

Splendid Values in Bedding

Shown Today in Household Supplies Department--Second Floor

The wintry feel of the air suggests more and better bed coverings—soft, warm, fleecy blankets, light weight richly handsome, and cozily comfortable down filled and batting filled puffs. There's a showing here of goods imported in each case direct from the makers—only our moderate profit between you and the mill. We invite your inspection.

"MOORMAC" special high value Blanket, 64x84 inches, 7lbs to the pair, whipped singly, blue or pink borders $10 75

Pure wool Blanket 60x80 inches 6 lbs to the pair, whipped separately, a very special value, and equal to most Ten Dollar lines $8 75

Fine Union Blanket 60x80 inches, blue or pink borders, 6 lbs. to the pair, whipped $6 50

WITNEY Blankets, imported direct from the makers in England, 64x82 inches, 7 lbs to the pair whipped singly, blue or pink borders, a value that cannot be beaten at $11 50

The Wonderful Kenwood Blanket $10.25

KENWOOD BLANKETS, perhaps the finest thing on the market in bed coverings, are made of purest wool, sound thick and bulky then lightly twisted. This produces a "lofty" fabric honey-combed with protective aircells and therefore warmer in proportion to weight. Take a pinch of the nap of a KENWOOD between your finger and thumb, it will support the entire weight of the blanket. Nap as firm as this does not wash away.

Kenwoods are used as ordinary blankets or as rugs or substitutes for down comforts. They are made in plain colors or cross bar patterns. The popular colors are tan and white, rose and white, and a three tone check of blue, white and rose. Plain Kenwoods are in tan, blue and rose, 72x84 inches Satin bound, each blanket $10 25

Down Filled Comforts--Direct From England

Comforts filled with genuine Arctic down, with handsome coverings of art satteen $9 50

Richly handsome comforts filled with genuine Arctic down, come in size 72x66 inches, variety of handsome coverings $20 00

Comforts in a lovely weight size 72x66 inches filled with genuine Arctic down covered with handsome art fabric, several popular designs and $14 00

Satin Covered Comforts genuine Arctic down filled 72x66 inches, light, warm $26 25

A splendid range of Comforts, filled with fine combed cotton wadding, splendidly made, covered with chintzes and Satteens in wide range of patterns and colors. These, while not as desirable as the real down filled, serve splendidly their purpose and are offered at very low prices $2 95, $4 00, $5 50

Women Sacrificed Health

There are ambitious women everywhere who, in their anxiety to keep their homes neat and attractive and their children well clothed and fed, continually overdo and pass on ailments as evidenced by headaches, backache, nervousness, irritability and aches and pains which accompany female ills. For over fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the one dependable remedy to restore over-worked, sick and ailing women to health and strength. Thousands of women bear willing testimony to this fact.

Armistice Reflections by War Padre

Rev. G. C. Taylor formerly of Zion Church preached eloquent sermon in Montreal on Armistice Day. Reported in Montreal Gazette as follows: Those who speak of the horror and waste of the late war do not offer much consolation to the Armistice Day mourners, said Rev. George C. Taylor, pastor of Calvin Westminister Presbyterian Church, Westmount preaching to his congregation last night at a special armistice service. The preacher deprecated the attempts being made by propagandists to deny the glory of the war and suggested that they devote their energies to securing proper treatment for hundreds of ex-soldiers throughout the Dominion who are not receiving the appreciation which their country owes them. Referring to the glory of the great enterprise which inspired the soldiers in the war, Mr. Taylor, emphasized the fact that there had been "no loss of life, they laid down their lives and took up immortality. Many of us envy them the glorious death they died," he declared. The heroes who returned from the war with distinguished war records and re-entered civil life were often found to possess no ex-

...ordinary ability here, the preacher observed. This is because the stage in civil life is too small. "Potentially he is still a hero," said the speaker, "Make the stage here big enough for him and he will do heroic deeds again. It is pretty hard to live heroic lives where things are petty." In place of the spirit that seeks to reveal the hideous aspect of war we should, the preacher thought, way leading to one of the largest cemeteries of the war dead of France. It reads: "So long as the country lives, no matter who dies—long live death." Mr. Taylor, who served as chaplain to the forces in France during the war, pictured to the congregation the vicinity of Hill 70 on the eve of a critical engagement. He described Canadian boys at a "Dumbells" concert, entering entirely into the spirit of the entertainment and immediately afterwards entering into the spirit of a religious service. Within a few hours I was working with a burial party laying many of these boys in their graves; but it did not seem horrible or a waste. If you did not see what happened before the battle you might think the battlefield terrible. One felt, however, that they had died as they should have died; and that took the horror from it."

...being placed in cotton bags and sent home. They consisted largely of letters from home, photographs and New Testaments. A shell dropped at the side of the road, and the letters, pictures and testaments were torn to small bits and blown across the battlefield in all directions. "It is these scraps of paper," he declared, "that sanctify the battlefield and take away the horror of it." The pulpit was draped with a Union Jack which the preacher had with him in France, "used to cover the bodies of many Canadian heroes," he said. A wreath was placed in the centre of it.
