FINE

The service which marked the opening and dedication of the building was a brief but impressive one. Promptly at three o'clock Mrs. MacDonald turned the key in the main door of the building and accompanied by her father and sisters, entered the building, the party making their way to the gymnasium where a large gathering had assembled and where the service of dedication was held.

Following the singing of God Save the King, the keys of the building were handed to Mrs. Howard by Mrs. MacDonald, after which Mr. MacKinnon presented the deed of the building.

In performing this task Mr. MacKinnon briefly outlined the object of the building, referring to the great interest which his late wife had always taken in the welfare of the women and girls of Sherbrooke, and the wish which she had often expressed that they should have just some such a building as the one which was being dedicated to her memory.

The building was being handed over to the Y.W.C.A. free from debt and without any restrictions whatsoever.

Following the impressive ceremony of dedication, the president and officials of the Y. W. C. A. received the large number of guests at afternoon tea, served in the inviting tea room which occupies a portion of the second floor of the building. The beauty of this room is greatly enriched by the fine paintings which grace the walls. These pictures were formerly hung in the Art Hall, and have been left for safe-keeping with the Y. W. C. A.

The long handsome refectory table was centered with a silver basket of pink roses. The officials and members of the association assisted in serving the numerous guests, many of whom were introduced to the speakers of the afternoon, and whose presence added much to the social success of the function.

In this room is a beautiful painting hung at one end in a place of honor; the work and gift of Mrs. J. H. Mann as a memorial to Mrs. MacKinnon. The furnishings are comfortable and artistic, and the members are indeed fortunate in having such a room at their disposal for their social activities.

Adjacent to the Club Room is the "Quiet Room" or Chapel, where a lovely memorial window is the shrine or sanctuary, before which is left the rest and quiet of the room reserved as a special memorial to the woman who inspired the erection of the magnificent building. The hangings are in deep crimson and a chair upholstered in the same material is the gift of Miss Bulmer in loving memory of her friend, Mrs. MacKinnon.

The reception room on the ground floor is also a very inviting room, giving a home-like appearance to the building. In this room hangs a very fine picture of the late Mrs. MacKinnon, which recalls the purpose of the building.

The gymnasium, where yesterday's ceremony took place, is ideal for the purpose for which it is intended, and is thoroughly equipped throughout with the most modern apparatus. The splendid swimming pool is another of the great attractions to be found within the building, while the bowling is certain to capture its share of popularity.

The rooms throughout the building are spacious, which, together with the large halls, allow plenty of room and comfort. The entire building is finely finished.

Cessation of Hostilities on China's Civil War Fronts

Abrupt cessation of hostilities on China's civil war fronts in Honan and Hupeh provinces was disclosed yesterday in a list of despatches, some of which hinted that the harassed Nationalist government had paid its enemies for the truce.

Advices from Hankow said fighting between the rebellious Kuominchun, of People's Army, and Nationalist troops had stopped with a suddenness that took all observers by surprise.

Chiang Kei-Shek, President of the Nationalist government and head of its military forces, returned today to Nanking with a purported programme of "sweeping changes" which is expected to give his late enemies, the Kuominchun, a measure of recognition.

Simultaneously the "People's Army" was reported to be evacuating both Honan and Hupeh. Nationalist troops which had been fighting the Kuominchun were said to be withdrawing also.

Ironside's Division Marching Against Canton

With the cessation of fighting in Central China the principal theatre of internal warfare now is Kwangtung province, where the disaffected "Ironside's division" which recently withdrew from the Nationalist Army and a force of rebels from Kwangsi province are advancing toward Canton.

Japanese advices received in Shanghai also asserted that "big scale" financing also was going on with a view to bringing about a settlement of the Kwangtung trouble as well.

Reports from Manchuria, invaded from both east and west by Russian troops, as the result of the controversy over the Chinese Eastern Railway, were meagre.

Burning of Shop Premises of Mr. M. L. F. MacKenzie Is Probed By Summerside Magistrate.

In the Police Court at Summerside on Thursday morning the adjourned enquiry into the origin of the fire, which, in the early hours of Tuesday, October 22nd, gutted the premises of Mr. M. L. F. MacKenzie, on Central Street, Summerside, was resumed before Stipendiary Magistrate.

The first witness called was Mr. Eugene Brooks, Prohibition Inspector, who testified that he and Mr. MacKenzie often worked together in Prohibition affairs of the town. He said Mr. MacKenzie was continually complaining to him of the tenants of the "Speak-Easy", next door. He suspected them of storing rum in his premises and for several nights before the fire annoying things had been done, including the stuffing of bags down his flue from the outside. Mr. Brooks stated that he was with Mr. MacKenzie on the night previous to the fire in his shop. They left the shop together and drove around town, returning after a little while and witnesses left Mr. MacKenzie in the shop. By arrangement he returned about ten o'clock. The lights in the front shop were then turned off, but he could not say whether there was any light in the back shop. The object in his returning to the shop was that they suspected a movement of rum in the vicinity that night. Mr. MacKenzie complained to Mr. Brooks on this occasion that the shutter on the window facing the premises of Mr. Watson, had several times been torn off, and remarked that he would not get it off tonight, as he had nailed it up. Mr. Brooks offered to remain with him that night to watch the premises, but he said he could not stay that night. Mr. Brooks said he suggested to Mr. MacKenzie that there might be a danger of fire, to which Mr. MacKenzie replied that there was no fear of that, as they could not burn his place without setting fire to their own. He did not accuse any persons in particular. He drove Mr. MacKenzie home about 10.30 p. m.

Cross questioned by Mr. Beer, the witness stated that whilst he was in MacKenzie's shop he had left his car parked outside. He drove Mr. MacKenzie to the corner of his street, but did not see if he went home.

Mr. Chester Gaudet, of Summerside, was then called and gave evidence that he was on his way to a wedding about 4.45 a. m., when he smelled smoke in the direction of Central Street. On arriving at the corner of Mr. Daniel Gallant's printing shop, he saw that there was a fire and immediately put in an alarm at the Police Station. Officer Jamieson was there and they went back to the scene of the fire together. The firemen were there by the time they got to the fire. Cross questioned by Mr. Beer, as to the nature of the smell of the smoke, he said it smelled like rags and burnt wood.

Police Officer Jamieson gave brief evidence corroborating the previous witness as to the alarm and their proceeding at once to MacKenzie's shop.

The next witness called was Mr. Bradford LeClair, a clerk in Mr. Locke's store on Central Street, who gave evidence that Mr. MacKenzie often purchased goods at the store, including kerosene oil, which he usually purchased in small quantities, two or three cents worth in a Worcester sauce bottle.

The investigation was adjourned to be resumed in the near future.—S.

THE AID SOCIETY

which I visit almost every day, has been for the most part very satisfactory.

Two boys and one girl, for delinquency, were sent to reform school. Two others at the request of relatives, who promised to have supervision over them, were permitted to go to the country.

Several children whose parents had been imprisoned were sent to the Orphanage as a temporary home.

Three children were made wards of the society.

Two cases outside the city,—one in Queens County and the other in Kings county,—which have taken up considerable of my time as well as involving quite a lot of travelling and expense have been taken up with the Attorney General. As yet nothing has been done in either of these cases.

Have had correspondence with other Children's Welfare societies in Canada and the United States which I have looked into and promptly answered to the best of my ability.

I have also in a small way helped to better the condition of some of those poor unfortunates whose own parents, through poverty or for some other reason have denied them the comforts, care and proper training that all children should receive.

Respectfully Yours
Agent Children's Aid Society

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, in his report of the year's work announced that this is the twentieth year since the organization of the society. The work from one year to another differs but little. The executive meets once a month, and deals with the questions coming before that body to the best of its judgement. Dr. MacMillan remarked favorably on the trust of officer's report. Several years ago the School Act was changed both in Charlottetown and Summerside, making non-attendance at school illegal except in cases of extreme poverty or other pressing circumstances. This is a step in the right direction as truancy is often the predecessor of crime. If the child is properly trained, it is better for the individual in later life and also better for the state. Three children last year were sent to reform school. The society attempts to care for delinquent children, and it is only when every effort has been exhausted that such a sentence is passed. The child is sent to these schools that the individual may be benefited and not corrupt his companions. The tendency is for delinquents to resolve themselves into gangs, and finally, as a criminal, lands in the police court. The pathetic part of the whole business is that there is a blot on the child's character. The society on occasions takes children as wards and places them under foster parents. However, a child from a reform school seldom is allowed such benefits. Dr. MacMillan stressed the necessity of early and careful training. Many cases come before the society of children, who have become delinquent through lack of education. He strongly condemned the practice of prohibition officers of taking parents from children and leaving the latter without means of support.

The speaker referred to the address of Miss Whitton at the last annual meeting. The lady had sent a model act to him and to the premier. The act passed the first and second readings. Had the act been passed all the adoption precedents would be upset. One factor embodied in the act placed adopted children on the same basis as other children. The Children's Aid Society in this province has not the status which it should have. $1000 is received from the government, but the expenditure which should be made is curtailed by lack of funds. In other provinces the government supports these children as long as they are wards of the society. The Children's Aid Society acts as a voluntary aid to the government. The work of caring for delinquent children is the work of the government, and therefore the government should give full financial support. In a case in King's County, the judge disputed the right of the society to operate in that section, and the children are left unprotected. It is hoped that such matters will soon be straightened out and the society will be given full jurisdiction. It was suggested by Miss Whitton that the agent also take over a number of other branches of the society work within his scope.

The record of the society is an excellent one. Over 100 children in the last twenty years have been made wards of the society.

Mr. McNutt, chairman of the nominating committee, brought in a motion to the effect that the committee remain the same as for last year with the addition of Rev. Father McGreel and Ex-Mayor Miller, and the substitution of Mrs. R. L. Cotton for Mrs. W. L. Cotton.

DR. CREELMAN'S SPEECH

Dr. Creelman, who has recently returned from Toronto, where he attended a number of meetings and conferences on public health of the Dominion-wide representation, gave a very interesting address. Attention has been made to secure assistance from the Dominion Government to establish and support County Health Units. County Health Units, as an established system, consists of one nurse to about 10,000 people supervised by a health officer. In this province we have four or five nurses to over 80,000 people, a very small staff and with no public health officer and no secretary. Dr. Creelman spoke in glowing terms of the recent anti-tuberculosis work in the province. The object of social service should be to reform and direct rather than to punish and prohibit. He stressed the necessity of personal contact, which he considered far more valuable than wholesale work. The work of vaccination carried on at the beginning of the present school term has been very satisfactory. Out of 13,000 unvaccinated children, 5,000 have been dealt with. Education in the value of vaccination is surely needed throughout the island.

Next year a diphtheria campaign will be conducted. This disease can be prevented by the use of toxoid. The older a child grows, the greater immunity it has to this disease. If the pre-school child that is the greatest sufferer from diphtheria. The time will come, some authorities state when it will be a criminal offense to allow a child to die of this disease. Prevention of a disease is of just as much importance as curing it. In St. John 20,000 children have been inoculated.

With regard to the increase in grants, Mr. Donald MacKinnon thought that pressure should be brought to bear on the city for an increase in their subsidy over the $150 grant. There should be some means of taking care of neglected children not eligible for the orphanages. At the present time there is a family in the city, in which both parents are in jail, and four small children left alone in the home. We may be going the wrong way about reform. We punish parents at the expense of the children. A little more christianity used in dealing with the parents is the solution to the question.

Ex-Mayor Miller corroborated the remarks of the last speaker, and made special reference to the four children who are left alone in the home, their parents in jail for a breach of the Prohibition Act. In this regard Mr. Miller pointed out that the prohibition commission is responsible for those children. In closing the speaker stated that the city should increase their grant to at least $300, and cited a case showing that reform is better than punishment.

In reference to the question of providing for neglected children, Mr. T. E. McNutt pointed out that according to law, it is the duty of the city to provide temporary homes for children whose parents are in jail or under similar circumstances.

A vote of thanks, moved by Ex-Mayor Miller and seconded by Mr. T. E. McNutt was extended to Dr. Creelman for his excellent address.

Dr. MacMillan stated that there had been four deaths due to diphtheria within the last month. He urged the people of the city to co-operate with the Board of Health to bring about the administration of toxoid to children.
