AN ARTISTIC EXHIBIT— Quite a large number of citizens called yesterday afternoon and evening to see the water-color sketches exhibited by Miss Marion E. Jack, who is at present visiting in Charlottetown, accompanied by her friend, Miss Nicholas, of Troy, N. Y. Miss Jack has studied with the masters in Paris and London and her sketches bear evidence of artistic talent of a very high order. They include portrait as well as landscape sketches made in Ireland, France, Palestine, and other places in the Old World, also a number of local views and portraits made during her few days in Charlottetown. They are all both artistic and interesting, and Miss Jack who takes a pardonable pride in showing them, discusses them most pleasingly. She has generously placed the proceeds, resulting from the small admission fee of ten cents, at the disposal of the Red Cross Society.

BRITISH ARMY GAINS 175 HERE IN ONE DAY

NEW YORK—The British Recruiting Mission enlisted 175 men yesterday thereby bringing the total enlistments since the mission opened to more than 1,100. Four more British recruits applied yesterday. They were J. M. Troughton, Jack Fulton, Cosmo Bellew, and N. F. Chester.

Mme. Gabrielle Molnar, a Parisienne by birth, but the wife of a native Hungarian, who is now enlisted in the United States army, volunteered her services at the British headquarters yesterday for ambulance work. She was eager to serve in any capacity, from driving an ambulance or handling wounded to cooking for the ambulance unit. She was advised to become a member of the American Women's Ambulance Unit now being organized by Miss Jane Boland Sullivan for service in France.

Among the notable additions to the British recruiting staff yesterday was Captain Geoffrey Harper Bonnell, 24 years old, a native of New York City, a great grandson of John Harper, a founder of Harper Brothers and son of J. Harper Bonnell of Dongan Hills, Staten Island. Captain Bonnell is one of the heroes of the Great War, being generally recognized in England as the man who brought to an end the daring exploits of the famous German aviator, Lieut. Bolke.

Although a native of America, Captain Bonnell has been serving with the British Army ever since the outbreak of the war. He enlisted as a private in the 7th Battalion of the Canadian Field Battery of Montreal, and went with the first overseas forces from Canada to the fighting front in France. He served in the ranks for eleven months, during which period he participated in the severe fighting around Ypres.

Bonnell then went to England and received a commission in the Royal Field Artillery, from which he was transferred to the British Royal Flying Corps. He saw seven months of air service on the Somme as a member of Squadron 32 of the Royal Flying Corps. His commander during that time was Colonel Reese, who is now in Washington as one of the heads of the United States Flying Corps.

Captain Bonnell laconically declined yesterday to take any credit for the exploit in which Lieut. Bolke met his end. He refused to discuss his share in the air battle further but to assert that Bolke was a "splendid sport" and a "fine fighter," but a man who was on the "wrong side" and "bound to get it some time or other."

As Bonnell expressed, Bolke "got it" near Baumpaine last August when some thirty German aviators were encircled by an allied flying squadron of fifteen men, among them Bonnell. The air battle was stubborn, the allied planes though outnumbered, gradually gaining the upperhand through superior marksmanship. Bolke was so riddled with machine gun bullets that he could no longer direct his plane. Bonnell had made a special mark of him, although he refused to admit that it was his bullet that finally sent Bolke to his death. The German aviator, weakened by loss of blood, fell over in his seat and caused his machine to collide with an allied plane. The crash which followed marked the end of Bolke's dramatic career.

Several days later a group of English aviators, including Bonnell, who had participated in the battle, flew behind the German lines and dropped wreaths of flowers for Bolke's grave. On returning to their own lines, however, the aviators encountered two more German flyers and brought them down.

Another participant in this air engagement was Lieutenant Allan "Mit" Thomas, of Virginia, who also arrived here yesterday with Bonnell. Thomas was a student at Toronto University when he enlisted with the First Canadian Overseas Forces.

In a cable message received yesterday by Brig. Gen. W. A. White, of the British Recruiting Mission from the Earl of Derby, Great Britain's Secretary of State for War appealed to every able-bodied British subject in this country, eligible for war service to join his colors. The message read:

"Thanks to the Government of the United States, the United States Recruiting organization is open to receive British subjects resident in the United States as recruits for the British Army. The path of duty now lies clear ahead for every British subject of military age who is resident in the United States and is physically fit to serve. It is his duty to enlist and not to ignore the urgent call to the colors which is now being made to him."

"Brittishers who are residents of the United States have now the opportunity to prove to their kinsmen through out the British Empire and to their friends in the United States that they too, are ready to fight the cause of freedom in her struggle against militarism."

"It is my fervent hope that every British subject in the United States who is of military age and physically fit will respond to the call of his mother country and enlist in the English, Scotch, Welsh or Irish regiment, according to his descent."

A DOCTOR WHO BLAMES THE DOCTORS.

MONTREAL—"Our present burial service is a libel upon the Lord," said Dr. C. J. Hastings, medical officer of health, Toronto, in advocating the teaching of hygiene in the schools of Canada at the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association at McGill University here yesterday. Continuing, Dr. Hastings said:

"Our ministers quote 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.' He does nothing of the kind. We medical men are largely responsible for the death rate, and it is time that the Canadian Medical Association took drastic action in order to safeguard public health against the encroachment of disease, which endangers our citizens and lowers the standard of the nation's manhood."

A resolution was passed recommending that the teaching of hygiene be compulsory in all universities and in all the facilities thereof, and recommending the organization of a practical course in all normal schools throughout the Dominion, and the adoption of text books on hygiene in all schools.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease.

For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. Get Hood's. No other medicine acts like it.

COL. FORD'S KINDNESS TO WOUNDED OFFICERS.

LONDON.—Colonel Ford, assistant medical director of the First Canadian division at the front, who was a sufferer from a chance shell, and was reported killed, is progressing favorably. A Nova Scotia officer in the hospital here told a correspondent of the kindness shown him by Colonel Ford, who comes from Queens county. At the time of the Vimy attack, when Colonel Ford was engaged to the hill, he found time not only to personally attend to this officer, but dispatched a wire to his relatives. He then followed it up with a letter.

To the presidents and secretaries of the different branches of the Red Cross Society in the surrounding districts:— We desire and urge you to co-operate with our branch in helping to increase the general fund of the Red Cross Society by availing yourselves of the opportunity offered through the patriotic stand taken by—

The Estate James Kennedy
 in their
Special Mid-Summer Millinery Sale
 beginning
Today and ending Saturday, June 23rd.
 Do not forget the dates
 (SIGNED) Mrs. Dr. E. G. Gillis, Pres.,
Mrs. W. H. Darrach, Sec.;
Kensington Branch Red Cross Society.

We will donate to the Red Cross Society 15 per cent of the total Millinery sales made during the above dates.

Our reason for doing this is that we consider this society one of the most beneficial branches of service in the prosecution of this war. Because we know that on account of the extremely bad weather the Ladies have been putting off the buying of their hats until it looks more like Summer. By buying during the above date you will be providing more funds for a branch of the society which the Ladies have been helping nobly for the past three years.

We have been making preparations for some time, and have just received a particularly attractive assortment of new hats for Ladies, Misses and Children.

Bring your friends; everybody most cordially invited.
