U. N. B. TRIMS MOUNT A. 3-0

(Canadian Press)
FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 22.—University of New Brunswick rugby team defeated Mount Allison University of Sackville 3 to 0 here this afternoon in the first of a home and home series for the championship of the western section, Maritime Intercollegiate League. The final game will be played at Sackville a week from Thursday.

The only score of the game came after twelve minutes of the first period when Hurley, U. N. B. forward scooped up the ball and went over for a try, when the Mount A. backfield fumbled a kick. Boone failed to kick the convert. The play of U. N. B. forwards and Mount A.'s long punting on defence featured the contest.

Pearson Douglass, gained repeatedly for the home team on long dribbles, while Miller, McBeath, Lister and Reside of Sackville collegians backfield, contributed lengthy kicks. Both teams heeled smartly in the scrums and got about an even break in giving the backs the ball. Hard tackling and close marking showed no let up throughout and both backfields contributed to a good display of running and passing.

Sport Jottings

Early Todd, 209 1/2, the Houlton-owned pacer, is a notable addition to the racing stable of W. H. Keys, St. Stephen horseman.

One of the Chicago Blackhawks new recruits is Art Somers, who was one of the demon scorers of the Pacific Coast League last season. He cost $5,000.

Not less than half a dozen English rugby teams were in action in cup games in Montreal last Saturday. "Rugger" is certainly catching on in Montreal and Toronto.

Each of the Philadelphia Athletics regulars got $5,221 as their share of the World's Series melon; the way the Chicago Cubs split their money gave each regular about $3,500.

If Jack Sharkey doesn't sign up for a fight this winter at Miami he may take on some heavyweight at the Boston Garden. There is one thing Sharkey doesn't like and that is idleness.

Bob Shawkey's appointment as manager of the New York Yankees recalls the striking tribute paid him by Judge Landis soon after he joined the Montreal Royals. The High Commissioner of Baseball then said that no active player had done more to lift professional baseball to its present high plane and praised Shawkey as one of the brightest minds in the game.

Big Larry McLean, the elongated catcher who was born at Fredericton spent part of his boyhood in Boston and returned to his old home town and played for the their famous Tartars and afterwards for the St. John Roses before going to the major leagues, was the charter member of the 500 club for World's Series hitters. In 1913 when the Athletics beat the New York Giants 4 games out of 5, McLean amassed the first .500 batting average in World's Series annals. Since then there have been two others. Mark Koenig of the Yankees hitting for an even .500 in 1927, while last year Babe Ruth had an average of .625. There is one record every red blooded batter covets—that is to be batting champion of a World's series. Jack McLean is the extra heavies. Sows were from $9.50 only Canadian-born player to attain such a place in baseball's Hall of Fame.

Boston Bruins, the Stanley Cup holders, go into the approaching National Hockey League season with few changes in their roster of active players. True, Cy Denneny has retired and Herb Gardiner has gone to the Philadelphia Arrows as manager thus robbing Art Ross of his chief assistant and a veteran mentor, but Mickey MacKay, the wise man from the west is slated to fill Denneny's shoes and there never seemed to be much likelihood of Gardiner's service being required for active playing purposes. Eddie Rodden has been sold to London, and Myles Lane has gone back to Dartmouth University, but there are three newcomers: Martin Berry from New Haven, Bob Taylor from Boston Tigers, Nichols from St. Paul and Bill Hutton, an amateur from Calgary. The list of candidates for the various positions on the "champions" line up follows: Goal, Tiny Thompson, defence, Eddie Shore, Lionel Hitchman and George Owen; right wing, Harry Oliver, Art Gagne, Dit Clapper and Bob Taylor; left wing, Percy Gilbrath, Dutch Galnor, Mickey MacKay, Lloyd Klein and George Nichols; centre, Bill Garscon; Cooney Weiland, Martin Berry and Bill Utton.

LIVESTOCK MARKET

(Canadian Press)
MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 22.—Domestic live stock, there were 327 cattle, 108 calves, 1066 hogs and 753 sheep and lambs for sale on the two livestock markets here today. Cattle sales were slow. Prices were about steady, canners and cutters brought $3.00 to $4.00 and common bulls $5.00 to $5.50. Calves were steady at $5.25 for very common grassers to $14.00 for good suckers.

The lamb market was steady at $10.50 for good ewes and wethers. Bucks were $8.50 and sheep from $3.25 to $5.50.

Hogs were selling slowly at uneven prices. A few sales were made at $12.00 to $12.25 for hams, with $1.00 premium on selects, and cuts of 50 cents per hog on butchers, $1.00 on light, $2.00 on heavies, and $3.00 on that is to be batting champion of a World's series. Jack McLean is the extra heavies. Sows were from $9.50 only Canadian-born player to attain

QUEEN SQUARE AND WEST KE... THIS AFTERNOON

Charlottetown's juvenile teams start their chase for the Millan football trophy this afternoon. This annual competition for a generously donated trophy is no and water affair, and not one less interesting-compelling than the other games.

If anything the youngsters more pep into the sixty minute action than the grownups and a scientific point of view which includes teamwork, passing, and other niceties, the school frequently show to better advantage. Constant practice and in school spirit is the cause of the round excellence. Most of our stars are recruited from the school teams as witness the on the senior teams, Coyle, St. with the Saints, Duffy, Douc...

others from St. Dunstons, were the game at school. Abegweit seniors have even a larger proportion of players from same recruiting field. Except three or four the entire red black fifteen figured a few years in inter-school competition.

Today's game calls for a good endurance. The stars of a few hence are going to provide a t and-nail struggle.

The malodorous exit of Joe Dundee of Baltimore as world's welter champion simply focuses public attention on the sad state to which the fistie championships have declined. But much is expected of Jackie Fields, the new welter king, who promises to be a real fighting champion. He will not have to do much to be a big improvement on Dundee, who was a whirlwind before winning the title and an atrocious specimen of the safety-first champion afterwards.

Before Dundee lost on a foul to Fields in the second round of their Chicago bout, he had been floored twice and socked to the very verge of a knockout. Joe tearfully denied that the foul was intentional. He was groggy at the time and had given a real, though brief, exhibition of gameness under Fields' furious fire. Willy Maxie Waxman, Dundee's manager, had collected Joe's purse before that foul finish. And so Dundee of Baltimore—who had been knocked out once and thrashed twice in catch-weight bouts while champion—took the $50,000 and lost the title.

Fetherweight champion Andre Routs seems to be the Joe Dundee of the little fellows, his managers compelling opponents to come in overweight so as not to jeopardize the Franchman's title. Al Singer rocked Routs to sleep in jig time recently, and the much-punched champion would be a cinch for Kid Chocolate or any other good feather. With the other title-holders the situation is not quite as disgusting, though only two—Tommy Loughran, light heavy, and Sammy Mandell, lightweight,—have unquestionable class. And Loughran is resigning his title in order to tackle the heavies, while Mandell will soon be a welter.

Among the flyweights Izzy Schwartz and Frankie Genaro both claim the championship, while Al Brown rules the bantam roost. These boys are good but far from great champions.

The public is familiar with the heavy situation, none being qualified to fill Gene Tunney's old shoes in more than a year. It's a sorry mess with Max Schmeling, bright prospect, tangled up in a bull-headed battle with the law, and Jack Sharkey's fighting reputation but slowly recovering from that tame victory over Young Stribling last winter.

It is painful to contrast such champions with those of old. No wonder the spectral lips of Stanley Ketchell curl in scorn!
