At Rapid City on Monday morning about half past ten A. F. LePage noticed evidences of fire smouldering in the walls of his residence. At first it did not seem to be serious. An alarm was turned in and although many were out of town, it being Arbor Day, the brigade and volunteer appeared in numbers. It seems the walls were packed with sawdust and in some unknown manner fire had gotten into this combustible material, possibly by mice igniting a match, or fire from the yard working beneath the surface of the soil. Mr. LePage had been working in the yard all day and there was no possibility of it having ignited from the surface. It was a long time after the smoke was seen issuing from the eaves that the fire could be located, and the moment an opening was made and a draft created it made rapid progress. Everybody worked heroically getting things out of the house until the heat became too intense in the upper story. The house had only $600 insurance, and the contents $400, so there will be considerable loss. Mr. LePage and family are making their home at present with his brother Aubrey. He will probably rebuild.—Rapid City Reporter. Mr. LePage is a son of T. LePage of this city.

The Canadian Club of Harvard University, have issued a pamphlet setting forth many facts interesting to Canadians. Among others is the fact that about sixty-five P. E. Large and appreciative houses greeted the performers at New Wonderland last night, and the entertainment certainly warranted all the hearty applause it received. Middle Carrie is a marvel—the bells in her hands are the sweetest music imaginable, and it is hard to say in which part of her performance she excels, for she is past mistress in the art she follows. Her sleigh bell ringing is grand, and in fact she is altogether a wonderful performer. She has played all over the world, and has included in her travels the largest and best theatres in the greatest countries. Fred Welcome and his clever dogs simply brought rounds of applause, and in the way of his work he is far superior to any thing seen here as yet. He is a wonderful performer, and the oftener his act is seen, the more it is understood. The pictures and songs were excellent last night, notably the splendid military drama "Boots and Saddles." There is always something worth seeing and hearing at New Wonderland.

Hear Mills Carrie ring the sleigh bells at New Wonderland! Something to remember! Something seldom equalled in any theatre, anywhere.
