The days of happiness, moments of despair, acts of courage and generosity, the far-flung ambitions of the little women, their romantic infatuations and disappointments, Joe's determination to become a writer even if it means being an old maid (a fate from which she is ultimately saved by Professor Bhaer), Beth's tragic death, Amy's marriage to Laurie and Meg's to John Brooke—all go to make up a pattern in which both tears and laughter have their share in a drama of youth and love.

There patrons this week with the showing of M-G-M's star-studded filmization of "Little Women." Read by millions, the beloved Louisa May Alcott story of a happy little family has been brought to life in celluloid terms enhanced by Technicolor and illuminated with heart-warming portrayals.
Producer-director Mervyn LeRoy has taken no liberties with this time-tested story and it is all there on the screen just as it is in the book. We meet the devoted, close-knit March family—Marmee, Papa March, high-spirited Jo, little Beth, Amy, Meg and despic Aunt March, and we also meet Laurie and his forbidding father, Professor Bhaer, John Brooke, old Dr. Barnes and all the others.
The days of happiness, moments of despair, acts of courage and generosity, the far-flung ambitions of the little women, their romantic infatuations and disappointments, Joe's determination to become a writer even if it means being an old maid (a fate from which she is ultimately saved by Professor Bhaer), Beth's tragic death, Amy's marriage to Laurie and Meg's to John Brooke—all go to make up a pattern in which both tears and laughter have their share in a drama of youth and love.

special feature of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful birthday cake to C.G.I.T. Caranome Trenholm who celebrated her fifteenth birthday on Halloween. Lunch was served which was much appreciated. During the evening Mrs. Coggins was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Jardine and the thanks of all was given to Mrs. Toombs for her hospitality in opening her home for the evening.
Saturday was Apple Day in Borden and the Boy Scouts were busy all day going from house to house selling apples. The Scouts, who spoke highly of the marvelous reception they were accorded by the people of this little town, sold eight hampers of apples. Just in passing I might say that the Boy Scouts by their neat uniforms and courteous, friendly manners earned the fine reception given them. Now the Scouts are busy with preparations for the opening of the Scot's Hall at which Major General Spry, Chief Commissioner of Scouts, will be their guest. A jolly Halloween party was held in the Scout Hall on Monday night at which Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and Brownies were in attendance. Mrs. W. S. Jardine was mistress of ceremonies along with Scoutmaster Mr. Raymond Hickey. They played games, sang and dove for apples, which were generously donated by Mr. A. P. Ceretti. The prize for best costume was awarded to the Scouts having the best decorated baskets on Apple Day: 1, Tommy Jardine; 2, Graham Lodge; 3, Leo Keough.
CASTE SYSTEM DISAPPEARING
MONTREAL, Nov. 7 —(CP) — India's rigid caste system is breaking down rapidly, partly because many lower caste Hindus were accepted into the army during the Second World War. Field Marshal Earl Wavell, former Indian viceroy, told the Canadian Club of Montreal today. Lord Wavell devoted most of his luncheon address to India. The famed British soldier spent two years as commander-in-chief in India during the last war and later became viceroy.
