CHICAGO, Dec. 26—Confronted by cold wave predictions for domestic winter wheat territory and by reports of continued crop deteriorations southwest, grain markets averaged higher Saturday.

In some quarters, stress was put on assertions that sellers of wheat future deliveries in Chicago were virtually giving away 5 cents a bushel for the privilege of being short. It was contended that Chicago May wheat should normally be at a premium of 5 cents over the cost of wheat from Kansas City laid down here. Instead, however, wheat available for immediate use brings 5 cents premium over Chicago futures.

Wheat closed from ¼ off to ¾ up, compared with yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ¼ higher, oats at ¼ decline to a shade advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

EXCHANGE

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 25—The Canadian dollar finished last week showing a discount of 12¼ cents against United States funds but a gain of 3-5 cents over the close of the previous week-end. In dull trading Saturday the Dominion's currency held easily at 88 cents but weakened fractionally later to end the day at 87¾, unchanged on Friday's finish. Thus the premium on United States funds as against the Canadian dollar was 13 15-16 cents.

Although the Pound Sterling ended Saturday 5¾ cents lower than Friday, its level of $3.32¾ was an advance of 1⅝ cents compared with a week ago. Early trading Saturday was at $3.33.

Successful Christmas Tree

The Annual Christmas Tree party of the Social Service Department of the Charlottetown Hospital was held Friday afternoon at the Nurses' Home. The beautifully illuminated and decorated tree stood in the centre of the study hall surrounded by tables piled with gifts of useful clothing and Christmas stockings containing fruit, candy and nuts. Santa Claus with flowing beard and jingling bells happily greeted each child, presenting them with a well filled stocking. A pleasing feature of the entertainment was a Scottish dance by Miss Georgina Trainor, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Trainor, West Royalty, accompanied by Mrs. Anthony Haughey on the violin and Rev. Dr. Bernard Gillis at the piano. These musicians provided splendid music throughout the afternoon, adding much to the gaiety of the occasion. Rt. Rev. Mgr. Maurice MacDonald was also present as were other well wishers and friends of the Social Service.

The Social Workers were assisted in their pleasant task by Mrs. Lucius Kelly, nee Ethel Murphy, who was the first social worker in the Department.

There were also 50 dinners provided, 3 of these being donated by St. Dunstan's Girls' Choir and 5 by Mr. Frank Hennessey. The sum of $50.00 was received from Mrs. Andrew Murphy, being the result of the recent lottery held by her .

THE INFLUENCE OF NEWSPAPERS

LONDON, Dec. 20—(C. P.)—Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, as the chief guest at the 105th festival dinner of the Printers' Pensions Corporations here, spoke of the influence of the newspapers. He said he had been told that the circulation of papers published in this country ran into the region of 70,000,000 a week. He had long since come to the conclusion that the powers of the newspaper world were more autocratic than those of anyone else in Europe.

Church Service Christmas Day

The fact that Christmas fell on Sunday gave the Church services of that day more than usual interest. The attendances in general were large, and special Christmas music contributed much to the services of every congregation.

The Baptist Church

The Rev. A. C. Vincent, D. D., preaching at the Baptist tChurch yesterday morning took as his theme "The Rich yet Poor." Basing his thought on the words of St. Paul in 2 Cor., 8. 9; "Though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be made rich." St. Paul is writing about a collection, material, perhaps trivial you may say, yet in the appeal he illustrates the unity that bound all Christians in sacrificing love. To-day as we meditate on the Nativity of our Lord we are reminded again of the contrast "Was rich, Became poor" his whole life, his humble birth, his gracious ministry, his sacrificial death find expression in that contrast. May we, accepting this gracious privilege, be among those who through his poverty may be made rich.

The music of the morning included Van de Water's "Night of Night's," and Turner's "God from on high hath heard."

A large congregation in the evening received deep impression from the vividly worshipful choral service. A group of carols "The First Noel," by the choir, "O little town of Bethlehem" by the male quartette and "Hark the herald angels sing," by the choir told in song the marvellous story that will never grow old.

The male quartette, Messrs Quigley, Calder, Dingwell and Sterns, gave a wonderful interpretation of Gruber's setting of Mohr's "Holy Night." The anthems were Varley Roberts' "Arise, shine for thy light is come" and Turner's beautiful "It came upon the midnight clear." Interesting and rich were the congregational hymns Watts' "Joy to the world" in Lowell Masons arrangement from Handel, and the "Adeste Fideles."

Dr. Vincent's brief sermon "Bethlehem's message to us" will long be remembered by his hearers.

The Church was tastefully decorated in holly, white and green by a number of the young people of the congregation. The beautiful flowers on the communion table were the gift of Mrs. H. C. Brown.

The music of the day was under the competent charge of Mrs. G. Elliott Full.

St. Peter's Cathedral

At 11.45 on Christmas Eve the Holy Eucharist, which is the great central act of worship of the Anglican Church was celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral. The Rev. Canon Malone was celebrant and was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Hunt. The altar and choral were brightly lighted and the vestments of the Clergy and altar hangngs were in keeping with the great Festival of the Nativity. There was a large congregation present, nearly all of which made their Christmas Communion. During the Communions the choir sang Christmas hymns which added much to the beauty of this most solemn service of the church. The Cathedral was nicely decorated for the festival with spruce.

The Holy Communion was celebrated in the Chapel at 8 a. m., on Christmas morning by Rev. Canon Malone.

The 11.00 o'clock service was fully choral when the Rev. Dr. Hunt celebrated the Holy Eucharist and Rev. Canon Malone preached a Christmas message taking as his text words from the book of Wisdom. In honour of the great festival the service was preceded by a procession of Clergy and choir about the Cathedral.

Evensong also was fully choral, Christmas Carols were sung and the Rev. Dr. Hunt preached a splendid and instructive sermon in keeping with Christmas. The service ended with a procesison of Clergy and choir.

The three days after Christmas Day are three saints days. First comes St. Stephen's day. He was the first to die for Christ. We are reminded amidst our Christmas joy that Christ came to call us to bear witness to his name even if bearing that witness means the giving of our lives.

The next is St. John the Divine, that is the Theological scholar, an apostle and Evangelist who was persecuted and exiled and who spent his life for Christ, though he did not die a martyr's death.

And then the Holy Innocents who unconsciously gave their lives for Christ.

Thursday next is the commemoration of Thomas, Archbishop of Canterbury in 1170. Sunday next is the Feast of the Circumcision of our Lord.

Trinity Church

The Christmas services at Trinity Church were well attended. Rev. Dr. E. H. Ramsay preached the morning sermon and Rev. C. N. Brown the evening sermon. Special Christmas music was rendered at both services by the choir under direction of Prof. Roy Kendall.

Speaking on the text, "And His name shall be called Emmanuel. God with us," Dr. Ramsay stated that the incarnation which is the coming of the Son of God into a human life explains the meaning and nature of the universe, the nature of God, and the possibilities of man.

For the evening sermon Mr. Brown spoke on the text, "Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." The speaker pointed out how hope revived in the ancient world with the coming of Jesus. The ancient religions and philosophic systems had failed to bring comfort or peace to man. He compared conditions in the old world with present day conditions, and pointed out that the good tidings to the old world are also good news for those who have present day sorrows and problems.

The anthem sung at the morning service was "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus," with Mr Harvey MacPherson as soloist. The carol "O Hail Thou Blessed Jesu" was also sung. At the evening service the anthems were "It came upon A Midnight" with Mr. A. R. Gillis as soloist, and "Christians Awake,, with Miss Margaret Sterns as soloist. Miss Lillian MacKenzie rendered the solo "O Thou That Tellest.

St. Dunstan's Basilica

There was a very large attendance at the Midnight Mass at St. Dunstan's Basilica. His Excellency Bishop J. A. O'Sullivan, D. D., blessed the Crib. Pontifical Midnight Mass was then celebrated by Rev. J. A. Murphy, D. D., was high priest, Rev. J. A. Sullivan and Rev. George A. MacDonald were the deacons of honour, Rev. J. N. Poirier, the deacon, Rev. C. J. McCarthy, sub-deacon. Rev. Louis A. Dougan was first master of ceremonies and Mr. Eric Robin the second. The men's choir under the direction of Mr. W. J. Brown assisted in the Mass. The boy's chancel choir sang appropriate Christmas hymns during the distribution of Holy Communion.

The sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Maurice MacDonald. The regular Masses were celebrated at 7, 8, 9.30 and 11 o'clock. The children of St. Joseph's Convent sang at 8 o'clock Mass, and the boys chancel choir at 11 o'clock.

In the afternoon Pontifical Vespers were sung by His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan, assisted by Rev. George A. MacDonald as deacon, and Rev. C. J. McCarthy as subdeacon. The first master of ceremonies was Rev. Louis A. Dougan and the second Mr. Eric Robin. The boys' chancel choir sang during the procession which preceded and followed vespers.

Church of Host Holy Redeemer

The Midnight Mass at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer was celebrated by Rev. F. Stephen Connolly. The service was largely attended. Rev. Gerald Murphy was deacon and Rev. Wm. Enright, sub-deacon. The master of ceremonies was Mr. John McCarville.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Murphy. From 11.30 p.m. till midnight the men's choir sang Christmas carols and assisted during the celebration of the Mass. The Masses on Christmas morning were at the usual hours.

At 4 p.m. Solemn Benediction was given.

Central Christian Church

At the Central Christian Church Sunday the services were at the usual hours with special emphasis on the significance of the Christmas Season.

The subject of the morning theme was "Around The Christmas Manger", discussed under the following headings "Labor was present at the Christmas Manger, Learning, Law, Loneliness, and Love were likewise present there.

There were two special features at the Sunday School hour, a solo, "When Jesus Was a Little Lad," by Master Clifford Campbell, and a story by Mrs. Outhouse, entitled, "God's Greatest Gift to Man."

At the evening hour, the Pageant, "The Angel's Message to the World" was repeated. The special background featuring the city of Bethlehem was made beautiful by different colored spotlights. At the proper time a group of Angels gradually appeared in the sky above the Shepherd's Camp fire and then gradually faded away. Later a star appeared gradually throwing its beams nearer and nearer the small adobe hut, or inn where the Manger was located. Stationed behind the background were the invisible choir, solists, and operater of electrical equipment. During the Pageant the story of Christ's Birth was charmingly and effectively told by a reader and by the choir in Anthems and carols.

Zion Church

The services at Zion Church were largely attended. Special Christmas music contributed much to the services. The subject of the morning was "The Birth of the World's Saviour."

The evening subject was "Immanuel, God with us."

In the morning sermon, Rev. Mr. Webster showed the preparation which had been made for the coming of Christ into the world, and the purpose for which He came—to redeem and save a lost world. In his evening sermon Mr. Webster indicated that it was a reasonable thing for God to take human form as He is a personal God, and must manifest Himself to personal beings. Man has a capacity for God.

The music was under the direction of Professor Thompson. The morning anthem was "The First Christmas". Preceding the evening service a short organ recital was given. A carol song service was followed by an anthem, "Christmas Awake," by Mrs. G. C. Webster and choir. A solo "Star of Bethlehem" was rendered by Mrs. A. H. Roper.

Salvation Army

Salvation Army services on Christmas Day were well attended At the morning service, Adjutant Kimmins spoke on the significance of the stars and the Wise Men. God spoke to these people in their own method, through astronomy.

At the evening service, Adjutant Kimmins pointed out that the birth of Christ reminds one of the fact of sin.

St. James Church

At St. James Church two Christmas messages were brought by Rev. R. M. Legate. Christmas hymns, anthems, and carols contributed to the inspiration of the services. The morning anthems were, "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices?" and "The First Christmas." At the evening service the duet, "O, Night Divine," was rendered by Mrs. J. A. Lawson and Miss Jacqueline MacDonald. The evening anthem was "While Shepherds Watched." The service closed with the singing of carols.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Large congregations attended the Christmas services in St. Paul's Church. With Miss Lilian Earl presiding at the organ and a full choir to lead the singing of the beautiful old hymns and carols, the services were indeed hearty and joyous. Two anthems "Christians Awake," and "Behold I bring you good tidings," were splendidly rendered by the choir, and a quartette, "O Come All Ye Faithful," by Mrs. E. W. MacKinnon, Miss A. Earl, Mr. Chas. Earl and Mr. P. D. Williams.

Appropriate and inspiring messages were given by the Rector, the Rev. H. D. Raymond. At the morning service he took as his text, Isaiah's words, "For unto us a child is born," and his name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." It is doubtful if Isaiah fully understood all that the fulfillment of this prophecy would mean, the coming of the Prince of Peace, bringing a great deliverance to all mankind. It is a fitting message for today, for as we look out over the world, where there is so much strife and jealousy among the nations, we see a great need for peace. The Christmas story, with its message of peace, was meant for all races and nations. Yet today we see the Church divided in its worship of a Common Master. As a people, let us pray for enlightenment, that in finding Him, we may forget that which divides and unite at His feet in praise and worship. Individually, may we find afresh that peace of God, which passeth understanding." The prophet's message shows us what a wonderful religion is ours. Our God is able to do all things and He is One we can depend on. Though powerful, yet He is the Eternal Father, who loves us, giving His best gift on that first Christmas Day and still ready to guide then Wales, Scotland, Ulster, the Irish Free State. The voices of Canada followed, Halifax sending its greetings, Montreal coming on in French and English, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver adding their voices. Wellington, N. Z., picked up the chain, followed by Brisbane and Melbourne in Australia, and Cape Town, Union of South Africa. Port Said added a few words. The liner Majestic in the Atlantic Ocean and the liner Empress of Britain in the Red Sea took part in extending Christmas greetings.

Australia reported temperatures ranging to 95 degrees in the shade with people swimming off the beaches; Vancouver told of a typical English Christmas Day with fog and rain. Roses might be picked there.

Halifax made reference to the fact that with its sister port of Saint John it was the habitat of the United Empire Loyalists who represented one of the most romantic pages in history.

Montreal spoke of happy skiiers on Mount Royal. Reference was made to its port, one of the largest in the British Empire, and its very cosmopolitan population where its loyal subjects were of French and English extraction.

Mighty Niagara Heard

A "city of homes" was the description Toronto gave to itself. Particular reference was made to the gigantic hydro electric development of the Province of Ontario. The broadcast then, for 30 seconds, was filled with the roar of mighty waters as Niagara Falls were cut into the all red chain.

At Winnipeg where it was still early in the morning, the spokesman told of streets blanketed in snow and bare of people on a quiet Christmas morning.

In British Isles

The broadcast, following the greetings from the Empire, swung back to the British Isles where at 10.05 (Eastern Standard Time) His Majesty spoke "to all my peoples throughout the Empire."

In Canada

In Canada radio technicians stated His Majesty's voice was plainly heard. He spoke slowly and firmly, with no trace of huskiness and appeared to be very much at ease. Health vibrated through the voice.

At the close of the intra-Empire broadcast, E. A. Weir, director of programmes of the Dominion Radio Commission, speaking from Montreal through the forty-two Canadian stations lined up for the occasion, indicated that Canada would hear during the forthcoming months more trans-Atlantic broadcasts than it had ever heard in the past. If circumstances and conditions permitted, he said, he expected a number of all-red route programmes would be heard.

us if we will only listen to the Comforter.

God's most precious gift to mankind was the theme of the evening message, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son." The offering is to the whole world, none to be left out. In the Jesus of Christmas may we find relief from our cares and troubles and that sure and certain hope of the future. In the giving of His Son, God gives humanity new birth, that they may lead new lives for Him.

The Church was tastefully decorated with spruce. Much credit is due the band of workers, who gathered together last week, giving their time to the preparation and putting in place of these decorations. The flowers on the Communion Table were given by Mrs. S. Grey, in memory of her husband.

Contracted Hoofs

When a horse has to stand on a dry board floor, as many have to do during winter, his hoof is most likely to become dry and contracted. It is far better to have a horse occupy a box stall, when it must stand much in the stable, and, on a farm, a stall floor of well puddled clay and cinders is excellent for the box stall, provided it is kept well bedded and clean. A concrete floor, checked and grooved to afford footing, is also excellent, when kept well bedded.

In Europe, horse stalls often are floored with cobble stones, set in concrete mortar, and such a floor seems to help maintain healthy conditions of horses' hoofs. Bedding with pea litters also conserves hoof moisture, but such bedding material is rarely available. By letting every horse work or run out for exercise every day, and by turning work horses barefoot on moist pasture when the season of rush work is over, usually prevents undue dryness and contracting of the hoofs.

It is necessary to reset a horse's shoes at intervals of four to six weeks to keep the hoofs in healthy condition and prevent trouble from the shoes being ragged forward by the growing toes. However, when shoeing horses or resetting the shoes it is a great mistake to rasp the natural varnish of the walls of the hoof, or to cut away the frogs, soles or bars. All that is legitimate is to remove the horn of the frogs and soles that is rotten or being thrown off and to rasp notches in the wall sufficient to form clinching places for the shoe nails. The bars should not be touched, nor should the heels be "opened up." Mutilation of the hoof by unwise rasping, cutting and application of red hot shoes quickly dries out the natural moisture of the hoof and induces contraction.

When horse hoofs show signs of contracting treat by soaking the feet for an hour or two once or twice daily and then apply any simple greasy hoof-dressing. Have the shoes reset often, taking the precautions mentioned as regards trimming of the hoofs. If possible it would even be better to pull off the shoes, trim the feet and have the animal run barefoot for a time, but not in a filthy or muddy place where the hoofs may contract trush or tend to rot.

If such simple measures do not prove remedial then try clipping the hair from the hoof-heads and rubbing in a mild blister now and then treating one foot at a time. A mixture of one dram each of biniodide of mercury and a powdered cantharides, in three ounces of lard, will serve the purpose. Rub it in for 15 minutes, then tie mare short in stall. Wash blister off in 48 hours, then apply lard daily.
