CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE

FIRE IN CHICKEN HOUSE—Firemen were called out at 4:40 yesterday afternoon for a blaze in a chicken house at the rear of a residence on the corner of King and Weymouth streets. It was said to belong to Mrs. J. Peters. Damage was slight.

FIND RATIONING CARD—Emmett McDonald, 10-year-old Charlottetown boy, who lives at 110 Hillsboro Street, and his younger brother picked up a sugar, tea and coffee rationing card on one of the city streets yesterday. The boys went immediately to the City Police station with the card and were told by the police to take it to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks as it belonged to a person outside the city. The two boys walked up to the R.C.M.P. headquarters and turned it over to the Mounties who will return it to the owner, a resident on King Street Road. The two young boys were commended by the police for their conscientious effort to restore the lost card to its rightful owner.

WELCOMED TO MANSE—Flight Lieut. the Rev. T.H. and Mrs. Buswell Somers arrived by airplane last evening from Montreal and were met at the airport by members of the Kirk session, who welcomed the minister and his bride this being the latter's first visit to Charlottetown. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Somers were driven by Mr. D.A. MacKinnon, session clerk, to the manse where representatives of the elders' wives met to their future home. This is the first time the manse has been occupied since the retirement of the Rev. Dr. Moorhead Legate over a year ago.

—still no clothing value to equal this

WE ARE often asked: "How do your wartime values compare with those of pre-war days?" It is our conscientious claim, based on 32 years' experience in the made-to-measure clothing business, that Tip Top values today are greater than ever before. We don't believe you can match Tip Top values dollar-for-dollar anywhere and we invite comparisons.

In making this statement, we are considering every factor which contributes to clothing values—quality of the woollens, the skilled craftsmanship which goes into the tailoring, the character of the styling and the intrinsic dollar value in today's moderate price.

From the first day of war, Tip Top Tailors swung into the production of vast numbers of military uniforms without dislocating the quality of its civilian clothes. The result is this: The men of our armed forces are being supplied with uniforms of high quality and the men on the home front are still able to buy thriftily fine tailored-to-measure clothes at a price they can afford to pay.

The Government, naturally, always has and will have first call on our facilities. It may be, therefore, that deliveries to our customers will not always be as prompt as formerly. You will realize that the demands of the war effort must come first and we suggest you allow a little more time for delivery.

May we suggest that you do not buy more clothes than are actually necessary. Buy what you need only when you need it. There is ample clothing for everyone's needs today.
