Home Market Still Important

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, in addressing the national poultry conference at Ottawa last week, stated that our farmers after the war must look to overseas markets to take their surplus products.

Mr. Gardiner did not mention the United States as a post-war market for our surplus farm products.

The Producer cites Mr. L. B. Pearson as its authority. Mr. Pearson is counsellor to the Canadian Embassy in Washington and Canada's delegate to the recent United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Association Conference in Atlantic City.

Mr. Bruce Hutchison reports that Ottawa is seriously concerned over Field Marshal Smuts' speech, advocating a close reunion of the British Empire.

How would any of the members of our Women's Institutes like to undergo a similar experience to this in attending the annual convention?

Some idea of the infinite pains taken by our naval leaders to insure success against the enemy is given in a recent press release from London.

Abraham Lincoln had strong opinion about things. On economics he was important. His consideration of labor property is desirable.

Marriages in the United States during 1943 total 1,725,000, a drop of 75,000 from the peak number reached the year before.

Much has been made of the point that too often a title was granted to a man who had done nothing but serve his political party well.

Nowhere in the British Empire is political service more richly rewarded than in Canada. A man serves in the House of Commons or a legislature for a few years, during which time he may or may not attain some ministerial position.

That, however, is not the end for him. If he is a lawyer of some eminence he is rewarded by being made a judge; if he is of lesser eminence he may be made a county judge or a crown attorney.

All these honors are granted for political service, at which the soul of the Prime Minister is supposed to revolt, and not for service to mankind.

Speaking at a Thanksgiving Rally of South Waterloo, Ont., Scouts, Premier George Drew of Ontario said: "The future of our country, everything we will be after the war, depends not so much on great physical resources but rather on the spirit of the people as exemplified by the principles on which the Boy Scout Movement is based."

Notes By The Way

There's a success story in Italy's King, whom it is now proposed to make a "civilian" beginning as early as the night of the 15th.

A full moon is no longer the favourable condition for night bombing of Germany. It gives us a clue to the night fighters' instruction lying certainly in becoming an exact science.

Girls in the United Kingdom are being employed on yet another unaccustomed occupation - turning jam down into silk.

If women wanted to dictate their terms to the male world they could do it through a weapon over which we have a 70 per cent. control.

If we are to have a high standard of living and a fair degree of social security we must work for it. The only way we can maintain our standard of living is to produce a national income.

Edinburgh Castle these days he probably hear a sound like the buzzing of many bees coming from one of the ancient towers.

Contrarywise, the water plants new grow on land. Water crowfoot has become a weed in Canada since the cracked and scummed dry mud, and even the other plants with red stems and flowers will not grow.

The statement issued on Tuesday by the Soviet Government, setting forth its position with respect to Poland's eastern boundary, clarifies a confused situation, and possibly the way of a satisfactory settlement of a long-standing dispute.

Poland as was established on the outbreak of this war had an area of 150,000 square miles, and a population of 35,000,000 people.

The eastern half of Poland, which fell to Russia under the partition, had an area of 75,000 square miles, was inhabited by approximately 15,000,000 people.

Under the Soviet partition of Poland, which was held by the Nazis from the official statement issued from Moscow on Tuesday.

There are many hundreds of thousands of men still marriageable, have been shipped overseas. There are the men who, on their return, will swell the life of the marriage rate in next-year years.

PROHIBITION AND BOOT-LEGGING
Sir, I have read with interest Mr. Riggs' letters about Prohibition and previously able letters from Mr. James Pendergast and Mr. Chas. Chandler and others, all reputable citizens.

Restoration Of Drained Ponds
The need has been emphasized for planning now to reconstruct the lakes and ponds which, no doubt, the government will have to drain.

THE LONG HILL

I must have passed the crest while ago. And now I am going down. Strange to have crossed the crest and not to know.

All the morning I thought how proud I should be. To stand there straight as a queen. Wrapped in the wind and the sun with the world under me.

It was nearly level along the broken trace. And the brambles caught in my gown. But use now to think of turning back.
