POLICE COURT—One prohibition case came up at the Police Court yesterday. A knotty point brought up by Mr. Inman counsel for the defendant, was the question. What constituted illegal drinking? He argued that while the law prohibits the improper use of liquor procured in the regular way from a vendor, there is nothing on the statutes against the actual drinking of liquor otherwise procured. Mr. Bentley scouted this argument as ridiculous. Anybody taking a drink has liquor in his possession, he maintained. Magistrate Martin reserved decision on the case until Wednesday next.

Woman Preacher Defies Bishop

LONDON, May 5.—Miss Maud Royden, leader of a movement to induce the Church of England to admit women preachers to its pulpits, has been permitted to conduct a week day service in St. Botolph's church despite a protest which had been made by the Right Rev. Arthur F. W. Ingram, Bishop of London.

The appearance of the woman in the pulpit, an innovation in the Anglican church, brought crowds to the services. Miss Royden was attired in a surplus and a close fitting headdress of dark blue. Announcement of her intention to lead the service caused considerable comment in the press, revolving about the question of women's fitness to assume men's positions in religious as well as political fields.

At the beginning of the services the Rev. W. Hudson Shaw, rector of the church, invited any who wished to protest against Miss Royden's appearance to do so before leaving the building. He went on to say, however, that under the bawling act of 1860 anybody who disturbed or interrupted a properly appointed preacher was liable to be fined or imprisoned.

"No one," concluded the rector, "has the right to appoint a preacher except the incumbent, and I have done it."

Miss Royden has participated in several public debates over the question whether women shall be admitted to the priesthood and permitted to become preachers. She has declared that women desire to have women act as priests, and quoted from the New Testament in an attempt to show that the commission of priesthood was given to men and women alike at Jerusalem. In defence of her position she said that the head of the Church of England had not always been a man, as Queen Elizabeth, Queen Anne and Queen Victoria had all been supreme heads of the church. She declared that Christ suggested nothing that divided men and women in the vocation of priesthood.

Polish Insurgents In Upper Silesia

BERLIN MAY 5.—Semi-official advices received here are to the effect that all large towns in the industrial region of Upper Silesia are surrounded by Polish Insurgents, while Richersdorf, suburb Gleiwitz and Kieforstadt have been occupied by Rebels. Various places in the district of Orzenburg are reported to have been similarly occupied.

OPPELLEN, May 5.—The British here are outspoken in blaming the Poles for the whole affair and this has developed friction between them and the French and there are reports in British circles that if the French fail to reestablish order and British officers are not withdrawn they are likely to resign in a body. Major Cassel of the British at Larnowitz and Colonel Bond British control at Grossstrehlitz have been thrown into unpleasant conditions and at present are virtually helpless and surrounded by armed Poles who do not conceal their hostility towards the British.

WINNIPEG, May 5.—In answer to a statement made today at Ottawa by Mr. Mosher, Grand President of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees, that men are sleeping on park benches here and had threatened to storm the hotels, Mayor Parnell said the statement was entirely incorrect. "There were a few transients working their way eastward," he said, "who stopped over in Winnipeg last Sunday. They were given beds and provided with food while here."

Many Dramatic Stories Narrated

43 Survivors of Japanese S. S. Tokuyo Maru at Seattle. Eight lives lost.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 5.—Forty-three of the sixty-five survivors of the Japanese freighter Tokuyo Maru, which burned to the water's edge yesterday off the Oregon coast, with a loss of eight lives, were in Seattle hospitals today suffering from shock and exposure.

The remaining twenty-two survivors reported themselves already recovered from their experience. Only one body of the eight dead has been recovered. The survivors arrived here late last night aboard the United States transport Budford. Officers of the transport and survivors told many dramatic stories today of the fire and their escape from the vessel.

The twenty-two survivors, who reported themselves recovered, were the only ones of the sixty-five who were able to get into the Tokuyo Maru's lifeboats, according to Budford officers. The others were rescued from the sea by officers and seamen of the Budford to the transport's small boats.

Captain Kerr, master of the Budford, declared his ship had not received an S. O. S. from the Tokuyo Maru, but was attracted to the stricken vessel by sighting the column of smoke.

"We had just been having boat drill," said Captain Kerr, "when I saw the smoke in the distance. We were 12 miles distant then, and fifty-five minutes later were on the scene."

"There were constant explosions and with every explosion the flames shot a hundred feet into the air, and bales of cotton were hurled two hundred feet high."

Captain Zuzuki, master of Tokuyo Maru, said the fire started in the coal bunkers and was due, he believed, to spontaneous combustion. The ship carried 1,000 tons of coal, 700 tons of fuel oil, and a big cargo of nitrates, lumber and cotton.

British Auditor General's Report

LONDON, England, May 5.—A reflection of the Canadian camp riots in England two years ago is to be found in the report of the Auditor-General on British army stores accounts published here. Under the head of losses due to theft, fraud, arson or gross negligence appears an item: Loss of huts and stores at Kimmel by three fires; colonial troop awaiting repatriation suspected, £2,811. Other items against Canadian units include: Motor car lost by Canadian ordnance depot in Belgium, £180; deficiencies of stores at Kimmel, allegedly due to thefts, £283; stores illegally disposed of at Shorncliffe by two non-commissioned officers, £1,278; deficiencies in supplies issued to hospital at Brighton and not accounted for due to the repatriation of the Canadian staff, £135; deficiencies in supplies at Shorncliffe attributed to error of account 220 pounds. The last two items are not associated with theft, fraud or negligence.

OPPEIN, UPPER SILESIA

May 5.—The Italian forces at Gross Strehlitz today opened with artillery fire on the Poles who were attempting to occupy the city. Colonel Bond, British Control Officer, at Gross Strehlitz, reported to British headquarters here last night that he opened fire on 2,000 to 3,000 Poles attempting to occupy the city. The Poles brought up light field pieces and were replying. Colonel Bond who has approximately 200 Italian troops, also reported that he probably could not hold out long. A British Sergeant Major has been mortally wounded.

A crowd of Germans attacked a Pole in the streets of Oppeln and beat him to death before the police could interfere. No report has been received here from Rybnik.

In Kattowitz crowds are parading the streets but there is no fighting. Italians known to be dead are three officers, one of them of high rank and twelve privates.

THE PERRY TRIAL

YARMOOUTH, May 5.—Three witnesses testified at the session this morning of the preliminary examination into the charge against Mansfield Ross of having been an accessory after the murder of Captain George H. Perry with which Mrs. Perry, the widow, is charged. After their testimony had been taken, Stipendiary Magistrate Pelton remanded Ross until Saturday morning next at eleven o'clock.

The chief evidence this morning hinged upon the watch, watch-fob and watch-chain belonging to the late Captain. Miss Eleanor Perry, daughter of the murdered man and close friend of Mansfield Ross, who was the first witness, identified a watch-chain produced by the Crown as having belonged to her father. She said she found it in a bureau drawer after her father's death. Her mother said she could have it as a souvenir, witness said. The witness also identified a watch
