Eddie Shore To Be Out Of Bruins Line-up For Season, Expectation

BOSTON, Nov. 29—(AP) —Unless forced to do otherwise, because of further injuries to defencemen, Boston Bruins will complete the remainder of the National Hockey League season without the services of Eddie Shore, their outstanding star for the last 13 years.

Manager Art Ross made this statement today, despite the fact that Shore is under contract to play in all home games after Dec. 15, and before if needed. He failed to appear for last night's game against Toronto, which resulted in a 6-2 victory for the Brins.

"Eddie has a tremendous investment in his Springfield International-American League Club and we respect his wishes to give it all possible attention," Ross said.

"Therefore he has played his last game for us unless injuries to other defence players compel us to demand that he fulfill his agreement. The pre-season injury to Jack Crawford was the reason Shore played in our first three home games. We wanted him again last night, but he let us down.

"Shore had invested about $40,000 when he came to us last July and told us that the International-American League officials would not give him the Springfield franchise until he had straightened himself out with the Bruins.

"Realizing Eddie's predicament, the Bruins' management tried to help him in every way and arranged a liberal contract for him —$200 for all home games and $300 a game for all of the post-season playoffs. He expressed keen delight when he signed it."

Eddie Shore, outstanding Bruins defenceman for 13 years, who is probably out of the lineup for the season. Shore will give full attention to his Springfield International-American League Club.

INSPIRATION

(By Ross Campbell)

Our Country calls an dwe must go
Into a land, we do not know,
And many hearts are filled with woe
As we face a crazed and driven foe.

Dead Soldiers of the last sad fray,
So still ye lie beneath the clay,
Yet in our ears your voices ring
And to us now they seem to sing.

"Arise young men and take your stand
For King and Country, Motherland;
Let love of country, pride of race
Encourage you to danger face.

"Let our brave sacrifice inspire
Oh! may it stir the fighting fire!
Set not aside our memory
But let it help win victory.

Oh! volunteer for service now
Making a high and Solemn vow:
That if in death thy duty's done
What matter—if the battle's won!"

Eskimos Little Affected By War Upheaval

OTTAWA, Nov. 28—With Canada at war there are some 7,000 ardent "pacifists" in the northern regions of the Dominion completely aloof from the war effort. As a matter of fact, the Eskimo population knows nothing about the war and historically is probably the world's most unwarlike race, according to two outstanding authorities on those northern people.

The Eskimos, say Major D. L. McKeand, chief of the Dominion Government's annual eastern Arctic patrol, and Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, are survivors of the patrarchal age, and because they have no tribes, they have no nationalism.

Eskimo life is based on the family unit rather than on the tribal unit. Eskimos live in small groups, moving about the vast expanse of snow, ice and tundra. Their quarrels are family disputes rather than clashes of rivalry between different tribes or different peoples. An Eskimo just doesn't understand war, and is a pacifist of temperament and tradition.

The war has little effect on the Eskimo. His natural habitat is unlikely to become a battlefield since Arctic ice floes could defeat the most powerful navy and Arctic blizzards, the biting cold and the shifting snow drifts could rout an army. There is no forage for soldiers, no fuel to be had.

War touches the Eskimo hunter only in a way he cannot understand—economically. When he brings his fur catch to the white trader in wartime to exchange it for such necessities of life as matches, rifle, ammunition, flour and household goods, it is beyond his understanding to find that he must give more furs than usual for fewer goods in return. He knows nothing of a wartime decline in world fur markets and a sharp increase in commodity prices.

Girls Collect Pay-off For Strange Man

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 29 —(AP) — Four Washington girls collected a daily double pay-off of $1,736.30 today —for a total stranger.

Here's the story as told by Corrinne Dulin, Edna Phelps, Edna Chambers and Cora McAllister, employees of a telegraph company in Washington.

En route to the Bowie race track, they stopped at a lunch counter. While they talked about racing, a strange man approached them and said:—

"I have never seen you before but you look both honest and lucky so I wish you would play a daily double for me."

On a slip of paper he wrote "Shaillen and Rib Roast" and his name, J. McWhorter, Blackstone Hotel, Washington. He didn't bother to get the girls' names.

Wrapping $2 around the note, he said:—

"Neither of these horses has a chance and I never win. But if your luck should carry me through, bring the money to the hotel. Bring along your boy friends and we'll have a real party."

The girls bought McWhorter's daily double ticket, but they didn't leen won the first race at $37.40 for play either horse themselves. Shaillen $2 and Rib Roast the second at $43.80 for $2. McWhorter was one of eight people who won the $1,736.30 double.

Important Law Suit Opens In N. B.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Nov. 28 — One of the most important law suits in New Brunswick's history opened before Mr. Justice Richards in Supreme Court today. It is the case of Gatineau Power Company vs. Fraser Companies, Ltd., an action for recovery of more than $500,000 alleged to be due under a power contract made in 1926.

Most of today's proceedings was confined to the preliminary address of C. F. Inches, Saint John, one of the plaintiff Company's' battery of counsel headed by G. H. Montgomery, Montreal. Not until well along in the afternoon was the first witness, C. Gordon Gale, president of the Gatineau Power Company, called to the stand.

Then, while Mr. Gale sat and listened, Mr. Montgomery and another well known lawyer, W. N. Tilley, Toronto, senior counsel for the defendant company, cited legal authorities in a brisk debate about what questions should be put to Mr. Gale and how.

Mr. Justice Richards remarked that the essential thing seemed to be to ascertain whether the defendant company was liable to pay for only the power which it received from the plaintiff company, or to pay for the power which the plaintiff company was obliged to make available under terms of the contract.

Saint John Sees Entry In League

AMHERST, N. S., Nov. 29 —(CP) —Inclusion of a Saint John hockey team in the central section was sought tonight by Moncton delegates at a meeting of the league here. No decision was reached, and the circuit members were to meet again Dec. 11.

The Moncton representatives asked the formation of a league that would include teams from Moncton, Sackville, Amherst, Sussex and Saint John.

Other delegates objected to bringing Saint John into the league, claiming the long jump to this city would make things difficult for the other clubs. The Moncton club was to discuss the proposal further at a meeting next week, pending the Dec. 11 meeting of the section.

Clubs represented tonight were Moncton, Sackville, Springhill and Amherst.

Education Reduced In Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(AP)—War has reduced higher education, except in technical schools, to a minimum in Germany while some student doctors are stepping into positions of physicians and surgeons called to the front.

In the first days of the war, as the number of men called to the colors mounted, most classrooms had to be closed because of a lack of teachers.

On the university level only a half dozen schools remain open—all others including the famous old universities of Heidelberg and Freiburg, lying close to the French border, are closed.

Those students who have not been drafted for army duty—a very small number—may pursue their studies insofar as professors are available.

Boys drawn out of upper grades of the German equivalent of high school to go to war and having only a few months to go to graduation were presented with diplomas without taking examinations.

The technical schools—there are oly two open out of more than a dozen—are jammed with lads being hurried through studies in all types of engineering, chemistry and related subjects important to the Reich and war.
