Urges Improvements For Tignish District

Suggestions for improving the position of the fishermen in his district were urged in the Legislature on Monday by Mr. Clarence Morrissey, First District of Prince, Mr. Morrissey was speaking in the Budget debate.

In particular, he called attention to the difficulty in obtaining fishing boats, in Quebec, he understood, they gave a bonus of $4.00 per foot of the keel to fishermen building boats. This would amount to about $120 for an average boat. It would be great help to Tignish fishermen to get some assistance of this kind. The Government should consider something along this line, he said.

Hon. Mr. Barbour: "I think you have got something there."

West Cape Ferry

Mr. Morrissey also advocated a ferry service between West Cape, P.E.I. and Buctouche, N. B. The distance, he said, was only twenty miles; the sections on both sides were prosperous ones without aid of the Government. The West Cape service and predicted that West Cape would become a second "West Islands" if a ferry service were established. He quoted correspondence from a Tignish fisherman in connection with this matter. It was claimed that a suitable boat could be procured at a reasonable price.

"When we get three ferry services going out of Buctouche, West Cape and West Cape—then we will be getting the 'continuous communication' with the mainland that we were promised at Confederation," he said.

When he spoke of the new ferry for Borden, he agreed with the Opposition leader that the Dominion Government should be asked to construct another boat, as soon as the new one is ready. By the time the second one is completed, he said, there will be ready for the scrap heap.

He urged the possibilities of developing Buctouche as a good harbor for fishing craft. There is at present no shelter for the fishermen from Buctouche around North Cape to Tignish Run, a distance of some sixteen miles. He expressed the hope that since the Government had put through a bill to take control of the Summerside plant, they would provide electricity as far as Tignish any way. He said, "Go to it!"

Mr. Morrissey said there is a large line bed within three or four miles of Tignish, which he believed could be developed at less expense than the one at Summerside. He urged that the Government make a survey of this bed and now, he said, "Go to it!"

Letter Takes Six Years To Arrive

MONTREAL, March 27.—(CP)—Nov. 20, 1939, a letter from Donald R. Barry, now a mathematics instructor at the University of Toronto, has just received a letter addressed to him in Denmark April 3, 1940, only a few days before he got out of that country a jump ahead of the invading Germans.

The letter, unopened except by a censor, has been kept for him at the International People's College at Elsinore, Denmark, where he was an instructor of English, and re-mailed to him here Jan. 21, 1946. It was written by his brother and enclosed with it was a bank order for $175.

Barry got out of Elsinore April 9, 1940, taking the last ferry leaving for the three-mile trip to Healsingore. The letter, which Barry taught English at the University of Uppsala, just north of Stockholm, in the autumn of 1939, he took advantage of the truce in a Japanese ship bound for Toronto, and upon his return to the Dominion he boarded the Healsingore, a new steamer with an all-Japanese crew.

Also on the Healsingore were a number of other American-born and some unable to reach Japan. He landed at Vancouver.

Barry learned to speak Danish and Swedish in Canada. He left this country July 1, 1939, to take up his teaching post at Elsinore. Upon his return to the Dominion he became an air navigation instructor associated with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan until last year. He now is teaching veterans.

His district also needed a potato warehouse. He had hoped to see the road from Greenmount to Tignish.

In his opening remarks Mr. Morrissey referred to the complimentary terms to the appointment of Hon. Mr. Bernard, former representative of West Prince and an old personal friend, to the position of Lieutenant Governor.

Prohibition

When asked in a previous debate whether he wanted a liquor vendor's store at Tignish, Mr. Morrissey said yes. There was a petition presented with nearly 90 per cent of the people's names in support of the liquor vendor's store. He had full authority to say what he said.

He believed that the temperance people were conscientious and sincere, but there was no doubt that the situation was getting out of hand. In pre-prohibition days a man could get a bottle of good liquor for eighty cents, and he could drink it and go to work the next day. The first time he had known of liquor being distilled illicitly was by a young man working in his own lobster factory. He described how this practice spread throughout the country.

There is a lot of talk about vendors' liquor sales," he said, "and no doubt there will be because the other side has a lot of money to spend. It was no trouble for them to get $8.00 for a small bottle of moonshine. Now they won't go and take it home, and they won't go and pay for moonshine."

"If you had thirty bottles of whiskey in this house," he said, "I would not touch one, but I would be the one that would be the worst off. This is how prohibition works."

Premier Jones: "Didn't that happen in the Garden of Eden?" Mr. Morrissey: "That was before my time." (Laughter.)

Mrs. J. F. Easton, regarding the Y.P.U. of Central United Church (Dunstaffnage-Marsfield) held their weekly meeting in the church on Friday evening. Mrs. Easton was also read. The Community Friendship society took number of visits.

The members are to remember the sunny days with pennies as a means of increasing the funds. A member gave a Lenten gift of $10 for the special object, a girl in a school in Africa. The new members were gladly welcomed.

The study period followed, the subject being: "What of Tomorrow?" The members taking part were: Mrs. Easton, Mrs. Easton, and "Currie of Glenora." Sentimental prayers for Miss E. man were given by members. The closing prayer with prayer and hymns and benediction closed the service.
