

Many an Electric Range has been sold over the DINNER TABLE

When a charming hostess does all her own cooking yet has plenty of time for her guests; when there's not the slightest waiting between courses of a delicious dinner, a guest who doesn't own an electric range can't resist asking, "How do you possibly do it?"

Her hostess is glad to explain. Women who cook electrically quickly become enthusiasts. They want to tell others how they can go out shopping, say, or to an afternoon party, and yet find dinner ready to serve when they get home; how clean and fast and dependable their electric ranges are, and how really economical, too.

One woman's recommendation to another has sold countless electric ranges. Learn how easily you, too, can enjoy what is really a new freedom from kitchen cares. Ask any woman who cooks electrically or stop in our store or ANY DEALER'S.

..*CENT SALE—Mr. H. J. Mabon, of Montague, P. E. I., is conducting another of his annual one cent sales. Mr. Mabon each year gives his many customers a real treat in the way of bargain prices. This sale is a profit sharing method of advertising, developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you two full size packages of high quality merchandise for the price of one, plus one cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, because we know the goods will please you. It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration. The standard price of Kleenox Dental Paste is 25c., you buy one tube at this price and by paying 1 Cent more, or 26 cents, you get two tubes, and save 24 cents. Every United Drug Co. article in this sale is a high quality guaranteed product, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price. No limit—buy all you want, but on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday only!

English Integrity Trusted by India

MONTREAL, Nov. 21—To India England has brought the ideal of human life's value and sanctity, and the sacredness of personality, new ideas that mean the change of the whole social organization, and England is responsible for seeing it through. Her problem is to promote a relationship free of paternalism and subordination, and radicals who think that England should scuttle from India do not know what they are talking about, declared Wilbert Smith, associate general of the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A., speaking at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Progress Club of Montreal.

England has an investment in India of more than money and something far more precious, he said. In his stay in India as an American citizen, he learned to drink tea, a habit he had formerly considered pernicious, and to appreciate the influence of the individual Englishman in India. He came to admire on the one side the reliance placed in the English character, and the prestige grown out of tradition, and to see on the other the passion of antagonism rooted in personal grievances.

"India trusts the integrity of the English," he said, "but there has been a great loss of British prestige in the East. And the cause? A change in the individual attitude to the native. The Indian has an uncanny ability to judge character and to sense opposition. In Poona there were two men, one trusted and loved, the other detested. Yet the man the native regarded with favor was thought of by his own people as a strong-armed militarist; but he thought of the native as a man, the other thought of him as a nigger.

"Trouble in India is not a matter of policy, but of personal relations, the antagonizing of the Indian through gratuitous bad manners. And it can't be done in the east any more without political consequences," the speaker said. He traced the background rapidly for his audience, the divisions of state, religion and caste, stressing the impossibility of getting near to the heart of a people diversified by every prejudice; even language was an insuperable barrier.

"Gandhi, for instance, is fighting his own high caste people through his hunger strike. He is not fighting the British Government. He may be mistaken, but he is after something great and fine of deep spiritual significance in trying to weld the people into a more homogeneous mould. He is not an extremist, but there is the fear in the event of Gandhi's demise of the extremists of each party getting their way in their respective parties.

"There have been benefits both to England and India under British rule, but England has brought new conceptions of life's value and the sacredness of personality. The problem is to rid the relationship of paternalism and bureaucracy, and it is a relationship that the best type of Indian wants. England has changed the whole social scene in India, although her imperialists deny that their purpose has been to change old customs and traditions, and England must see it through to its conclusion. There is a new recognition of mutual interests and the re-establishment must be made on that mutual relationship."

Personal Relations

Reports of committees were then given, the sick committee reported having made one visit. It was moved and seconded that a sandtable be purchased for the school and that the windows be repaired as soon as possible.

The program for the evening consisted of a recitation, 21 wants a Piece, by Master Russell MacIntyre, a solo, Where the Sugar-Maple Grew, by Miss Mary K. MacDonald, a paper, Three Enemies of Life, by Mary Donovan and a guss box prize being won by Mrs. G. D. MacKenzie. A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring President and Secretary and on motion to adjourn the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Misses Winnie and Rita MacIntyre. Mrs. John MacIntyre kindly invited the members to her home for the next meeting where the meeting will be opened with the Institute Creed and Silent Night and the roll call will be answered with a Christmas Cake Recipe.—(Patriot Please Copy).
