RELIGIOUS SERVICES

St. James Church

Rev. C. J. St. Clair Jeans, Summerside, preached, both sermons at St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday in the absence of Rev. R. M. Legate who preached at the anniversary service in Summerside.

The evening sermon was on the subject "Taking Offense." The text was from Luke 15, 28. "He was angry and would not go in."

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The services at St. Paul's Church yesterday were well attended. In the morning the Rector continuing his discourses on the distinctive messages contained in St. Luke's Gospel spoke of the unjust steward, who, when his master dismissed him for dishonesty set about providing a welcome and home for himself among his master's debtors, and was commended by his master for his worldly wisdom.

During the Sunday evenings in Lent, the Rector is speaking of episodes in our Lord's Passion "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world," said our Lord, a little while before He and His disciples passed over the brook Kedron into the garden, where he poured out His soul in an agony of prayer to God asking that if it were possible to let the cup of suffering pass from Him, but ending "not my will but Thine be done." It was His hour or mortal victory. From the garden He was taken to the high priest's palace. Not being an independent nation the Jews had to find some fault in Him that would secure the condemnation of the Romans.

St. John says He came unto His own and His own received Him not. We are His own, born and baptized into the Christian Faith. Can the same be said of us, or are we amongst those who receive power to become the Sons of God. God gives us the choice. He offers us the Saviour. Have we accepted Him? Will we accept Him? Are we His? There are no more important questions than these for us to answer.

During the offertory the choir sang "Who is on the Lord's Side." The flowers on the Communion Table were provided by Mrs. Meservy and Miss Wade in loving memory of their sister.

St. Dunstan's Basilica

The usual Masses at St. Dunstan's Basilica were largely attended. About two thousand received Holy Communion. The Mass at 8 o'clock was celebrated by His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan, who also gave instructions to the children.

At 11 o'clock Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Michael Francis, of St. Dunstan's University. Rev. Emmett O'Hanley was deacon and Rev. James Farrell sub-deacon. His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan was present in the sanctuary. The sermon was preached by Rev. Francis Lyons, C.S.P. Chicago, on the subject, "Casting out the Evil Spirit."

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock Benediction was given for the children.

In the evening the Rosary was recited. Hymns were chanted by the Corpus Christi Choir. The Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was given by Rev. Louis Dougan. His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan assisted at the throne. The Chaplains were Rev. John A. Sullivan and Rev. Emmett O'Hanley.

The Baptist Church

At the morning service the Rev. Dr. Vincent preached an interesting sermon on "Limiting God" basing his thought on the accusation of Israel in the seventy-eighth Psalm, particularly verse 41 "Yea, they turned back and tempted God and limited the Holy One of Israel." As with Israel, so with us. God offers unlimited blessing and power, we limit Him by grudging some part of our lives. Limited then as now by those who know best His grace and power, limited then as now by the same spirit, they turned back, they forgot His power, they quit, they fled.

The choir sang "God will take care of you," and Goss' "O Saviour of the world." The ordinance of Christian Baptism was administered to seven candidates at this service.

At the evening service which was broadcast by station C. H. O. K., Dr. Vincent continued his series of sermons on prophecy, delivering a very thoughtful address on "The next great event." Included in the music of the evening was a quartette by Messrs. Quigley, Calder, Dingwell and Sterns as well as Stainer's anthem "I am Alpha and Omega."

Death has again entered our ranks and removed one of our members, who was ever interested and active in furthering the Master's kingdom and was greatly esteemed for her fine Christian character. Rev. Dr. Ramsay at the morning worship expressed in the name of the congregation beautiful words of loving sympathy and goodwill to the bereaved husband, Henry Smith, and words of deep appreciation of the devoted Christian life and character of the deceased Mrs. Smith.

temper of the members during the debate it is conceivable that the measure will have a stormy passage through committee.

Another measure that is expected to add to the length of the session is the Unemployment Relief Act which will be extended for another year with certain amendments. Already the subject of much debate this session, it was temporarily set aside when the banking crisis developed in the United States the first of this month.

Premier Bennett thought it might be necessary to alter the measure or add to it, as a result of reactions to the United States situation. Last week he announced that there would be another change made in the act but that it had no direct connection with the United States situation.

This measure is on the order paper for discussion when the House resumes tomorrow. It is on the resolution stage and there will be much opportunity for debate before it is ready to send to the Senate. The Prime Minister is putting this item ahead of the Railway measure, so that it may go to the Senate. The Railway measure has already passed the Senate where it originated.

The Order Paper is crowded with Bills and resolutions many of them Government orders which must be dealt with at the present session.

an understanding on larger political questions put forward by the head of the Italian Government, with the object of securing collaboration of the four western powers in an effort to promote, in the spirit of the Kellogg Pact and a 'no force' declaration, a long period of peace for Europe and the world. The British Ministers, leaving Rome tomorrow morning for London, will break the journey at Paris, where they will have an opportunity of meeting the members of the French Government.

The 'no force' agreement mentioned in the text refers to a declaration signed at Geneva by Britain, Germany, France and Italy last December 11 endorsing a principle of simultaneous equality of status for Germany and security for France. The United States signed a part of the agreement.

It was this agreement which induced Germany to return to the World Disarmament Conference after she had withdrawn.

Italian officials said the French and German Governments have been kept fully informed of the conversations and already have received copies of Signor Mussolini's project, which they now were studying. No indication was given as to the contents of the project, but it was officially stated Il Duce had prepared it before Mr. MacDonald arrived. It is based on a speech by the Italian Premier at Turin last October 23 in which he said collaboration of the four western powers furnished the only means for securing permanent peace in Europe.

The communique did not mention Mr. MacDonald's disarmament plan.

British officials said the premiers did not discuss the MacDonald Club at all, since Italian experts had not completed examination of it. This examination was not expected to be completed before Thursday.

STATESMEN AGREE

The British statesmen, officials said, gave complete approval of the Mussolini plan and agreed to recommend it strongly to Premier Eduard Daladier of France.

If M. Daladier indicates an attitude of acceptance and wishes to discuss the details, it was understood Mr. MacDonald would ask his views regarding a possible four-Premier conference, including Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, at some city in northern Italy. The conference would be similar to the Locarno meeting in 1925 and would carry the Locarno conclusions a step farther.

British officials said Mr. MacDonald and Signor Mussolini conversed only briefly concerning disarmament, devoting most of their time to political questions.

They reasoned, it was explained, that disarmament could not come before the present troubled situation in Europe was not only smoothed out, but settled in such a way as it could not recur.

The formal conversations lasted more than three hours, not including exchanges of dinners between the statesmen.

Following a conversation this afternoon, the Italian Premier and Mr. MacDonald were in the best of spirits as they talked for sound films and posed for photographs at the British Embassy.

The visiting statesmen will give a dinner tonight at the Embassy for Il Duce. They will leave for home at noon tomorrow.

DELIVERS SPEECH

Happy days will return to the world if it listens to Rome, Il Duce declared in a speech today before the Fascist Commercial Federation for which he took time off from the conferences with Mr. MacDonald.

PUBLIC FORUM

JUDGE STEWART AND ST. COLUMBA

Sir,—In your account of what took place in the Hall of the Benévolo Irish Society after the parade on Friday last you report me as saying, "If the Scotch had done a good thing for the Irish latter had reciprocated and in the sixth century had sent St. Columba over to Scotland to christianize the country." There is no such person known to ancient or modern history as St. Columba but St. Columba is a well authenticated ecclesiastic born in Ireland who in his prime left his native island accompanied by twelve disciples and went on a mission to Northern Britain where he carried on his life work in converting the heathen kingdom of the Northern Picts to christianity. The whole of Northern Scotland was converted by his labours and those of his disciples into the christian beliefs. St. Columba was no ordinary person. Both on the father's and on the mother's side he was descended from princely families in Ireland and Conal, King of the Scots in Northern Britain, was his kinsman. I mentioned in my remarks that when the Scotch Presbyterians of Marshfield were in the year 1860 looking for a name for their church they called it St. Columba out of compliment for the saint who had done so much for the land of their forefathers. If you care to turn back the files of the Guardian for several years you will find a report of my address before the Caledonia Club on St. Andrew's night responding to "The Day and a' who honour it," where I there referred to St. Columba and how greatly Scotland was indebted to Ireland for the gift of St. Columba.

No one should ever attempt to speak on any question unless he knows whereof he speaks. I knew somewhat of St. Columba. I never knew of a St. Columbus. Let me in all kindness suggest to your reporter never attempt to correct a speaker unless you are absolutely certain of your ground and even then it is wiser to report the speaker just as he says.

I am Sir, etc., W. S. STEWART. (The regrettable error referred to was a typographical one. It was not the fault of the reporter.—Ed. G.)

MRS. T. EATON

which subsequently became one of the biggest departmental store enterprises in the Dominion.

Mrs. Eaton was known widely and particularly among her husband's employees, as a staunch friend of labor. It was her enthusiasm for shorter working hours that induced him to pioneer in early store closing. In the early days of the Toronto store she knew every employee personally and even when the staff reached several hundred she provided an annual entertainment for it. She was the store's first "welfare department." After the business became an Incorporated Company in 1891 she served as a Director for several years.

Her interest in the arts led Mrs. Eaton to form a dramatic club among her friends which eventually only solution for present ills, repeating a prediction made in a speech at Milan last October 25 on the occasion of the "Blackshirt" decennial that Europe will go Fascist within a decade.

On that occasion he voiced contempt for words instead for acts in international affairs, adding, "let's have fewer conferences and more decisions."

He told the Federation the world's principal problems now were political and moral rather than economic, continuing, "but they can be solved if the Governments and the people listen to the words of our wisdom."

At a luncheon at the Quirinal Palace in honor of the visitors, Il Duce sat at the left of King Victor Emanuel and Mr. MacDonald sat at His Majesty's right. Many prominent members of the nobility, officials of the Government and the British Embassy staff were present.

Prior to the luncheon, the King received Premier MacDonald and Sir John in audience.

After the luncheon, Il Duce and the British visitors went to the British Embassy, where they talked over world problems for an hour and three quarters. This was their final formal conversation.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT SUMMERSIDE

The Presbyterian congregation at Summerside celebrated the 68th anniversary of the opening and dedication of their Church yesterday, it being on March 19th, 1865 that the dedication service was conducted by Rev. R. S. Paterson, of Belec. Rev. F. W. Frame was the first pastor. Rev. Dr. McGrhead Legate, of St. James Church, Charlottetown, was the special speaker for the day.

At the morning service he delivered an eloquent discourse particularly appropriate for the occasion from the song of Solomon, chapter 2 verse 2 as the Lily among thorns so is my love among the daughters. The speaker prefaced his sermon with a few remarks on the history of the Presbyterian Church at Summerside for the last eighty years. There are some things that can be measured by time but the influence of a church its minister and congregation cannot be measured by rule or time. The influence of the Presbyterian Church at Summerside has left its mark in the community as well as on God's records. Since the time of Rev. Mr. Frame, the first pastor, in spite of a dwindling congregation, through migration and other factors the faith and courage of the Presbyterian has never faltered and at no developed into the Margaret Eaton School of Literature and Expression in 1905. She was a generous patroness of painters and sculptors and recently gave the Toronto Art Gallery a notable piece of sculpture by the Jugo-Slavian, Ivan Mestrovic.

Before the death of her son, Sir John Eaton, she co-operated enthusiastically in building the Timothy Eaton Memorial Church and the surgical wing of the General Hospital.

Mrs. Eaton's sporting instinct was still keen when she was 73. That year she made her first flight in an aeroplane piloted by Col William Bishop, noted Canadian war-time ace and her kinsman.

Mrs. Eaton's children were Edward Young, deceased; Josephine (Mrs. Burnside); Margaret (Mrs. C. E. Burden); both of Toronto; two sons who died in infancy; George who was drowned in boyhood; Col. William Fletcher Eaton, of Oakville; and the late Sir John Craig Eaton, whose career as President of the T. Eaton Company was so striking. She had 16 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren, and is survived by a sister, Mrs. C. P. Bishop, and a brother, George Beattie.

OAKVILLE, Ont., March 19—Mrs. Timothy Eaton, widow of the founder of the T. Eaton Company, died here Saturday night at the age of 91, surrounded by the immediate members of her family. She had been ill four days of pneumonia.

Fear that her life was in real danger did not strike Mrs. Eaton's family, despite her advanced age, until last Friday when she became alarmingly worse. On Friday night she was not expected to live until the next day, but the strong constitution which had carried her through long and energetic career kept her alive until the following night.

Her death broke a link with the past, for few persons are living who took an active part in the early life of the commercial enterprise started modestly by her husband and developed by him and his successors into a nation-wide institution. Not many, either, remember Toronto, or "Muddy York," as it was when she was born.

The funeral will be held Tuesday with a private service at "Raymar," her Oakville residence, and a public service at Eaton Memorial United Church in Toronto. She will be buried in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

Special music in the evening was an anthem "Break forth with joy and song of Homeland" by the male quartette. The hymns were 21, 298 and 599.

The scripture reading was taken from 2nd chapter Philipians.

time in its history has its zeal and generosity been so great as now. Telegrams of congratulation were read from Rev. W. M. Townsend, of Fairville, N. B., Rev. G. S. Mitchell and letters from friends in Halifax, N. S., and others. In adding his own felicitations and that of the congregation of St. James' Church, Rev. Mr. Legate, paid tribute to Rev. Mr. Jeans, and his faithful work. He also congratulated the elders and congregation of their success in keeping their church together in spite of difficult times. Rev. Mr. Legate in his sermon stressed particularly the relation of Christ to His church as depicted by Solomon and the devotion of the Church to Christ through service. How the Church has always blossomed best when persecuted. He warned the congregation of the many brambles some insidious ones within the Church itself which have done their best to check its growth. But in spite of all this the Church still stands a permanent and immovable thing to stand forever and we should thank God that we are privileged to work and share the responsibility as individuals in upholding the Church and God's word. The special scripture readings for the morning were Isaiah Chapter 33 and St. Matthew 16. Special hymns sung were 89, 282 and 297. Welcome Wanderer Welcome, was sung by a quartette of male voices. In the Valley of Peace was sung by Miss Horton and Mr. Mountain.

Evening Service

A large congregation attended evening service. Rev. Mr. Legate preached a striking sermon, showing that everyone in the Church has his or her special work to do in the building up and repairing of the church, from text "After him repaired Meshullam the son of Berechiah over against his chamber," Nehemiah, Chap. 3, verse 30. This gem of thought taken from the story of the rebuilding of the City of Zion by the Jews after their return from slavery was in the speaker's opinion one of the most perfect examples of what can be done by individuals under great difficulties if we are made to realize our duty and if we set about to do that thing which is nearest us to do. There are times to weep and times to pray, but there is also a time to work. He also pointed out the great danger of the Church resting on the laurels of its past achievements. Instead we must ever be on the alert and each individual must find their special work and do it. The speaker closed with a special blessing of the continued prosperity and growth of the faith of our fathers at Summerside.

Special music in the evening was an anthem "Break forth with joy and song of Homeland" by the male quartette. The hymns were 21, 298 and 599.

The scripture reading was taken from 2nd chapter Philipians.

Card Of Thanks

To the Electors of Ward Four, Ladies and Gentlemen:— I greatly appreciate the many expressions of good-will and support recently received and the confidence reposed in me in my election by acclamation as a Councillor for Ward Four. I also desire to thank the Press for very kindly references to me.

My election, I am sure, is due to the views which I hold in regard to civic administration. These are well known, namely: Economy, Reduced Expenditure, and a Balanced Budget. It is another protest against the non-essential and wasteful expenditures of the last few years and the mounting cost of government.

My previous experience and record as a Councillor for your Ward and the fact that I am not connected with or interested in any organization or movement seeking grants or favors from the City, will be a guarantee that my actions at the Council Board will be solely in and for the interest of the tax-payers.

Respectfully Yours, JOHN F. WHEAR. March 18, 1933.
