KILLED IN ACTION—On October 14th the terrible reality of the war was forcibly brought home to the people of Kingsborough when news came of the death of Corporal Herbert Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tolbert, killed in action at the battle front at the early age of 21 years. He was a general favorite and his death is keenly felt by all. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved relatives and friends.

The bride was given away by her father, and wore a gown of white Duchess satin and chiffon with lace trimmings. Her veil was of tulle, arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Rosella Lidstone as maid of honor, wearing a gown of old rose silk poplin, with black velvet hat, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Mr. W. C. McKnight acted as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 9645, 103A avenue. Mrs. J. Lidstone, mother of the bride, wore a black silk Duchess dress, with silver trimmings, and black velvet hat. Mrs. Shaw wore an old rose velvet dress, with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. C. Shaw left in the 9.10 train for their east, the bride traveling in a navy blue suit serge, trimmed with fur, and hat to match. The young couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful gifts, and on their return will make their home in the Fairbairn Apartments.—Evening Bulletin, Edmonton. Meeting closed with National Anthem.—Com.

POLICE COURT—A wandering son of Canada, answering to the poetic name of Gordon Shanks, and claiming Sydney as the place of his nativity, as the result of imbibing too freely of the prohibited juice of the grape, or something more exhilarating, occupied one of the reserved seats at the local justice dispensary yesterday. Fifty dollars or thirty days in the sentence ran. As Mr. Shanks did not happen to have the necessary five-er on his person he decided to take the thirty-day-rest cure. Another drunk, home talent, this time, was dismissed, it being his first appearance in that capacity before the judge. The lad Weatherbie, convicted on several charges of acquiring articles without taking the usual necessary means of paying for them beforehand, or at least throwing out some sort of intimation to the owner that he was about to have the use of them, was escorted to Halifax yesterday in charge of Truant Officer McPhee. He will spend some time at a boys' detention home, where it is hoped that he will learn to walk in the paths of rectitude and turn out to be a good man.

ESTEEMED RESIDENTS DEPARTURE—A Kensington correspondent writes: On Saturday morning a large number of people were gathered at the station at Kensington, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Armond Thompson, and their sons, John and Leslie. They return to Colorado after living in Kensington for the past four years. Mr. Thompson while here has built three splendid residences on the Margate Road, and has since all times been a power for good in the community—an example of true Christian manhood. As a lay-reader of the Church of England he has done splendid work, many times conducting the services throughout the parish, and in the Sunday School and other church organizations he has done his full share. He and his family will be much missed in the social life of Kensington. Mr. John Thompson was a slinger of no mean ability and we are indeed sorry that we shall have him no more with us. The friends of Mr. Thompson presented him with an elegant travelling bag; Mrs. Thompson received a valuable diamond brooch from the ladies of Kensington. John received a set of military brushes from his young lady friends and Leslie a Bible from his Sunday School class. Those gifts were all accompanied by kind expressions of regard, and hearty good-will, to each member of the Thompson family. The best wishes of a host of friends go with them to their home in Colorado and if they should ever return to Kensington they will be heartily welcomed back.

Prevailing Drug Prices And The Cause

High prices are no longer confined to the luxuries of life, but they extend to the necessities as well.

Even the prices of food, clothing and drugs are not exempt from the new standard.

The effect of the European War on drug prices is familiar to all our customers.

The principal advances however, have been on chemicals, and rare Drugs which are not produced in America.

For this reason we are forced to charge more for certain Prescriptions, but in every case where this happens we are glad to give our customers a reason for the advance.

Our prices on staple lines of drugs, and on most Toilet Goods are still reasonable, and in many cases no advance whatever has been made.—Our Motto is

"Quality Goods and Superior Service at Right Prices."

ALLIES GIVE TRENCH WARFARE ITS DEATH-BLOW

ROAD TO THE SHRINE OPENED UP.

By F. A. McKENZIE. Mr. F. A. McKenzie, the famous war correspondent, who has returned from the Somme battlefield, emphasizes the importance of the British victories at Comblès and Thiépvail. In his opinion they virtually open up the road to the Rhine.

If the people of Britain had understood the real nature of the week's triumphs on the Somme, every house would have been decorated, every school-child would have had holiday and our streets would have been filled with cheering crowds. The capture of Thiépvail and Comblès marks the beginning of the greatest victory of the war.

The battle of the Marne has so far rightly ranked as our greatest triumph, for it arrested the German advance when at the gates of Paris. But the entry of the Allies into Comblès marks the death-blow to the western trench war that for two years has held us back. It is opening up the road to the Rhine.

The greatest battle in the world's history is being fought within less than four hours' journey of England. It is on a scale of humanity has never dreamed of before, with combatants counted by the million, machine guns by the ten thousand and big guns by the many thousand. The wounded and dead on both sides already number considerably over half a million, and the prisoners who have fallen into our hands are numbered by the scores of thousands.

Thirteen weeks ago the British and French started out to accomplish the seemingly impossible. Our purpose was to recover the lost territory of France, the great salient of rich cities and treasure-bearing lands stretching from Le Touquet and the other side of Verdun, down to Compiègne, within sixty odd miles of Paris.

At the end of the first month, neutral nations regarded our success as doubtful, and Germany was openly triumphant. "England has taken a few miles of unimportant territory," said the Germans, "but she has failed to break through our real lines. They are impregnable." And so long as Germany's two strong points on either flank of our advance held out against us she was justified in her boast. Her justification has now gone.

Formidable Fortresses.

Picture to yourself what has happened. From the opening day, July 1, Thiépvail defied us. Regiment after regiment threw themselves on it—and on Beaumont-Hamel, behind it—with the utmost resolution. All was in vain. There was victory at Fricourt and Mametz, at Contalmaison and Devill's Wood, at Bazentin and Martinpuich. But Thiépvail, at the very beginning of the German line, kept us back. And Comblès, ahead of our right, soon equally held us up.

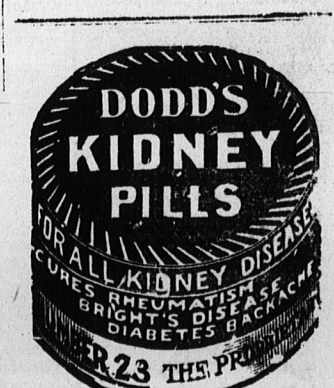

There was abundant reason for this. These two points, the basic foundations of the German defence, were fortresses of the most formidable kind. Naturally, along two years of constant work, had made them almost beyond attack. Trench was connected with trench by secret tunnels. Men could lie safely under cover in deep shafts.

approaching on the Somme. The capture of Peronne by the French and Bapaume by the British may be regarded as assured, so far as anything in war is certain. Beyond them lie the much more important centers of Cambrai and St. Quentin.

Bapaume has around it many positions good for stubborn defence. But an army with a victorious enemy on its heels may be little fitted to improvise fresh entrenchments. There stands before us the possibility of a far bigger coup than the Allies have yet had.

No one envies Von Hindenburg the task before him.
