ORDAINED YESTERDAY—Yesterday morning, at the Catholic Church at Palmer's Road, Rev. Richard Ellsworth, D.D., was solemnly ordained by the Rt. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, D.D., Bishop of Charlottetown. The service, which was a most impressive one, was largely attended.

NEAR DROWNING—A possible drowning accident was averted, Friday evening at the Marine wharf, when a young lad, named Billie MacDonald, fell between the cruiser Ville D'Ys and the wharf. A sailor of that cruiser, however, plunged into the water and rescued the young lad. Neither the rescuer nor the rescued suffered any ill-effects of their experience.

EN ROUTE TO LABRADOR—A party of three aviators arrived in Charlottetown last evening from Boston, en route to Labrador. The party, consisting of Mr. L. M. Lombard and pilots Alex. W. Bright and Charles J. Hubbard, Jr., arrived in two sea-planes, a Waco and a Moth, making a safe landing in the harbour after a direct flight from Boston, which they left about 9 a.m. yesterday. The fliers, who are registered at the Queen Hotel, leave this morning for their destination. They will be engaged in a two months' expedition exploring Northern Labrador in connection with Dr. Grenfell's Mission.

GAVE ADDRESS—Mr. W. J. Callaghan, Ottawa, Secretary of the Civil Service Federation of Canada, addressed a very enthusiastic group of Civil Servants in the Legion Hall on Thursday evening. Mr. Callaghan, a former Islander, is a pleasing and most convincing speaker, and in his short address gave a concise synopsis of the workings of the federation—what it has accomplished in the past and what it hoped to accomplish in the future. In his closing remarks he strongly advised every Civil Servant to become a member of an Association affiliated with the Federation and pointed out the benefits to be derived from such membership. At the conclusion of the address, in a hearty vote of thanks moved by Mr. S. T. Gallant, Supervisor of Fisheries, and seconded by Mr. Leo Bradley, of the Preventive Service, the appreciation of the Civil Servants present was expressed and extended to the speaker who replied in a fitting manner.

CHURCH SERVICES

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Memorial service in the Baptist Church yesterday morning was a deeply impressive one, the occasion being the unveiling of a beautiful memorial tablet "in loving memory of those associated with this Church and place who gave their lives in the great war, and in honor of those who served." The speaker was the Rev. (Colonel) J. H. MacDonald, D. D., C. B. E. during the war, Director of Canadian Chaplain services. Dr. MacDonald is now Professor of Church History at Acadia University. Colonel Eric MacDonald, whose fine overseas record is recalled by many, is a son of Dr. MacDonald. Dr. MacDonald, in his address, said we hold them all in affectionate remembrance. First, for their own sake. They are personally worthy of our honor. It was a heavy demand our country made upon them to leave their pursuits and their prospects to face the horrors of modern warfare, to face maiming or death on land, in sea, and air. They did not shrink from the call. They endured untold hardships and met them heroically and with undaunted spirit, and when the call came, they freely gave their lives. It was not that they loved war; they hated it, but in it they found a new enfranchisement. We do well to honor them for the sake of those who come after us. Succeeding generations will ask concerning this memorial and we need to tell them that there grew up in our midst real heroes. We want them to realize that the heroic victories are not confined to past generations and to countries remote from our own. In our own homes and schools there grew up boys who developed chivalry unequalled in the crusades and valor unsurpassed in Greece or Rome. We need these memorials to show us that warfare is a futile instrument for settling international disputes; that nations entering upon war, whether victor or vanquished, must stagger under an intolerable burden of debt and it has demonstrated as never before the unpardonable wastage of human life. The speaker told of being present at the dedication of Menin Gate Memorial in 1927. The Gate was erected to the memory of the men who fell in the Ypres salient and who had never been buried. To bring that carnage home and to make it more real Dr. MacDonald said: "Draw a line from Charlottetown to New Haven and you have the base of the Ypres salient, then make an arc of a circle five miles to the Northumberland Strait shore and you visualize the spot where the enemy put forth his greatest effort to break through to the channel ports. In that area a million Britishers were wounded; as many fell as there are men and boys in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island or as many to teach our incoming young people, so that they may appreciate the worth of those who did not return from the Great War and catch something of their spirit and carry into the pursuits of peace something of the devotion and sacrifice of war. For our own sake we should honor our fallen comrades. There are some things about the war we do well to forget, but we cannot forget such generous sacrifice as they exhibited without doing violence to our own souls. The man who witnesses self sacrificing devotion and honors it finds his soul nourished by an unseen hand that administers to him bread and wine, and such a service as this becomes in a measure sacramental. These young people went from our shores to take part in a war to end war. They did not accomplish their mission. Like the Hebrew heroes they all died in faith, not having received the promises. The task was too gigantic for one generation to accomplish. But they laid the foundations in the cement of human blood upon which others can build to the completion of the task. The world war has left unburied as many as the male population of Charlottetown and Summerdale combined. The sacrifice of war is thus vividly brought home to us. These men did not finish their work; they laid the foundations of the temple of peace and committed to us and to those who come after us the superstructure. Rudyard Kipling wrote for a memorial of a Canadian town in which he makes their dead speak to us all: "From little towns on a far land we came To save our honor and a world a-flame, By little towns in a far land we sleep And leave the things we won with you to keep."

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH The singing of Mr. Robert Messervey at both services yesterday was greatly appreciated and his annual visits to his home city are always looked forward to with pleasure. Mr. Messervey's full, clear, and rich voice was seldom heard to better advantage than in his selections yesterday. Rev. Dr. Ramsay was the preacher both morning and evening. His text in the morning was 2 Cor. 4-18. "We look not at the things which are seen but at the things which are not seen. For the things which are seen are temporal but the things which are not seen are eternal." In the evening Dr. Ramsay spoke on Jesus teaching on personal virtues. His text being Matt. 5-48 "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father which is in Heaven is perfect."

SCOUTS Will Go Into Camp On July 14th to 24th Those interested in the Boy Scout movement will be pleased to read the statement of Chief Commissioner Stiles to the effect that there are now 53,000 Boy Scouts in Canada. On his way to arrange for the establishment of a Gilwell Camp near Charlottetown, P.E.I., for the Boy Scouts of the Maritimes, the Commissioner passed through Moncton en route from Ottawa via the Canadian National Railways. This camp, which it is expected, will be opened in July and continue for a period of ten days will also be attended by Boy Scouts from Newfoundland. Commissioner Stiles stated that the work is growing steadily. The camp near Charlottetown will be in charge of Frank E. L. Coombs, of Ottawa, editor of the Boy Scouts Magazine. Previous to taking up Boy Scout work Commissioner Stiles was formerly Dean of the Faculty of applied Science, University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N.B., which post he occupied for about eight years.

SCOTSMEN'S HOLIDAY LONDON, July 5. (British United Press)—A tour of 35,000 miles, at the low cost of 3 cents a mile, has been organized by a party of Scotchmen, who are taking advantage of the appreciation of the English pound in Australia to make a four months tour to the Antipodes. Their trip will cost them little more than $1,000. The lucky Scots, who are 250 in number, will form the Scottish delegation which is to visit Australia in fall on the invitation of the Australian-Scottish societies. The delegates will travel 27,000 miles on sea and more than 8,000 on land, and 3 cents a mile will include steamer fares and accommodation; first class rail and sleeper fare; sight-seeing tours; meals on trains and hotel accommodation throughout the journey.

AEROPLANES PROBE THE PAST LONDON, July 5. (British United Press)—Secrets of antiquity that have remained hidden for centuries are today being brought to the knowledge of men by the aeroplane. In Britain, the Middle East and other historical regions throughout the Empire the airborne camera is revealing details of towns, settlements and works of olden times that are assisting archaeologists mightily in their reconstructions of the world as it was fifteen, twenty or more centuries ago. No aspect of aviation is more picturesque. The aeroplane, essentially a twentieth century invention is frequently the most efficient means available of looking back in to the past. Even to the naked eye details of ancient embankments or earthworks, completely invisible on the ground, sometimes become astonishingly perceptible from the air. The earth may have been turned over countless times by the plough, but from above the ancient outlines can still be glimpsed. The super-sensitive eye of the camera reveals much more, and photographs secured are often found to show down to the smaller details the ground plan of a settlement lost to human ken more than a thousand years ago. Much work was done recently in Britain along the lines of Hadrian's Wall, constructed during the Roman occupation nearly two thousand years ago to keep back the "barbarians" living north of the Tweed. Royal Air Force pilots flew along the line of the wall and took a series of photographs as part of the regular service training of their unit. The results were surprising and antiquaries received them with delight. Four camps, previously unknown, were discovered; parts of the wall and the accompanying earthen rampart were shown in much greater detail than the most
