TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1912

THE LATE BISHOP McDONALD, in Charlottetown will long bless the memory of their kind and good bishop.

In the death of his lordship Bishop McDonald, recorded in yesterday's Guardian, the Roman Catholic Church in the Maritime Provinces has lost one of her most worthy sons and Prince Edward Island a man whom all esteemed very highly. The late Bishop, until his retirement from active duty nearly three years ago through illness, was a prominent figure in the public life of the province. He was a born educationalist and always took an active and helpful part in every movement that tended in any way to the advancement of education in the province. As rector of St. Dunstan's College his wise counsel, his executive ability and his scholarly attainments shone conspicuously and his work will live long in the history of that institution. In the performance of his ecclesiastical duties, he has left a record of wise judgment, impartiality and painstaking devotion to the best interests of the church and his memory will long be cherished throughout the large See of which he was the spiritual overlord.

In his private life as in his official capacity, he was noted for his piety, his charity and his friendliness and the poor of the many parishes throughout the province and particularly those of his immediate charge

Through coming generations the magnificent St. Dunstan's Cathedral in Charlottetown will stand as a memorial to the late Bishop McDonald. Although the movement towards its erection was inaugurated by his immediate predecessor, the late Bishop McIntyre, it remained for him to carry the work to a conclusion and the creditable manner in which it was done will forever bear testimony to his executive ability, his devotion to his church and his untiring energy in carrying out his undertakings.

The late Bishop McDonald visited Rome on two occasions, in 1895 and in 1904, the last visit being extended to the Holy Land. Widely travelled and always a student his was a mind well stored and well fitted for the carrying out of the duties incident to his exalted office and, his earthly ministry closed, he has fallen upon sleep secure in the faith and assured of the faithful servant's "well done."

Of a large family of brothers and sisters two only remain, namely, Mrs. James McPhee of Georgetown and Daniel McDonald of Boston. To these and to the Church which has lost an honored father the Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

A PICTURE OF WAR.

An Artist has given his conception of the Balkan war. On one side is the God of War, horribly cruel of feature, bearing on his shoulders a huge scythe dripping with blood. He is looking over the battlefield, satisfied with his work. Kneeling at his feet with imploring hands and faces upturned to and unheeded by him, are women and children. On the opposite side is the Goddess of Peace, weeping. In the midst is the battlefield strewn with the dead and dying, dismounted cannon, broken guns, horribly mutilated corpses, wounded and dead horses; in the background a city in flames. It is a true picture of war. Emphasizing its truth and forming a text for it, is a press despatch from the correspondent of the London Times who says that fifty thousand men have succumbed to wounds and diseases, during the past three weeks, that is about one in forty of the entire male inhabitants of Bulgaria.

Contrast this picture, and it gives but the faintest idea of the actual horror, with the ordinary newspaper or description of a battlefield is the creature of the literature, the oratory and the poetry of all the past generations, savage and civilized. The actual horror is transformed into a halo of imaginary glory; the dying and the dead are either referred to or are to be found beyond the enemy's lines; bands are playing, banners flying, regiments march past, swinging gracefully into position; the "roar of the guns and the rattle of musketry" is a military chorus without a discordant note. The butchery and the suffering and sorrow are skillfully hidden and instead of the shambles we see a field of glory.

The war spirit abroad in the world today is a relic of savagery and is the one incongruous thing in our civilization. The press, the pulpit and the platform are responsible for it. The glory of war—save the mark—is upheld in utter disregard of its horror.

By a special arrangement with the manufacturers we are supplied with a fresh shipment of Moira chocolates weekly. These chocolates came in bulk and contain every popular flavor or hard and soft with candy, nut, cream and fruit centres. Moira chocolates are the standard sweetmeats and you always find them not more than six days old. Take home a pound tonight. Price 50c. The McKinnon Drug Co., Corner Great George and Kent Sts.

The army and navy are our most elaborate and most costly possession; we emphasize the glory ignoring the sin and the shame and the misery of war with all its attendant suffering. A glance at the Balkans today, in the light of Christian Civilization, should effectually close the mouths of those who glibly and jingoistically talk of the possibility of a European war.

THE GREATEST TAX

A certain philosopher has said that the greatest tax on humanity is not war, strong drink, tobacco or organized superstition. A tax more terrific than any of these is the tax placed upon efficiency through inefficiency. If ninety per cent of our people are thirty per cent inefficient, figure out the increased burden that falls on those who are able and willing to work. The task of civilization is to eliminate the social parasite.

How is he going to be eliminated? This is the great problem for the schools. We must educate for efficiency, for usefulness, not for honors. We pride ourselves on our boys who secure the gold medals, who stand at the head of their classes. And the pride is justifiable. The boy deserves his gold medal who passes through school or college with enough honors to win the medal. But what of the education he received? Has he acquired a working knowledge of the things his life's work will call upon him to utilize and to consider? Is he practical? Does he know the conditions with which he is to grapple? Does he know men?

In every walk of life there are misfits, men born for one calling and thrust into another. There those who know nothing of the glory of doing work for the work's sake, hirelings watching the clock for the hour to quit work. These are the world's greatest burden, the parasites who live on the work of others. And they are made parasites or efficient men and women during the first few years in school.

NOTES.

The fund being raised to erect a monument to General Wolfe has reached a total of $20,000. The present Memorial to Wolfe is a small column erected by the rank and file of the British army quartered in Canada in 1849 and who sacrificed a day's pay in order that they might do honor to the memory of Wolfe.

In the "Mother of Parliaments" a few days ago scenes occurred which would have disgraced a backwoods political meeting in any part of the world. Books were hurled across the floor at opposing speakers and the First Lord of the Admiralty received one in the eye. In the Canadian House of Commons last Monday the methods adopted in the MacDonald election some weeks previously were mercilessly denounced by one party and the defence put up by the other side was that the accusing party had committed similar outrages in the Yukon some years ago. On the one side there was denunciation of a wrong simply because the wrong was done. On the other side there was a supply of very fine stores have so complete a line. Our stock is fresh and reliable. We guarantee all our better rubber goods against any makers defects. Our prices are very reasonable. J. G. Jamieson, Druggist. The Medical Hall. 11-30M.

committed by the opposite political party, on the other there was a condoning of the wrong because it was done by friends. It should not be hard to convince the law-abiding electors of both Great Britain and Canada that partisanship figures far too large and country far too small in the political system of today.

BRIDE FOR A DAY
SEEKS FREEDOM

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 29.—Seymour H. Adams who married Miss Grace I. Wood, a manicurist, after knowing her only twelve hours was to-day being hunted by Cleveland police who charged him with forgery. At the same time his pretty twenty-four-year-old bride of a day formerly manicure in a Euclid avenue barber shop took steps to annul her marriage principally on the allegation that her husband already had one wife.

It took but a day to dispel the bride's love dream. On November 15 Adams dropped into the Euclid avenue barber shop and sat before her to have his nails manicured. As she held his hand he wooed and won her and that night met her with a taxicab, hurried her to the home of the Rev. T. S. McWilliams, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian church and made her his wife.

The next day she heard such stories about her husband that she left him. She heard a story about another wife about terms he is alleged to have served for forgery or embezzlement and that the $39,000 estate which he told her he owned in New York was only a conjuration of his fancy.

HURLED SHOES AT MAGISTRATE'S HEAD.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Nov. 30.—Militant suffragettes today brought about two scenes of extreme violence in which a woman's shoes and a horse whip were used as weapons.

The first outbreak occurred when three of the women, Joyce Locke, Fanny Parker and Mary Pollock, who had been caught last evening in possession of explosives in the Music Hall, where Chancellor Lloyd George was to speak, were brought up before the magistrate.

After hearing the evidence, the Magistrate remanded them for further enquiry. As he informed them of this, Joyce Locke, removed her shoes, and hurled one of them at the magistrate's head and threw the other at the head of the Clerk of the Court. She was promptly committed for contempt of Court.

The second outrage was committed by one of the members of a party of Suffragettes who were waiting at the railway station for the departure of Chancellor Lloyd George. The women mistook the Rev. Forbes Jackson for the Chancellor of the Exchequer in disguise. She lashed the clergyman across the face with a heavy horsewhip, and was at once arrested.

MORASH'S DEATH TO BE INVESTIGATED.

WEST DOVER, November 30.—This settlement is greatly excited over events leading out of the tragic death of Mitchell Morash, some days ago. Morash attended a time at Pollet Cove, about a mile from here on the Peggy's Cove road. The time was annual fishermen's boat hauling up and a number of Dover men had been invited. Morash was not invited, but went to the time, which was held in the evening. There was, it is alleged, some beer there.

Morash left about 3 a. m. for home. He never reached home alive. His body was found under a cliff the next day and the coroner gave a verdict of accidental death.

The friends of the deceased are not satisfied with the verdict and want an investigation. The cliff Morash fell over was about 12 feet high. His friends, or some of them, allege foul play, and a delegation went to the city this week to try and secure an investigation by the attorney-general.

JAPANESE HAVE CABINET CRISIS.

TOKIO, December 1.—A cabinet crisis has arisen over the refusal of the minister of war, Lieutenant-General Uyehe, to accept a cabinet decision rejecting the scheme for increasing the military forces in Korea.

After a number of extraordinary sittings Premier Saio informed the war minister that the cabinet adhered to its position, General Uyehe then indicated his intention to resign.

It is doubtful if the emperor will accept his resignation. The press and general public support the cabinet.

Lieutenant-General Uyehe was appointed minister of war April 3, 1912, to succeed General Ishimoto, whose death occurred the previous day.

TWO BOYS DROWNED IN RIDEAU CANAL.

NAVY DEFEATED ARMY.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—In one of the most stirring football games ever played by the two arms of the national service, the Navy this afternoon on Franklin field defeated the Army by the score of 6 to 0. The midshipman did not need Jack Dalton who won the 1911 and 1900 games for the Navy by field goals, for the Annapolis team had another sure kicker in J. H. Brown, a tall guard, who booted the Navy to victory by two splendid goals for placement. Both goals came in the last period of play from the 23 and 27 yard lines, after it began to look as if the fiery struggle would result in a scoreless tie.

LETTER TO THE FARMER

The business of farming is in the most critical period of its development.

Both the working farmer and the investor in farm lands and securities are seriously studying how to turn farm products into net profits.

There are thousands of farmers in Prince Edward Island alone.

Is it not hard to believe that only one of every five read a farm paper at all?

Only one in five! The other four need the instructions given by farm papers.

The Guardian management has completed arrangements with the publishers of The Canadian Countryman so that this excellent weekly magazine will be mailed FREE for one year to any subscriber of the Guardian who remits a year's subscription in advance according to instructions on first page.
