Secretary Ronalds Has Resigned From Exhibition Management

In Protest Against Britain's Patronage of Foreign Countries Instead of Overseas Dominions.

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Robert Ronalds' resignation from the management of the committee of three British Empire Exhibition forces upon public attention, the question whether the Empire really means to make itself self sufficient in food and raw materials. Ronalds' explanation published today indicates that nothing but a show of vigorous protest by the Canadian, Australian, and other Dominions, will make the Board of Trade and other departments as well as the management of the exhibition realize that the Empire products of meat, dairy produce and fruit equal the supplies from foreign countries. Further, that British professions of development of Dominion markets are but hot air, without practical application.

contract at the exhibition, excepting as regards wine, tobacco and a few other articles be drawn exclusively from Empire sources. Officials maintain that this is impracticable. His reply is that they only need organization to give Empire producers an unparalleled advertisement to the British public and the whole world.

The Times in an editorial urges the exhibition authorities to take counsel with the Dominions and make careful investigations before coming to a decision.

"This is an ordinary enterprise," it declares. "It will not accomplish all we hope unless in every phase it becomes a manifestation of the spirit of unity animating the King George's personal interest in the exhibition is an inspiration to all concerned in it."

British Forbid Turk Celebration In Constantinople

(Special to The Guardian)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—The Allied Missions reached an unanimous decision today forbidding the Kemalists gendarmes destined for Thrace to enter Constantinople. The British navy has been ordered to stop all vessels bearing Turkish National police.

The decision was made in the interest of public safety. The Turks had planned to march through the city today and the Allied order produced keen disappointment among the exuberant Turkish population, which had made preparations on a vast scale to welcome the Kemalists.

Hamid Bey the Angora representative here declared the celebration would be the greatest in the history of the city. The French and Italian high commissioners had previously sanctioned the Nationalist entry but British commissioner withheld his decision.

This Fateful Day in British Political Crisis

Conservative Members to Decide Whether Lloyd George and Coalition Must Go. Chamberlain to Present Ultimatum.

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Today, Thursday, is the fateful day in the political crisis. Conservative members of parliament who hold more than half the seats in the House of Commons are then to meet at the bidding of their leader Austin Chamberlain. Will they kill the coalition, by telling David Lloyd George that he must go? Chamberlain is expected to present a simple issue but one which only indirectly touches a real question.

He will present the ultimatum: "do you support me as your chosen leader and my Unionist Cabinet colleagues in maintaining the coalition with Lloyd George, if not, we resign."

On that issue many members of parliament would decline to vote. In any case the fate of Lloyd George and the coalition really rests with the Conservative rank and file throughout the country, whose best exponent is its party manager Sir George Young. He so far is immovable for a reunited Conservative party proceeding to the election under a Conservative leader though these leaders do not include Chamberlain or Lord Birkenhead. Either Bonar Law or Lord Derby could by the acceptance as immediate premier form a ministry to pass a rush program to clear the way for the general election. Even the Duke of Devonshire has been mentioned as a possible premier, for England seems tired of fire works in both home and foreign politics.

$300,000 Robbery On Chicago Street

(Special to The Guardian)
CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Four bandits at midnight held up and robbed Max Moser, jewelry broker and salesman of New York of $300,000 worth of unset diamonds. Moser had just left the Congress Hotel with Charles J. Morris, a friend who had volunteered to drive him to the railroad station, when a black automobile containing four robbers swept alongside. Scores of machines carrying the crowd sped along Michigan Boulevard as three of the robbers boarded the Morris automobile and drove it north with the stream of traffic. They turned off the Boulevard on a side street and searched Morris and Moser, obtaining the wallets from the salesman.

The Moser robbery brings the total obtained in robbery of jewelry salesmen in Chicago this year to nearly two million dollars.

Vigilant Not Dormant Ones Will Win Prizes

No Cause for Inactivity—All Have an Equal Chance in the Guardian's Great Contest— 100,000 Extra Votes on $18 Clubs This Week. "Make Hay While the Sun Shines."

Those interested in the Guardian's great voting contest are beginning to hustle for votes in earnest. From now on each day will show an increase in the way of interest, and in the number of votes cast for the various candidates. It is easy to secure votes if you are ambitious and have a desire to win one of the valuable prizes The Guardian is offering. Go among your friends and tell them that you want to win, and you will be surprised at the ease with which the votes are secured. The prizes will be given to someone. WHY NOT YOU?

The voting in the contest up to the present has been quite heavy; but from now on it may be expected to increase daily. Tell your friends that you are out to win and that you want their votes. People always help those who help themselves, and if you want to become owner of a big five-passenger touring car, you will do well to speak to your friends before someone else solicits their subscriptions.

Remember that contestants are in no way restricted as to where they shall go to solicit votes. Subscriptions may be secured anywhere.

There is no cause for any contestant getting discouraged over his or her chances of winning one of these valuable prizes to be given in the contest. There is nearly four weeks yet to pass before the winners will be decided.

If the contestants feel that their prospects are hopeless and are in a quandary as to what to do, they can come to the contest department and get all the advice and help they need. They will be told how to get into the race right, and the visit to the office may mean the winning of the race.

Timidity, hesitation and apathy disappear as chaff before the wind, if contestants sit down and reason calmly and sensibly over their chances. You will soon realize that all have an equal chance. No one is favored. No prize is won yet, and with equal work and enthusiasm you are as able to win as anyone. If a contestant thinks and appreciates fully what one of these prizes will mean, even the second or third prizes are well worth trying for.

The $18.00 club vote offer ends Saturday night. Step lively.

Disturbed Conditions In Adrianople

(Special to The Guardian.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—Twelve hundred French troops left Constantinople today for Adrianople where a serious situation is reported, occasioned by the evacuation of the Greek army. The movement of such a large number of French troops into the capital of Thrace is interpreted as an augury that the Allied commander regards the disturbed state of things as grave.

Standard Oil Stock To be Investigated

(Special to The Guardian.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Secretary Mellon was asked today by representative Frear, Republican of Wisconsin, to investigate the 400 per cent stock dividend of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and decide whether the company is not liable to a penalty tax for hoarding profits to escape taxation.

Mrs. Stillman May Yet Lose Her Case

(Special to The Guardian.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Fiftieth Street, Mrs. Stillman may be robbed of her victory over her husband, J. A. Stillman, the banker. It became known here today. In a decision made public today, Justice Tompkins challenged the action of Justice Morschauser, who decided that Stillman was the father of Baby Guy and found Stillman guilty of infidelity to his wife.

Tompkins, who threatens to carry the case to a higher court, stated that he action started in his court and that it was later transferred to that of Morschauser. This, he said, invalidates Morschauser's ruling.

Whole Crew of Dutch Steamer Drowned

(Special to The Guardian.)
STOCKHOLM, Oct. 18.—All of the twenty-nine members of the crew of the Dutch steamer Cornelis were drowned today when the ship sank and all of her lifeboats disappeared near the rocks on the northern shore of the Gulf of Bothnia. The ship grounded four days ago. At that time the crew refused offers of aid from shore. Later a severe gale came up, battered the ship to pieces and prevented the approach of rescuers.

Venezelos Says Greek Republic is Improbable

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Former Premier Venezelos of Greece considers it improbable that a republic will be formed in that country as an outgrowth of the current campaign towards such an end.

He expressed his opinion today, when shown an Associated Press dispatch from Athens, which told how the campaign for a republic had strongly aroused the royalist newspapers.

There undoubtedly existed a strong democratic movement for a republic in Greece, the former premier said, and doubtless many candidates would stand on that programme at the forthcoming election.

Venezelos reiterated the statement that, having retired from politics, he would not take any active part in the formation of a republic.

Conversion Loan Was $78,000,000 Short

(Special to The Guardian.)
OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The recent loan though described as satisfactory, requires $78,000,000 to be made up on December 1st, although it is stated at the department that the money is available to pay off the bond holders who have not converted the loan. The idea of popular domestic loan is little talked of and not probable. It is believed that the necessary financing will be done in New York or London more likely the former.

Alive 40 Hours With Artificial Respiration

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 18.—A new achievement in the history of medicine was created today by Dr. Gerald Holyroyde. Under his direction forty men working in shifts for forty hours by artificial respiration kept alive a man with a broken neck, while the Doctor operated in an unsuccessful effort to save his life. The patient suffered his injury on the football field and when the doctor called he found his breathing paralyzed. For the next forty hours volunteer helpers applied artificial respiration in shifts of an hour. The operation of raising the spine to see if the vertebrae were broken was performed by the doctor with the use of a local anesthetic. The patient was conscious until the end and knew what was being done in an effort to save him.

Halifax Soldier Faces Murder Charge

(Special to The Guardian.)
HALIFAX, Oct. 18.—A true bill was returned by the grand jury in the supreme court today, Chief Justice Harris presiding in the case of Ralph Myles of Halifax soldier, charged with the murder here on June 2, of Florence Miles, also of Halifax.

Myles was found unconscious on that date with a bullet wound beside the dead body of Florence Miles who had been fatally shot in the breast. On regarding sensibility he said that the two had made a "suicide pact." The shooting took place in a wood in the south end of the city.

Myles' recovery from his wounds was slow. He at first was with procuring the girl's suicide and attempting suicide himself, but this charge was last week changed to one of murder.

The crown today asked for a trial on the evidence of Harold Keating, of Brooklyn (N.Y.), formerly of Halifax, and the mother of the girl, Mrs. Hattie Miles. Harold Keating gave evidence that Myles had showed him a quantity of jewelry at a local restaurant and had said that he had quarrelled with his sweetheart and they made threatening remarks concerning her. The jewelry, Keating thought, was the same as that produced in court. Mrs. Miles also testified that the accused had made threatening remarks concerning her daughter.

Advance Meeting to Fix Economic Clauses of Pact

(Special to The Guardian.)
PARIS, Oct. 18.—The French government has accepted the proposal of the British government for a preliminary Near Eastern peace conference for the purpose of drawing up economic and financial clauses of a new treaty with Turkey. The acceptance is expected to be forwarded to London tonight.

Objection will be made by Premier Poincare, however, to holding the conference in London, as the British invitation suggested. The French premier thinks that Paris would be more suitable. He agrees with the British that the preliminary conference should be held on October 20, or so soon afterwards as possible.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The British government has suggested to France and Italy the immediate calling of a preliminary conference in London at which the experts would prepare the economic and financial clauses of the Turkish peace treaty. The Italian government has accepted and will appoint its delegates. The British believe the conference should begin its session on October 20.

The Allies are still unable to fix the place and the date of the general Near Eastern peace conference. The Angora government has been asked if Switzerland would be agreeable to it and a reply is expected soon.

Turkish Official Wants Change in World Relations

(Special to The Guardian.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—Hamid Bey, the Nationalist representative, in an interview today declared that all the European capitulations will be abolished if the Kemalists demands are approved at the general peace conference.

"All the old treaties are null and void and the peace conference will have a clean slate," he said. "We propose to build on an entirely new foundation all conventions relating to our contracts with the western world. We have no objection to President Wilson's fourteen points, the modern principles of nationalities or the large ideas which have been proclaimed in the last few years as part of the new gospel of international law, but on the other hand, we shall demand extension to Turkey of all the elementary rights of a sovereign people, the same as are enjoyed by other nations."

Hamid Bey said that the Kemalists regarded the holding of the peace conference at Smyrna as of first importance. "For the purpose of the peace conference," he continued "we shall transfer the national assembly to Smyrna. Thus we shall concentrate in the presence of the members of the conference the full legislative, executive and military powers of our country, and no time will be lost by delays in transmission of proposals back and forth between the European capitals and the seat of the Turkish government. If held in a city of western Europe, Mustafa Kemal cannot be present, and therefore, the members of the conference will lack supreme authority, which he cannot delegate to others."

Deprecating the introduction of the word "Christian" into the discussion of the measures his government is taking against the Greeks, he declared: "Religion does not enter into our decision. All creeds are treated alike, but traitors will be punished whether they be Christian or Moslem."

"A large part of our Greek populations have forgotten that they were Ottomans and turned to Greece; we shall take precautions against a recurrence of such forgetfulness. But those who remain loyal will be always the objects of our care and affection, whether

Thirty Million Feet of Timber

EDMONTON, Oct. 18.—Thirty million feet of spruce timber has been destroyed by fire in the McArthur timber limits on the Athabasca River, according to Col. R. H. Palmer, head of the forest service for northern Alberta, who returned yesterday after three weeks' oversight of fire fighting operations north-west of the city. Fires are burning almost everywhere he said.

Twenty-five rangers have been fighting all summer to keep the fire under control, but owing to the dryness of the season the task has been a very difficult one. Col. Palmer said. No sooner is a fire extinguished in one place than it breaks out in another. Nothing but heavy snowfalls can cope with the situation.

Close Watch on Silk Smuggling

(Special to The Guardian.)
OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—All ports of entry from United States into Canada are being closely watched by an augmented force of customs preventive officers in an attempt to check the smuggling of silks and textiles into the dominion. Hon. Jacques Bureau, minister of customs and excise, said that complaints had been received by his department from people in various parts of the dominion against this smuggling, which was said to have shown a decided increase. The commissioner of customs and chief preventive officer had therefore decided upon special measures in an effort to stamp out this illicit entry of goods. These efforts would be extended across the whole of the international boundary until the smuggling was wiped out, if such was possible.

Irish Irregulars Attack Nationalists

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Strong bodies of Irregulars attacked the National Posts in Sligo last night and this morning including in their assaults the jail, the courthouse, the Ulster Bank, and the Town Hall, says a Press Association despatch from Belfast.

The fire of rifles and machine gun fire and the exploding of bombs was terrific.

British Airman Stands World's Second

ELFORD, Oct. 18.—England stepped into second place in the international gliding competitions staged this year among European nations through the efforts of E. D. Raynham who remained in the air yesterday for an hour and fifty-three minutes. His accomplishment surpassed anything that the French have been able to do and is only beaten by some of the German records. In distance covered Raynham's feat is not sensational for he hovered in a very restricted area during the entire time of flight, but his success was so far beyond anything that was anticipated when this weeks gliding competition began that it is now hoped that the German record may be more nearly approachable or passed.
