LINDBERGHS

"We consider the trip a success, and we believe our work has been accomplished. Right now we're both rather cold and I think we'd like to go where it's warm. Right now I'd rather not say anything."

An official of the aircraft factoy where they landed was the first to greet Lindbergh when he climbed down to the dock. He greeted the flier and said:

"We're glad to see you back after all the travelling you've done."

"And believe me," said Lindbergh, his face broad in the famous grin and red with cold, "we're glad to be back."

And Anne, climbing out of the cockpit behind her husband, jumped to the dock beside him and said: "I know I'm glad to be back."

Then to Englewood they went.

Elude Photographers

Their last hop was from Charleston, S. C. The crowds recognized the ship as it roared over New Jersey. They raced over Peterboro, N. J., airport. A big plane with photographers arose to come alongside, and the Colonel began a game of tag with his pursuers.

The big plane was faster than the Lindberghs. It was on his tail when the Colonel banked suddenly and the pursuers roared overhead. Colonel Lindbergh shot his plane into a haze to the west and a few minutes later was over the teeming East River.

"It's Lindy," the crowds shouted. Ships strained their whistle cords and blasted salutes. New York watched the sky. Gracefully the trim air yacht circled low over the stream and darted for Flushing Bay.

The Lindberghs spinned over the Bay, zoomed high enough to see the crowds at Curtis Airport and then circled the bay again, before dropping down about a half a mile off shore.

The Colonel taxied his ship to a flat. Mrs. Lindbergh smiled at the crowd on the beach. Lindbergh immediately was busy mooring his plane. He fastened the ship to a float and the couple stepped ashore.

Hired Car

So wholly unprepared was the company for the Lindberghs' arrival at that particular landing place, that it was necessary to rent an automobile to take them home. A policeman stood on the car's running board, although the Colonel had declined an escort.

The famous flying couple covered the last leg of their historic voyage—640 miles—from the quay of old Charleston to New York in just three minutes less than six hours.

Their chase with the photographers' plane was a glamorous finishing touch to the trip—they outmanoeuvred the picture seekers.

Up zoomed Lindy to 5,000 feet. Down he dropped to 2,000. Over the Passaic River, then up the Hudson, his throttle back as he twisted and dipped until the pursuers were lost in a haze.

They came back home just five months and 10 days after they flew into the dawn on a survey that took them over Eastern Canada twice across the Atlantic, to 31 countries and colonies—a circle of the Atlantic, from the tundras of the north to the jungles beyond the equator.

Canada's Trade "Down Under" On Increase

(Special to the Guardian)

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 19—The officers and crew of the Canadian National Steamships freighter Canadian Cruiser will bid adieu to Canadian shores three days before Christmas when their ship sails from Halifax for New Zealand and Australia via the Panama Canal December 22nd.

The Christmas festivities, however, will not be forgotten or neglected as amid time honored decorations the officers and crew will sit down to tables laden with Christmas cheer while the ship plows through the waves on her course to the far off Antipodes. In the holds of the Canadian Cruiser will be a large cargo of Canadian products. The Canadian Cruiser will call at Cristobal, Panama.

Trade with this part of the Empire "down under" has shown considerable increase since the consummation of the Empire trade agreements. In the case of New Zealand, particularly, to which country Canada's exports have materially increased, and the cargo of the Canadian Cruiser bears ample evidence to this. According to Canadian National Steamships officials, the prospects of an expansion of Canadian trade to New Zealand are brighter than they have been for some time past, especially in view of the indications of increasing prosperity in that part of the Empire. Like conditions prevail in the case of Australia where the number of unemployed is constantly growing less.

The recent commonwealth and state budgets have exhibited a satisfactory state of affairs with accompanying reductions in taxation and the largely increased prices obtained for wool this season have more than made up for the decreased production. As a further indication of better times ahead it is reported the minor industries associated with rural life are also having a comparatively prosperous period and the building industry shows steady improvement.

PEERS DEBATE NFLD. BILL

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, Dec. 19—The Newfoundland bill, debated and fought over at length before getting final reading in the House of Commons, came under fire in the House of Lords tonight when second reading was given in the Upper Chamber.

Lord Snell, Labor Peer, charged the bill which deprives Newfoundland of self-government and makes Britain responsible until its finances are restored, was designed not to help the Newfoundlanders but the holders of their bonds in New York and elsewhere.

Echoing arguments in the Lower House the Laborite peer charged the British taxpayer had been called in when it came to a matter of paying, but was forgotten when it came to trade. Newfoundland bought half her exports from Canada, and a third of the remainder from the United States, but only a sixth of her imports were from the United Kingdom.

"John Bull is being called upon to act as Father Christmas to the bondholders," Lord Snell said. Lord Strathcona moved second reading and Lord Amulree, chairman of the Royal Commission, whose findings are implemented in the bill, defended it, declaring the conclusions reached were the only practical ones.

Light Needed In Tuber Debate

LONDON, Dec. 19—While the House of Commons, was profoundly discussing the marketing of potatoes tonight, it was suddenly plunged into darkness owing to the failure of the electric lights.

Five minutes of merriment ensued while members vied with one another in improvising lights, bringing into use matches, lighters and candles. The lights were eventually restored and debate was resumed on the contentious potato issue.

Favor Lower Import Rate

PARIS, Dec. 19—A wave of sharp criticism from the United States resulted today in the abandonment, in favor of lower figures, of a heavy French import tax on apples and pears.

Experts in the Ministry of Agriculture wondered subsequently how far they could go in increasing duties without killing the reciprocal feature of an American agreement for a bigger wine quota from France in return for concessions on agricultural duties.

Trans-Pacific Dirigible Line Is Planned

(Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19—Paul W. Litchfield, President of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, said here today a trans-Pacific dirigible line to carry passengers, freight and mail between California and Hawaii will be established as soon as necessary legislation is passed by the United States Congress.

Litchfield said the line later would be extended to the Philippines and the Asiatic mainland, and that his company is training 25 pilots for Pacific service. Dirigibles with cabin space for 100 passengers and room for 30,000 pounds of freight and mail and smaller dirigibles will be utilized, he said.

Slays Friend, And Kills Self

CHICAGO, Dec. 19—(A.P.)—The slaying in a suburban Lyons Beer Tavern today of a young married woman was followed several hours later by the suicide of the man police identified as her killer.

The principles in the double tragedy were Mrs. Irene Hard, 24, of Lyons, and Wilfred Belanger, 51 identified by the former's husband, George Hard, as "my best friend."

Joseph Talafous, proprietor of the tavern, said the couple returned to the place after taking Hard home and that as they sat drinking they began to quarrel.

urday they will meet Castro Rojas, former Bolivian Foreign Minister, and the representative of Paraguay, Justo Pastor Benitez, as well as President Terra and the chancellors attending the Pan-American conference.

The latter officials in the meantime will appraise the peace objectives of the belligerents and seek a common ground on which the truce can be made into a permanent peace.

Bolivia and Paraguay, through their representatives, agreed with the Pan-American nations that the major objective of the peace must be a permanent termination of the territorial war in which the belligerents have cited claims dating from 1559 and in which the fighting has been sporadic since the 1880's.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The King received in audience at Buckingham Palace today Sir Eric Phipps, the ambassador to Germany. Sir Eric remained at the palace for 45 minutes.

Sir Eric is in London to report to the government on his recent talks with Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Joseph A. C. Avenol, Secretary General of the League of Nations, left for Paris after a week's consultation here saying he found British officials "determined to support the essential things for which the league stands."
