Action Taken To Curb Hockey "Tourists" To The United States

(By The Canadian Press, By Guardian's Special Wire)

Only in the Maritime Provinces was concern shown today over the action of the Ontario Hockey Association in refusing transfers to hockey players who choose to do their puck chasing in the United States. Elsewhere the problem had not occurred or the hockey heads were willing to let the tourist-type players continue their wanderings across the border.

James A. Wry, President of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, stated a working agreement with United States officials already exists denying eligibility to puckists to play across the border if they have not obtained transfers in Canada. He said everything possible was being done by his association to stamp out the traffic of Canadian players to the United States.

UNCONCERNED

Western Canada hockey moguls were disinterested for the most part although the action of the O. H. A. may be discussed at the annual meeting of the Alberta Hockey Association in Calgary next week. The Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association which has made no objection to players movements across the border will take a stand on the question at an executive meeting Nov. 11.

The Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association does not sanction transfers of players to the United States but when players return from American teams they are permitted to rejoin their home clubs. Several promising Winnipeg amateurs left last winter to play with the New York Crecents.

No Applications

No applications for transfers of players to the United States have been received and none were expected in the Ottawa district, Cecil Duncan, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, stated.

James De Lalanne, President of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association said: "We do not consider we have any right to take such an action on our own initiative," regarding an agreement claimed by the O. H. A. with the United States Amateur Athletic Union to bar Canadian players leaving to play across the border.

AMHERST, N. S., Oct. 30—Amateur hockey "tourists" failing to get transfers from Canadian authorities will be denied eligibility in the United States, President James A. Wry of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association said today.

A working arrangement to this end already exists, the M. A. H. A. head declared in commenting on the Ontario Hockey Association's decision last night to turn down all applications for transfer to the United States.

Some time ago, Mr. Wry pointed out, he had issued a warning to players in the Maritimes against leaving for below the border. "We started it down here," the President said, "when we heard reports there might be a wholesale migration. "Players were told then that if they went their certificates would be lifted. Further, they would be outlaws below the border as well for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has an agreement with the United States officials to this effect.

"We've been doing all we can," he added, "to stamp this traffic out. We don't owe the United States any players, and it isn't fair for the best of the players developed in this country to be drawn away."

There were a few cases, Mr. Wry explained, in which the M. A. H. A. would grant transfers. But he explained they would be handed out only for "a good legitimate reason."

VANCOUVER, Oct. 30—A sweepstake ticket on "Man's Pal," which placed second in the Cambridge, N.S. F. X. posts. The Acadia team has returned $75,500 to some fortunate Vancouver investor whose identity is hidden by the pseudonym "Carburator."

The Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ticket is listed as being held at 1780 East Thirteenth Avenue but J. McLellan, who resides at that address, stated he does not hold the ticket. He says he knows the ticket holder, however.

Commander III Winner Of Turf Classic

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 30—Commander III, a French-bred bay horse owned by G. R. C. Foster and ridden by the teenage apprentice jockey, T. Hawcroft, today won the classic Cambridge-shire stakes in one minute 52 seconds flat.

The five-year-old veteran was a length and a half in front of Mrs. D. Sainsbury's Man's Pal, who led Lady Rall's Finalist by a short head. Finalist was a last-minute favorite at 6 to 1, though the highly-touted Pegasus and Law Court were preferred until early today.

Commander III's unexpected triumph threw cash to the discomfited and the lucky in several different parts of the world.

To his owner, G. R. C. Foster, a newcomer to the turf, go prizes totalling more than $11,000.

His backers were rewarded at 28 to 1, but they are said to have been few in number. Among them were Commander III's trainer, Basil Briscoe, and his brother, Capt. R. G. Briscoe, Conservative candidate for Parliament in Cambridge-shire, who commended the horse to his constituents at a political meeting and expects to be elected as a result.

A turf fan whose identity remains secret backed Near Relation for the Cesarewitch and bridge-shire, in the tote double. He was the only one to do so and his 50 cent shot was paid off at 18,892 to 1—a world's record for the tote.

The richest prizes went to those who held Irish sweepstakes tickets on Commander III. Each of these including six Americans, get $147,300. Dr. Herbert H. Murray of Toronto and one other Canadian held tickets on Lady Rall's Finalist, worth $49,100 each.

Commander III ran second last year's Cambridge-shire but his other performances did not inspire any confidence.

Betting on the race was 4.30 heaviest in living memory and the field of 40 the largest since 1874. A great crowd turned out and bookmakers admitted—for once—they had made large sums of money on the result.

Queen Square Rugby Team Defeats West Kent In Series Opener 3-0

Queen Square rugby fifteen took a one-game lead in the annual interscholastic series when they eked out a 3-0 win over their traditional rivals, the West Kenters, present champions and holders of the MacMillan Trophy. A crowd of several hundred excited spectators were on hand to cheer their respective favorites through a grueling contest of rough and tumble play that was not without its highlights. There was less of the science of the game, but thrills were a dime a dozen as players of both teams gave of their best to make it one of the closest fought games of the season.

The injury to young George MacLeod, West Kent three quarter, whose wrist was dislocated in the second half, served to mar the play, but it is hoped that the flashy player will not be permanently lost to his team.

It was young Freddy Coyle, a "chip off the old block", following in the footsteps of his renowned father and elder brother Jim, who was the sparkplug of the purple and white jerseyed players. The agile and speedy winger scored the touch that meant victory midway through the opening half at the end of a brilliant passing exhibition engineered by Hughes, Doyle and MacDonald. Honors may well be shared by all members of the winning team, however, on the Herculean stride they put up in holding a determined West Kent squad at bay when they were on the verge of going over on several occasions.

In fairness to the yellow and blue warriors, however, it may be said that it was their day off as they could do little right, faulty ball handling bumbling many plays. In the second half the West Kenters launched a strong offensive, which invariably carried them into scoring position but overanxiousness combined with the defense bulwark of their opponents thwarted their every effort to score.

Roy Archer was the spearhead of the West Kent attack, frequently carrying the ball for large gains. He was ably supported by Richardson and Doug Saunders who handled the kicking chores to perfection in relieving pressure.

Spectators at the football games would do well to remain back of the touch lines and co-operate with the referee in making his duties less arduous. Co-operation in this respect would also tend to improve play and give the players every opportunity to take advantage of the "breaks" of the game. Nuff sed.

Prof. W. J. MacDonald handed the whistle satisfactory to all.

Bob Olin To Defend Title This Evening

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30—Bob Olin, world's light-heavyweight champion aching "to get a crack at Joe Louis," tonight was ready for the more immediate business of defending his title against another "black menace."

John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz. negro challenger, will be in the opposite corner tomorrow night when Olin faces the first test of his right to hold the light heavy crown he took from Maxie Rosenbloom almost a year ago.

Beaten once by Lewis in a non-title bout, Olin declared today that for the first time he is physically and mentally fit to go the full route of 15 rounds in a title bout.

"I think I'll knock out Lewis," he said, "and I hope that I will get a crack at Joe Louis this winter."

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, announced today the winner of the Bob Olin-John Henry Lewis light-heavyweight championship match at St. Louis tomorrow night will fight in the Garden early in January against an opponent to be named later.

"It is probable," Johnston added, "it will be Abe Friedman of Brooklyn, if we can come to terms."

Paulino Uzcudun, the veteran Spanish heavyweight boxer, who meets Joe Louis in a bout at the Garden Dec. 13, arrives from Europe tomorrow.

It will be the Basque's first win in three years. In his last appearance, Sept. 25, 1932, he dropped a decision to the late Ernie Schacht.

Joliat Fires Winning Goal As Canadiens Win From Boston Bruins 3-2

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

MONCTON, Oct. 30—Aurel Joliat, veteran forward of the National Hockey League in point of service and master strategist of Les Canadiens, fired home a goal with only six seconds of play remaining in the third period and gave the colorful Frenchmen 3-2 victory over Boston Bruins as the two major league teams renewed their tour of the Maritime Provinces here tonight.

The victory deadlocked the series at one game each as they move along to Halifax where they will play Friday night and again Monday night, before concluding their exhibition series in these Provinces Wednesday night of next week at Charlottetown. Bruins won the first game of the tour in Saint John Monday night, 2-0.

Tonight's game produced splendid hockey and flashes of mid-season form, while an enthusiastic crowd of 5,500 hockey fans who crammed the Stadium almost to its full capacity, gave the major leaguers a big hand.

Canadiens outplayed Bruins throughout the first period and only the sensational work of Tiny Thompson in the Boston cage, held them to one goal. Bruins smashed their way through to tie the score early in the second period, which was offset however late in the same session with an unassisted goal by Laroche. Agassins Bruins, who pressed hard and held the advantage in the third session, tied the score about midway through the period while Joliat was serving a penalty, and then while Siebert was in the hoosegow for roughing Irvin Frew, Laroche and Joliat trapped the Bruins, out manoeuvred Babe Siebert, and Joliat clinched the game with a sizzling shot into the

Brisk Workout For Abegweit Prospects

Aspirants to berths on the Abegweit hockey team were given a brisk workout at the Forum last evening by Coach Harold Gross. The group which went through a training which went through a staff P. T. assignment constituted several intermediate and junior players. It is expected the squad will be augmented nightly as out of town players report.

Among those turning out last night were: Johnnie Squarebriggs, Ken McInnis, Tick Williams, Keith Acorn, Murray Carmichael, Hal Gaudet, Lowell Simpson, E. Darach, F. MacMillan and L. LaPage. Irwin McKie who had been in training with the Boston Bruins

Little Change In Lineup Of Toronto Leafs

(This is the third of a Canadian Press series on prospects of National Hockey League teams.)

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Alterations to the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey machine will be made if and when they become necessary, but the National League champions are fairly certain to start the new campaign with almost the same lineup that succumbed in three straight games to Montreal Maroons in last Spring's Stanley Cup finals.

Managing Director Conny Smythe is not at all convinced there is a better team in hockey than those 1934-35 Leafs, who rode to the League championship over Boston Bruins in a grueling four-game series, then lost to a keener, fresher Maroon team in the classic cup series.

If the early campaign shows there is, Smythe has merely to call up youth from his International League training school at Syracuse. Stationed at Syracuse will be the most promising squadron of N. H. L. material that the Leafs ever have had available.

Hainsworth Net Choice

George Hainsworth is almost certain to play goal, with the youthful Phil Stein in reserve. Stein will play at Syracuse. Hap Day, King Clancy, Red Horner and Bill Holloway will play defence as they did last year. Day and Hollett forming one combination and Clancy and Horner the other.

On call at Syracuse will be such prospects as Bill Gill, former Moncton Hawks giant; Reggis Hamilton, star of St. Michael's College Juniors two years ago; Jack Howard, who signed a professional contract recently, making the jump from Hamilton Tigers, and Jimmy Fowler, a member of Toronto's senior All-Stars last winter.

The first string forward line will be Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey Jackson, hockey's greatest scoring string for two seasons. The goal-getting "kids" have never started a season in any better condition than they will this one.
