DREAMS OF SCIENCE

The possibilities of science are as unlimited as are the resources of the universe. Day by day some new conquest is recorded, day by day a new impossibility is added to the list of possibilities.

What next? is the question on every lip. What next can man devise for purposes of destruction? What for the betterment of humanity, the alleviation of suffering, the healing of disease and the lengthening of human life?

It is true that while human ingenuity is being almost entirely monopolized in the invention of "means for slaying our fellow men" there are notable exceptions.

What may we not look for in the field of scientific research and through human ingenuity now "playing with fire."

while our virgin soil still retained the accumulated fertility of ages derived from generations of decayed vegetable matter.

Another principle also holds true, namely, that the soil's fertility must be maintained by returning to it the actual ingredients that have been extracted.

Chemical fertilizer is a valuable aid to production, but it must not be continuously used to the exclusion of the humus and other necessities which can be furnished only by the barnyard and the occasional helps derived from the bulky seaweeds, the swamp muds and the mixed compost heaps.

For this province of ours, our only hope lies in mixed farming and the larger the proportion of dairy herds we put into the mixture the larger our profits shall be.

Whatever matters, says the Toronto Mail and Empire, might be dealt with at a national convention of the Conservative party.

Notes By the Way

Saint Andrew's Day has long been honored in Charlottetown by those citizens whose lineage connects them with forefathers in Scotland.

Last evening's event in the spacious dining hall of the Hotel Victoria equalled if it did not surpass the excellence of previous anniversary festivals of the Caledonians.

Not all of our readers may recall the fact that the Irish Free State is not represented in the British Parliament.

Premier King was expected to arrive in Halifax yesterday morning on return from his European mission.

Mr. Hon. Arthur Meighen is also now in Halifax, and will probably have something to say during the concluding days of the campaign.

J. L. Garvin, Editor of the London Observer, is one of the clever and trenchant public writers who are giving their support to Premier Baldwin.

Mr. Garvin goes on: "Since the war our outlet are choked in all directions by new tariffs and higher tariffs abroad.

Happenings of the Week

When the Duchess of York, formerly Lady Elizabeth, appeared at Luigi's famous London dancing party, the rendezvous of England's royalty and near-royalty, the orchestra leader was at a loss to ascertain her taste in music.

Miss Josephine Blake is a guest of Mrs. E. T. Keefe, Inglis Street, Halifax, and her numerous friends are delighted to have her again with them.

It is interesting to note that five members of the family of the late Hon. James Fraser of New Glasgow, N. S. are still living.

Rev. Canon Osborn G. Troop of Montreal, so kindly remembered here, is conducting a Mission in St. John just now.

Mrs. John A. Collings has gone on an extended visit to her sister in Winnipeg.

Miss Alice Harrison, superintendent of the Maritime Religious Education Council, is in St. John this week, where she was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Fulton.

Eardrops of a single pearl suspended on a fine chain are the popular type of earring for the young girl.

Sir Andrew McPhail of Montreal was receiving congratulations this week, Saturday last being his 59th birthday.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bonnell of St. John were among the welcome visitors here this week.

The Charlottetown Dramatic Club, gave two excellent shows early in the week, under the auspices of the K. of C., which were much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. McLeod, of New Glasgow, N. S., who were recently married in Montreal, left Saturday for a trip to England and other parts of Europe.

Mrs. E. G. Coombs received for the first time since her marriage on Wednesday afternoon welcoming upwards of three hundred callers.

The near approach to Christmas gift giving is the excuse for a number of hostesses entertaining at sewing parties just now.

The many friends of Miss Daisy Hobkirk regret to hear of her illness.

The marriage of Miss Nora Hutchison, formerly of Rothesay, Isle of Bute, Scotland, and recently of London, England to Ronald Hugh MacDonald, D. S. O., M. C., M. D. of Saskatoon formerly of North Beedeque took place Monday morning in St. Patrick's Church.

The Public Forum

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinion expressed by its correspondents.

Mr. Fielding's Opinion Of Mr. Meighen

Sir—At the banquet tendered Mr. Fielding lately at Halifax he referred to Mr. Meighen as honest, clever but credulous.

That he is clever is acknowledged wherever he is known. His rival Sir Thomas White rates him among the first four of the leading men of the English speaking world.

In 1903 he told parliament and the country that the proposed railway from Moncton to the Pacific Coast would only cost the Treasury of Canada $13,725,706.10.

He either believed in those calculations or he did not. If he did he is the most credulous political simpleton Canada has ever produced.

From ocean to ocean the people of Canada are today paying much increased fares on every mile they travel, and crippling freight rates on every bushel of produce and pound of merchandise.

General regret is expressed over the resignation of Miss Hunter Duvar as Matron of the Protestant orphanage.

Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Martin entertained the members of St. James' Church Choir very pleasantly at their home on Wednesday evening.

Miss Edwin Aitken was among the hostesses entertaining very pleasantly at a house dance this week.

Mrs. W. Chester S. McLure is being cordially welcomed home, after a pleasant visit with her sister Mrs. McCabe of Kansas City.

James W. Barton, M.D. DOES COLD WEATHER CAUSE ILLNESS?

If you were to ask the health officer of your town or city whether there was more illness in the winter than in the summer, he would quickly tell you that in the winter illness was more frequent.

Oh just the same old reason. In the summer you live the outdoor life, you are in the fresh air and sunshine most of the day.

Also the very brightness of the summer weather invites you outdoors, and so you walk, row, swim, and no matter how old you are, you get out and about to some extent.

It's no natural of course. There is no disputing the fact that wet, cold weather lessens your powers of resistance, and that the very changeableness of the winter weather also has a depressing effect upon the body.

However, all health officers are agreed that the greatest factor in the starting and spreading of colds and other illnesses is the habit people have of crawling into winter quarters like a bear.

That's all right for the bear, that's the way he's built. But for you, there must be activity of some kind so that all the cells of the body will be kept at full strength.

A NOON SONG

There are songs for the morning and songs for the night. For sunrise and sunset, the stars and the moon.
