THE ICE BOATS.—The boats left Cape Traverse at 8.20 a.m. yesterday with 24 bags mail, and Tormentine at 8.25 with 51 bags. There was no crossing from this side on Saturday owing to the high wind and severe weather. Sunday, however, 6 boats with 42 bags left Cape Traverse at 12.30, arriving at Tormentine at 4.00. A special train took the mails to Sackville.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.—The funeral of the late Mr. George Malt-hews took place from his late residence, King Square, yesterday afternoon at 2.30 in the People's cemetery. It was largely attended, and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Rev. Mr. Dawson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated. The following were the pall-bearers: Messrs E. H. Beer, F. H. Beer, E. Chandler, S. Lowe, J. F. Whear and S. C. Moore.

APPRECIATION.—Mr. J. F. Baker, North Lake, who has contributed a number of excellent poems to the press, at the suggestion of some friends, recently sent a poem to Dr. Andrew MacPhail, editor of the University Magazine. The Guardian has a full and pleasant account of it in its issue of the 26th. The sample of it was so kind as to submit to me, has many of the qualities of real poetry. If you have much else as good as this I should certainly advise you to publish it, and I hope you will send me a copy when it is done. I should like to have the privilege of reading more of your manuscripts, but this is a pleasure I must deny myself, as I hope to go overseas in the course of the next few weeks. I am afraid you over-estimate the value of a college education. Such a course does not make a man a poet and it usually spoils him for a farmer or mechanic.

IN PROBATE COURT.—The St John Globe gives the following case now in the Probate Court:—Estate of Florence Annie Kierstead, late of Grand View, Queen's County, P.E.I., married woman. The deceased was the wife of Jacob Whitfield Kierstead, since deceased, who at the time of his death was domiciled at Hampton, King's County, N.B., but at the time of his wife's death they had their domicile at Grand View, P.E.I. She died in December, 1898. There were two policies of insurance on her husband's life for $1,000, payable to her, but "with reversion to her husband." Subsequently, her husband married again, he made the policies payable to his second wife. The company now requires a release from the first wife's estate. She died without issue, and whatever interest she had in the two policies then went to the husband, Alvan Hovey Chipman, of Hampton, broker, having been appointed one of the administrators of the said Jacob Whitfield Kierstead's estate, on his petition he is appointed administrator. The value of the husband's interest in such policy is technical only, and is placed at the nominal value of $100. Mr. Horace A. Porter, proctor.

MR. HUSKINS

COMING

"DAVID GARRICK"

BY THE FAMOUS PLAYERS

MISTOCK COLLEAGUE FOR A BURGLAR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 30.—Two pistol shots and screams roused "professors' row" at the University of Minnesota to-day. Members of the faculty in half dress hurried out, finding Professor Earl Nyral dying on the lawn of Professor W. F. Allen. He died four hours later.

Professor Allen, who had hastily dressed, was kneeling over the wounded man, trying in vain to stop the blood flow from a bullet wound.

"Oh, I shot him. I thought he was a burglar," Professor Allen said.

In a moment of consciousness, Professor Nyral said he had tried to get into the Allen house, thinking it was his own.

Professor Allen told his story to the police and to the Grand Jury and both absolved him from blame, so he is free to-night.

"We heard a noise on the porch," said the professor, "I got my revolver and went down. Out on the porch was a man trying to force his way in. I shouted to the man: 'What are you doing here?' Instead of replying he turned and ran across the lawn. 'Halt!' I cried after him as I opened the door. But he did not halt, and then I fired and he fell. How was I to know?"

PERMANENT COLD FRAMES.

The making of permanent cold frames is not usually practised, but their use is feasible and when compared with the cost of replacing sideboards each year they are really the most economical. Wm. Ketchin figures that to build cold frames out of wood and replace the planks once would more than offset the cost of making permanent frame out of concrete.

What is known in the builders' trade as a hrib is used as a back-ground upon which to lay the concrete, but possibly ordinary heavy wire screen would do as well. Post holes are dug and iron pipes set in the ground below the frost line, that is, a couple of feet down from the surface. These pipes are filled with cement and a little cement put in the bottom of the holes to aid in keeping the pipes upright. About every eight feet these pipes are put in and the hrib stretched at the proper height between them, supported temporarily by stakes to keep them upright. The cement is then plastered about an inch thick on one side of the hrib from the stakes. After this concrete has become firm, the wooden stakes are pulled and an inch of concrete put on the other side of the hrib. This is formed a two inch permanent plank of cement for the side walls of the cold frames.

The concrete mixture is one part of cement to four parts coarse sand. Mixed with this is lime putty to the amount of about 20 per cent. of the Reid, in New England Homestead.

"I'm sorry I missed that lecture." Do not have this to say about Rev. Dr. McMillan's lecture on "Day Dreams." It is too good to miss. 8463-2-2ml

DON'T MISS THE SPECIAL SKATE and hockey match between the Bankers of Charlottetown and the Millionaires of Summerside in Crystal Rink, Wednesday, Feb. 3rd. Train leaves Charlottetown at 4.30. 8391

SKATE WEDNESDAY.—Coffee and cake will be served at the skate for the poor on Wednesday night at St Dunstan's College Rink. Come and bring a friend. 8395

GREAT ENJOYMENT.—Those who attended the Arena rink last evening had a real feast of enjoyment, the ice was perfect, the music excellent and the company most pleasant. Presumably the largest crowd of the season attended. It looks, judging from last night's crowd, that rink skating is more popular in Charlottetown than ever.

MILTON CONCERT POSTPONED.—The concert which was to have been held at Milton on Thursday evening by St. Paul's Young People's Association, will be held on Monday evening instead. The concert promises to be quite a success, and it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out.

KENSINGTON ELECTION.—The civic elections, which took place on January 26th, proved a great success. Following is a list of the candidates with number of votes polled by each: Dr. F. W. Jardine, 94; John W. Warren, 92; James F. Proffitt, 88; Thomas Donahue, 79; Andrew Bonness, 68; Alex. Caseley, 59; Mr. Donald Darrach, of Mill Valley, by acclamation. The day proved very exciting, but order prevailed throughout. As there are two lumber dealers on the Council the sidewalks will no doubt get justice now. It is the intention to put in concrete sidewalks in the early summer, while Mr. Andrew Jardine, of Mill Valley, is trying to organize a company to open up an electric light plant, which, if accomplished, will be of no little benefit to the town.

THE PRINCE EDWARD.—The crowds of people who attended the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday saw a first-class program of entertainment. "The Mysterious Rose" was the principal photo-play, and of its quality it is sufficient to say that Grace Cunard and Francis Ford were the leading performers. It was a startling novel two-part detective drama of the "Lady Raffles" series, and the best of the series yet produced by these two celebrated artists. It was entertaining from start to finish and was loudly applauded during its presentation. "The Birthday Ring" was an excellent dramatic photo-play with a happy ending. It was fraught with incident and was altogether an interesting production. An "Eclair Weekly" shows depicted some of the best "European War" views yet shown in Charlottetown, besides many other scenes relating to war and Britain. "A New Item" and "A Bachelor's Finish" gave everybody an opportunity for a hearty laugh during their presentation. Mr. Huskins' selection yesterday was "beatiful ballad," "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" and as usual he sang in a most excellent manner.

B. Y. P. U.—At the Baptist Church last night the B. Y. P. U. had a most interesting evening. The subject was Favourite Bible Characters. Mr. J. P. Gardner was the leader and introduced the subject in an able address on the Power of Personality. There is something in the human heart which works like the hero. History is the record of great personalities. Mr. E. D. Stegus gave a fine paper on Moses. He was his favourite Bible character. Moses was a great and powerful genius, the greatest man the world has ever seen. Miss Wadman gave a valuable paper on Lydia, who was the first convert to Christianity in Europe. She was a great missionary, as every woman should be. Miss Alexandra Scott read a paper of much excellence on Paul, the Apostle to the Gentiles. He brought things to pass and yet maintained his noble character. He was a God enthused man. If she was inclined to hero worship she would put Paul on the pedestal. Mr. A. F. Webster spoke ably on Caleb, who was one of the twelve spies selected by Moses. He and Joshua brought back a good report. It takes a man to quiet the mob. It takes a man to take possession of a land filled with giants. Caleb did that. He did not look for an easy job. Miss Alma Yeo took John, the beloved Apostle of the very highest that is in Christianity. He was the Apostle of love. Mr. Ross Bethune spoke pleasingly on Andrew. He was the first disciple of Jesus and he was always trying to bring some one to Jesus. He brought Peter to Christ and that meant a great deal. Andrew is only mentioned six times in the Bible and each time he takes his glory from the person of Christ. Everybody was highly pleased with the meeting last night. Next Monday Pastor Fash will conduct the lesson

GERMAN OFFICER TELLS WHY THEY RAN AWAY.

BERLIN, via London, Jan. 30.—(4.08 a.m.)—A letter written by an officer on one of the German cruisers describes the naval battle in the North Sea, commenting on the long ranges, from 3 to 12 miles, at which modern naval battles are fought. Telling of the loss of the German cruiser Blucher, he says:

"She was shot to pieces after sustaining ongoing trouble which crippled her. We could not assist the Blucher, as all our ships, in view of the triple or four-fold superiority of the British would have suffered the same fate. There was no possibility of helping her. A torpedo boat attack would only have resulted in greater losses."
