ALWAYS PLEASE

They have done so for 56 Years

Above are shown Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, his son, Charles Spencer, and his wife, the former Lita Grey, who has left her husband and declares she will never return. The marital break came when, it is said, Charlie ordered an end to an early morning party at the Chaplin Beverly Hills manor. His wife says he referred to her as his friends as "common."

HOLDING SEA SUPREMACY FOR BRITAIN

New Craft by far the Most Powerful Fighting Ships in World

LONDON, Dec. 23.—With the exception of four battleships of the Iron Duke class, Great Britain's pre-war fleet has disappeared, and for the first time in 270 years the British navy is without a reserve force of ships of the line. Four of the costly monsters that formed the background of the grand fleet at Jutland and costing nearly £8,000,000 pounds to build are being prepared for discard, says the naval correspondent of the Westminster Gazette.

HANDMAID THE STRAWBERRY PLANTATION

(Experimental Farms Note)

At this season of the year every effort should be put forth to encourage the growth of the newly set strawberry plantation. Results obtained by the Horticultural Division of the Central Experimental Farm, (see report Horticulture Division, 1921) show conclusively the extreme importance of having a considerable amount of soil in each early date. Endeavor to get a full stand of plants by the middle of September, and then keep all new runners up to date. Each little plant in a mat should have at least 4 or 5 inches of space, to avoid overcrowding.

Across Africa by Motor

Excerpts from The National Geographic (June '26).
Georges-Marie Haardt.

Fifteen thousand miles by motor through the heart of Africa is almost like a figment of Jules Verne's imagination, but it represents the actual accomplishment of the Central African Expedition, which it was my privilege to lead from Algeria to Mozambique. Eight automobiles equipped with caterpillar tractors made the trip in nine months. Each of the cars could accommodate three persons and, with its trailer, was an independent unit, carrying its own tools, tents, and foodstuffs. If separated from the others, a one-car contingent could provide for its own needs for several days. A detailed account of all our adventures must be reserved for several volumes, but I am including here the more interesting incidents of the journey. Crossing the desert we traveled more than 350 miles without finding a drop of water. We saw the dried skeletons of several travelers who had died of thirst. The Arabs say that death in the desert from thirst is an indescribable sustained torture in which the whole body dries up. The contact of clothing becomes insufferable and it is discarded, but only to let the cruel rays of the sun inflict additional torment.

The Enterprise Heater

Makes Your Home Warm and Cheerful

Operating on exactly the same plan as the Enterprise Pipeless Furnace, the Enterprise Cabinet Circulator throws out the hot air and draws in the cold, heating the far corners of every room, not just a part of the nearest one. With the Enterprise Circulator, gone forever are the cold shivery days you've had in your home — gone are the chilly mornings—gone are the usual winter discomforts of the average country home. And so cheap! Try it 30 Days Without Cost to You. The Enterprise Circulator should sell at a higher price—other heating systems not so good cost much more—but we're satisfied with many big sales instead of a few big profits — and so the ENTERPRISE IS SENT TO YOUR NEAREST RAILWAY STATION, FREIGHT PAID, FOR ONLY $59.50. Try it thirty days at our expense—you'll keep it for the years of comfort it guarantees.

To prove our faith in this wonderful Enterprise Circulator we will ship it freight paid to your home for thirty days free trial.

Try the wonderful ENTERPRISE CIRCULATOR thirty days at our expense—test it for fuel economy, for real heating powers, for holding fire overnight and for giving perfect warmth during the coldest days.

Try it out thirty days free—if you don't like it we'll pay return freight and not charge you a cent —if you do like it you'll say you never paid $59.50 for more real warmth and comfort.

They are the Centurion, King George V. Thunderer and Ajax, and though they are outclassed by a "post Jutland" ship which are to replace them, they are superior to many vessels which are being retained by foreign powers. Their passing is in accordance with the naval treaty signed at Washington five years ago. To replace these discarded ships the super-dreadnoughts Nelson and Rodney have been built and will be ready to join the British fleet during the summer of 1927. These huge vessels, considered away the most powerful fighting ships in the world, says the correspondent, carry nine 16-inch guns in three turrets. They are the first British ships to have their guns disposed in this way and in many other respects will be unique.

The early formation of the runners can be encouraged by the removal of the blossoms, by frequent cultivating and application of a nitrogenous food. 1925 has shown the importance of having a considerable amount of nitrogen available in September. At this season a large number of young plants are forming fruit buds for the next season's crop and applications of nitrate of soda at this time encourage crop, and bud development. The plots nitrated at the rate of 300lb. per acre in September, there was an increase over 20 per cent in crop, as compared with the check plots which did not receive any fertilizer, and an increase of one half that amount when compared with plots which received the nitrogen in the late spring. As this appears to be a very critical time in the history of the plantation, farmers would be well advised to consider the application of nitrate of soda in early September at the rate of 200 lb. per acre. M. B. Davis, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

great beasts have entered this circle the villagers are noiselessly posted around the edge. They are provided with torches, and at a given signal fire the bush and grass within the circle. Frantic with terror, and defenseless and blinded by smoke, the elephants huddle together, while the natives kill them with their spears or wait until the fire has destroyed them. In the Belgian Congo we traveled for more than 375 miles over a trail cut through the forest for us by our Belgian friends, who employed 40,000 natives in its construction and completed it in less than a month. The native African of the Equatorial Forest has a sort of "radio" system that serves his purpose admirably. The instrument used is a huge signal drum of peculiar construction. By means of a code, the natives can relay messages over long distances in a very short time. The drum may be heard from six to ten miles.

We rather doubted the efficiency of this strange telegraph until we were forced to believe by personal experience. When passing through a certain village we asked the chief for four chickens to be brought to us a short distance ahead on the road we were to follow. As the drum player struck the message off to us, so that the chief could direct us by sending runners of Richard Paget fellow of the physical society of London.

Radio may do what all other forms of communication have failed to do—standardize pronunciation. At least, great things in that direction are looked for by Sir Richard Paget fellow of the physical society of London.
