been working for a company for sixteen years with an unbroken record. During this time death has robbed me of mother, sister and many who were very dear to me, which leaves me very lonely. At my sister's death I had to assume the responsibility of her children and support them. They have grown up and married and, while they are kind to me, I feel it from a sense of duty and that hurts me. I gave them everything, the first place in my heart, my work, my money. Another thing that hurts me is that I have never had a boy friend. I never even had a date. People seem to care nothing for me except for the favors I do for them. If I did not do little acts of kindness I don't suppose they would know that I was alive.

I am so discouraged and life seems so dull that I feel it unbearable. Is there any hope for me?

WRETCHED.

Answer: There is every hope for you, Wretched, if you will only brace up and quit pitying yourself. That is your trouble. You have doped up yourself on tears so long that you only see the world as a vale of woe and you the most miserable figure in it.

You have entirely lost your perspective, and what you need is to get a new and true outlook on the world and your position in it. Let's begin by analyzing your situation.

You have lost your mother and sister and other members of your family and it leaves you lonely. That is a very real sorrow, but it is one that comes to every human being. "There is no heartstone how so e'er defended, but has its vacant chair." There is no family circle that remains unbroken. There is not one of us who has not wept above a grave.

If all whom death has robbed of a loved one went about lamenting as you do and nursing their grief, the world would be such a dark and dreary place that no one could live in it. But the brave do not do this. They put their sorrows from them. They take their courage in both hands and go on about the business of life, saddened, of course, but realizing that there is still much joy and happiness for them. So emulate their example and instead of coddling your grief put it out of your mind. Forget it.

You stepped in and took a mother's and a father's place to your orphaned nieces and nephews. That was a fine and noble thing to do and you should be proud of yourself when you think that you helped make fine men and women out of them. You say they are kind to you but they do not make a fuss over you. They have got married and gone about their own affairs and are more interested in their husbands and wives and children than they are in you. Well, that's life. You can't change that. They are treating you just as they would have done their own mother if she had lived. Just as your own children would have treated you if you had had any. You have no cause for complaint there.

You wait that you had never attracted men and you have never had a chance to marry. Are all the married women you know so invariably happy that you feel that you have missed the only thing worth having in not getting a husband? Just reflect that you might have drawn a husband who was a drunkard or a juve or a brute out of the matrimonial grab bag and that if you have possibly missed great happiness you have certainly escaped probable misery.

As for saying that you have to win the friendship and liking of people by doing nice things for them, so do we all. Not one of us has a friend that we have not had to win and do not hold by showering little attentions and courtesies upon them, by continually doing things for them that show that we love and appreciate them. There is nothing to be pessimistic about there.

On the other hand you have a good job, and let me tell you that there are few more potent sources of happiness than work, and that the woman who is able to stand on her own feet and earn her own living and who is free and independent is a mighty lucky lady and she should be down on her knees returning thanks to Heaven for her good fortune instead of bemoaning her fate.

Furthermore, you have these nieces and nephews who are bound to you by ties of gratitude and you have plenty of friends, so why not enjoy the good the gods have sent you?

Why not be so cheerful and chirpy that people will like to have you around because you are such good company? Why not spend your money in buying yourself pretty clothes and the little luxuries a woman enjoys? Why not get a leave of absence and take a little trip and fill your mind with fresh gay things to think about?

Why not think of yourself as a fortunate woman instead of a miserable one? If you will only do that and quit pitying yourself you won't be lonely and discouraged. You will be chipper as a sandboy. I know hundreds of jolly, interesting, bachelor women who haven't half the blessings that you have and they never think of talking about being lonely or discouraged.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of a girl who won't kiss a fellow when he has been taking her out for two weeks? Does that mean that she is bored with him and does not want to see him again? Should a girl be easy to make friends with and should she make any advances? Does the refined, ladylike, conventional girl really get anywhere? Is the lady of leisure a better hit than the working girl? Is the good-natured girl who is jolly and easy to get along with, and with the smile that won't come off, the kind that a boy should look for? Should a girl talk to a fellow about her other boy friends?

ARGUING JACK AND JILL.

Answer: Well, Jack and Jill, I should think you might go up the hill and come down again many times before you settled all of these problems, but here is what I think about them:

I don't think it means that a girl is bored with a boy and doesn't want to see him any more if she refuses to kiss him, even if he has spent two weeks time dangling around her. To my mind it merely indicates that she is a modest, refined, discriminating young woman who doesn't indulge in promiscuous vulgar petting. And I think if the boy is a gentleman he respects her for it.

Certainly a girl should be easy to make friends with. There is no place for the stand-offish, high-and-mighty maidens in these days, but that doesn't mean that she should pick up boys on the street or begin flirtations with strangers.

The refined, ladylike, conventional girl may not get to as many wild parties as the Sheba, but she gets to the altar oftener.

The working girls as a rule have far more beaux and dates than the society girls because they are thrown more immediately in contact with men. The amiable, good-natured, jolly girl is undoubtedly the type that a boy

For The Cook

PRUNE PIE

Cook one pound of prunes in water to cover well, as you would for sauce. When tender, remove stones, and sweeten to taste. Cover a deep pie plate with pastry, turn in the prunes. Sprinkle a little nutmeg over the top (if you like the flavor) cover with a top crust and bake until crust is browned and well done. Economical and easily prepared. Also delicious either warm or cold.

A Morning Smile

THE PATIENT SAILORS

The dear old lady stood on the cliff watching the revolving beacon on the lighthouse. "How very patient sailors are!" she exclaimed. "The wind has blown out that light at least a dozen times, and they still keep on lighting it again."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mabey of Tryon. Her many young friends are very glad to welcome her back and renew old friendships.

The annual Sunday school picnic of the Tryon and Crapaud United churches was held Thursday on the field of Mr. Arthur Leard on the Crapaud Road. The weather was fine, and both grown up and children enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Thomas and Mr. Willard Thomas were visitors to St. Eleanor's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell, Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Master Kenneth were Sunday visitors to Preetown.

A full house was in attendance at Yeo's Movies "Should a Girl Marry?" at Victoria on Wednesday evening and everyone seemed satisfied that the show was a good one.

Mr. Alden Thomas of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Oxford, N. S., is now spending his holidays at his home in Tryon.

Miss Katy MacDonald of Rose Valley, P. E. I. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Bell of Tryon.

Miss Edith Lord of Summerside, P. E. I. is spending her holidays very pleasantly at her home in Tryon.

Mrs. Neuten Howatt has returned to Searletown, P. E. I., after spending three weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Maynard Fay of Tryon.

Several Tryoners attended the Orange tea at Mt. Herbert on Friday July 12th, and enjoyed a very pleasant outing.

His many friends in Tryon are glad to know that Mr. George MacWilliams of North Tryon is convalescing very nicely after his recent operation for appendicitis and hope to see him home again very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald of Tryon were recent visitors to Crapaud.

Mrs. Janie Muttart has returned to Victoria after spending a couple of weeks in Cape Traverse with her sister, Mrs. Gordon Dowd.

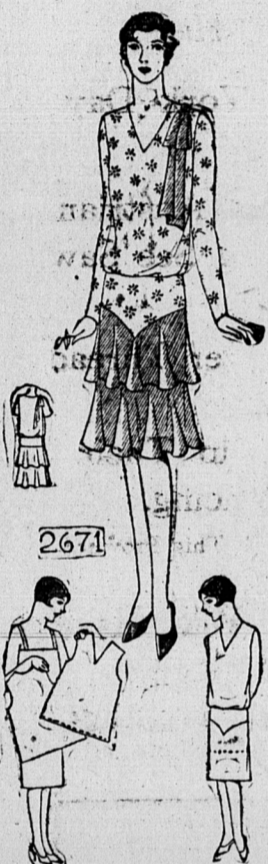

Little Miss Mary Dalton of St. Eleanor's is spending a pleasant visit in Tryon the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacPhee.

And so like the man Coming in from swimming, I'm Drawing near my clothes.

What the Fashionable Are Wearing

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

By Anabelle Worthington

The tiered frock is so smart when the tiers are cleverly placed so as to assure slenderness as in Style No. 2671.

It combines printed and plain cotton voile in cool green tones. It is an excellent dress for the business woman to wear to office, as it will stand constant tubbing and always appear fresh and new.

The shaped hip yoke with deep pointed outline at front is what makes it so desirable for the woman who demands a slender silhouette. The molded bodice is collarless in Vionnet neckline with the smart shoulder bow of the plain voile.

The cost will surprise you. You'll be simply amazed at the saving. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Navy blue georgette crepe is another lovely idea for office or travel. Printed handkerchief linen, printed lawn plain sheer pastel linen, and checked gingham, particularly in orchid and white are cool summery suggestions.

Printed rajah, shantung in plain or printed, crepe de chine in plain or printed, flowered chiffon and crepe Elizabeth are suitable smart fabrics for its development.

The long sleeves are dart-fitted below the elbows, but may be omitted and worn sleeveless by piping armholes.

Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department. The New Fashion Magazine is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern.

No. 2671. Size.....

Name.....

Street Address.....

City..... State.....

Gleanings From Tryon

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jajole and little son of North Adams, Mass., arrived home on Wednesday of last week to spend their vacation the guests of her mother, Mrs. (Dr.) Dougherty, Victoria.

Miss Aletha Mabey, nurse in training in Moncton General Hospital is spending her vacation with her parents

Millions of Women Wouldn't be Without It

An assured hygienic service at a small cost

Doctors and nurses have no hesitation in urging women to use Kotex, the New and Improved Sanitary Napkin, because they know it will protect against serious consequences that may easily follow times of hygienic distress.

Kotex is really more than a sanitary napkin. It is a hygienic service to millions of women. Besides, it assures peace of mind and comfort.

No embarrassment when buying. Just say Kotex at any drug, dry goods or departmental store. Regular size 60c for box of a dozen. Super-size 75c. Directions in every package.

MADE IN CANADA

KOTEX
Sanitary Napkins

5 Features of the New and Improved Kotex

1. Softer gauze ends chafing. Pliable filler absorbs amazingly.
2. Rounded and tapered. No evidence of sanitary protection.
3. Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly by a new and patented process.
4. Adjust it to your needs—thinner, narrower, as required.
5. It is easily disposed of. No unpleasant laundry.

Mary Astor and the delightful bathroom inspired by this lovely Fox star.

"Lovely smooth skin has quickest appeal" says Richard Wallace, director for FIRST NATIONAL

SATIN-SMOOTH SKIN—its lovely youthful freshness touches the heart! What a thrill grips the audience when the close-up reveals the exquisite perfection of the screen star's skin.

Knowing this, motion picture directors make flawless "studio skin" a first essential, for the screen star must constantly face the glaring close-up lights.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 451 important actresses, including all stars. 442 of these use this fragrant, white soap.

All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

"A smooth skin—'studio skin'—is one of the most important assets a screen star has. Like every girl and even more than most girls I have to guard my skin. I always use Lux Toilet Soap—it's lovely."

Mary Astor

MARIE PREVOST is considered one of the most alluring stars in Hollywood. "To find a soap as delightful as the choice soaps you get in Paris, is a joy. Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin such satiny smoothness," says this fascinating star.

RUTH TAYLOR, the famous little blonde who stars with Paramount, says... "I guard my skin as my most precious possession and know that Lux Toilet Soap treats it gently."

NINE out of ten screen stars use it for satin-smooth skin.

Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto.

LUX Toilet SOAP... 10¢

FAREWELL GATHERING

On Saturday, June the Fifteenth, the young people of Savage Harbor assembled in the schoolroom to bid farewell to Miss Rose Piggott one of the most popular young ladies in the district, in the event to enter a training school for nurses. A suitable address was read by Mr. Cyril Morrison and a Parker Pen and pencil set was presented by Miss M. MacDonald. Miss Piggott, in a short reply, thanked the young people for so kindly remembering her. Ice cream and cake were then enjoyed by all and the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. The following is the address:

Miss Rose Piggott, Savage Harbor, Dear Miss Piggott. We, the young people of Savage Harbor learn with regret of your intended departure from our midst. We have gathered here this evening to bid adieu, and to extend to you our best wishes for your future success.

During the short period that we have been with you we have been a great factor in the welfare of the community, social and otherwise. What victories and triumphs will be yours the future alone can tell, but if your assiduity and perseverance in your duties will be in the near future as they have been in the past we feel certain that you will ever be successful in your new field of endeavour. We now ask you to accept this small gift as a token of the team in which you are held. Again we wish to extend to you our wishes for your success and we assure you that your return to Savage Harbor at any time will be looked forward to with joy.

Signed on behalf of the Young People of Savage Harbor.

C. A. MORRISON
M. E. MACDONALD

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a woman who is so fiendishly jealous that she makes my life a hell to me. If I go to the corner drug store I am put through the third degree when I get back and then she calls it up to find out if I have told her the truth. Every letter I get is opened and censored before I am permitted to see it. When I bring a book home to study she throws it into the furnace. I have tried every way from kindness even to cruelty to change matters, but nothing helps.

What can I do?

C. H. P.

Answer: How many trains a day leave your town?

DOROTHY DIX.

Well, Jack and Jill, I should think you might go up the hill and come down again many times before you settled all of these problems, but here is what I think about them:

I don't think it means that a girl is bored with a boy and doesn't want to see him any more if she refuses to kiss him, even if he has spent two weeks time dangling around her. To my mind it merely indicates that she is a modest, refined, discriminating young woman who doesn't indulge in promiscuous vulgar petting. And I think if the boy is a gentleman he respects her for it.

Certainly a girl should be easy to make friends with. There is no place for the stand-offish, high-and-mighty maidens in these days, but that doesn't mean that she should pick up boys on the street or begin flirtations with strangers.

The refined, ladylike, conventional girl may not get to as many wild parties as the Sheba, but she gets to the altar oftener.

The working girls as a rule have far more beaux and dates than the society girls because they are thrown more immediately in contact with men. The amiable, good-natured, jolly girl is undoubtedly the type that a boy

Christie's ARROWROOTS

An Ideal Baby Food

Roll Christie's Arrowroot Biscuits fine and mix with hot water or milk and a little sugar. Safe, Pure and Nourishing for babies.

In the store or on the phone, always ask for

Christie's Biscuits
The Standard of Quality Since 1853