Mayor George McIntyre of Monague, paid us a brief visit the first of the week and discussed among other things his track and plans for his meeting August 3rd.

Germany being mentally the most war-like of European nations, generally leads in war technique and others follow, although Mussolini of Italy has created some new theories that were tested out in Ethiopia. It was practically decided by the big-wigs some years ago that there would be very little further use for the horse—or mule—in the next European war.

The new idea did away with these, but to and behold, trouble was developed in Spain due to mechanical defects developed, showing that the horse still has military value. Not only that, but came outfitted with certain dyes and ordinary mud to lend inconspicuousness, horses were of great value to the German army.

Below will be found the Directors' report of the Prince Edward Island Harness Racing Club, which has been showing as it does that the institution is flourishing and accomplishing a worthy work in the promotion of colt breeding and racing.

A meeting of the Directors of the Prince Edward Island Harness Racing Club was held immediately after the annual meeting and the following officers elected for the coming year:

A new type of number has been invented by James Lewis of Lewiston, Maine, to replace arm or saddle numbers which have been used so many years to place the horses in harness races.

The Directorate of the Prince Edward Island Harness Racing Club is pleased to submit to its members a report of the doings of the past year.

16 Entries Set For King's Plate

(By The Canadian Press)
TORONTO, May 20—Tuned for the greatest turf test, 16 thoroughbred were declared fit and ready tonight to gallop over a mile-and-a-furlong tomorrow in the 79th running of the King's Plate.

When the field trots on the track at picturesque Woodbine Park in Toronto's east end to battle for the 50 guineas, donated by the King and the major portion of a $7,500 added purse, an under-sized brown colt, Bunty Lawless, will rule overwhelming favorite.

Not only has Joe Louis become quite a fair horseman, but now he's a candid camera fan. Bill Terry has stopped pitching with his New York Giants during batting practice. He doesn't take any other violent exercise and not even Bill's rubber corset can hide his trim physique.

Looking Over Battlers For Welter Crown

(By Alan Randal, Canadian Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, May 20—Mostly about the "little fellows" who bat for the wretched boxing crown next Thursday:

Jersey Jones, the Boswell of featherweight champion Henry Armstrong's camp, Henry wanted to be a doctor. Money gave out after he left high school and he had to give up such ideas.

Once Armstrong tried cross-country running. Married now and the daddy of a three-year-old daughter, Hank plans to retire to a California farm when the money comes. But he promises that that won't be for another two years at least.

Mrs. Barney Ross doesn't object to her spouse continuing a ring career. This is Barney's sixth straight training session at Grossinger Lake, N. Y. Barney's mother, now 62, attends all his major fights. She'll be here to see him go against Armstrong.

Indians Win Softball Tilt From Bees

Throttling dangerous threats of their opponents in the last three innings of the game Indians last night chucked up their first win of the City Softball League by defeating a much-improved Bee squad 13 to 7.

Scoring all their runs in the first six frames Indians looked as if they were going to inflict another beating on the Bees but suddenly in the sixth the losers began to get to Pete Kelly. Held to one hit up to this time the Bees loaded the sacks with none out but Kelly came through without a run being scored against him. But the Bees attack kept going for the next three frames and before the contest ended had piled in seven corners while the Indians in the last three frames twice in the last session the losers had the bases loaded and Kelly had to be at his best to hold them to three runs as his mates began erring behind him.
