Open Verdict Is given In Car fatality

A coroner's jury presided over by Dr. C. W. Bennett, brought in an "open verdict" Monday evening in connection with the death of Lance-Corpl. Raymond Clifford McEwen, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., who was killed on Highway No. 2 near Barrieffield Camp, early Friday morning, Nov. 15.

The jury, after half an hour's consideration, brought in the following verdict: "We, the jury, empaneled to inquire into the death of Raymond Clifford McEwen, found that he died Nov. 15, between the hours of 12:30 and 1 a.m. while being taken to the Kingston General Hospital, death being the result of a fractured skull, caused by being hit on Highway No. 2, just east of the main entrance to Barrieffield Camp, by a car driven by Morris Burns."

The evidence went to show that the young signaller was returning from Kingston where he had spent the evening, and had walked along the highway, near the sidewalk from the La Salle Causeway, to a point opposite to the entrance of Barrieffield Camp. The four soldiers, after leaving the camp, were walking along the highway, for a distance of about 50 feet, when McEwen was struck by a car driven by Morris Burns, which was proceeding east.

Driver's Evidence

Morris Burns described in detail the trip along the highway. He said he had driven a car for 10 years and had driven the car which figured in the accident for over a month. It was a 1935 standard Chevrolet coach. He said he was returning from work at midnight and was travelling about 30 miles an hour, and the night was rather cloudy. He added: "My lights were good, but when I approached the camp, the road was rather black and the lights on account of the color of the road, did not appear to show as well, evidently due to the lights from the camp. I was paying as much attention as possible. I was driving about 30 miles an hour when I noticed a dark object in front of me. That dark object appeared to be walking on the edge of the pavement."

"I could not tell for sure but I think I was wrong toward the centre of the pavement. When I saw the dark object it was too late to swerve my car. I put on my brakes after I struck the object, and appeared to swerve to the left. I would say that it is very difficult to see men in uniform who walk the highway at night."

Witness stated that after getting Lieut. Telfer from the camp he proceeded to drive the injured soldier to the Kingston General Hospital. He died on the way.

Traffic Officer Caldwell, who was recalled by Mr. Rigney, stated the right front fender of the Burns car was torn, and the right front windshield frame was badly dented.

Members of the jury were: W. H. Ratcliffe, foreman; H. W. Allen, Stanley Arnel, Timothy Dooland and Charles Miller.

L-CPL. R. C. McEWEN

The funeral of L-Cpl. R. C. McEwen, who was killed Friday morning when struck by a car as he was walking along the highway, was held from his funeral home, Johnson Street, Sunday to the C.N.R. station. The body was sent to his home in Charlottetown, P.E.I., for burial. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McEwen of Charlottetown. Deceased was a member of the Signal Corps at Barrieffield and had been in the army over a year.

The young soldier was accorded military honors. The draped casket was carried from the hearse to the train on the shoulders of eight of the deceased's comrades. The Last Post was sounded at the casket, was placed aboard the train.

MY WIFE OUGHT TO BE A NURSE!

She is a marvel at relieving sore muscles and stiff joints

Knowing just what to do in cases of pain or discomfort, has endeared Mrs. Sloan to her husband's eyes. Many women who are good at nursing, use Sloan's Liniment. "Nothing quite so good as Sloan's," they say, for home treatment of painful muscles, stiff joints, everyday aches and pains, or when a cold settles on the chest.

The reason for Sloan's quick relief is in the penetrating, stimulating warmth it brings to the stiff or painful part. And Sloan's does its work without rubbing. Just pat it on. It is not greasy. When used according to directions, Sloan's Liniment is active enough for adults—mild enough for children.

would become much easier. At the close of the service, the Sacrament of Holy Communion was observed by the large congregation. The choir, under the direction of Mr. A. Roy Kendall, sang the anthem, "God So Loved the World" —Stalder.

In the evening, the minister spoke on the topic "Prayer in War Time," the third sermon in his series on "God and the War." He based his sermon on the disciples' plea, "Lord, teach us to pray." Prayer is the process of putting ourselves in alignment with God, not, as many people seem to think, a series of begging, hypocritical remarks. Since, then, we are fighting in the cause of righteousness, we should pray and keep on praying, for by so doing, we will keep the cause for which we fight in line with the spirit of Christ. The choir admirably sang the anthem, "God is a Spirit."

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Both services yesterday were conducted by Rev. Hugh Miller. In the morning, Rev. Mr. Miller spoke from the words of Jesus, "I must work the works of Him that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh, when no man can work." Much of the power and rapid spread of Christianity in the early centuries was due to the spirit expressed in this text. Jesus never lost an opportunity to spread and practice His teaching, both with crowds and with individuals, for unlike many Christians today, He realized the immense task to be done and the short time in which He had to do it. If we too would imitate the spirit of these words of Jesus, the task of the Church

HOLY NAME MEETING — The regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society of the Holy Redeemer Parish was held on November 12. After the regular business was transacted the President called on Carl J. Leightizer, who taking "Sacrifices" for the subject of his address delivered one of the best heard in the Holy Redeemer Hall. Songs by Messrs. LeClair and Callahan were also enjoyed by the large number present. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Capt. Leightizer for his splendid address.

HOLY REDEEMER CHURCH

Large congregations attended all the Masses at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, yesterday morning. Rev. Archibald MacDonald, C. S. S. R., the Rector, celebrated High Mass at 11 a.m. as in all other Roman Catholic churches throughout the world, special prayers of intercession for a just peace were said as well as prayers for the troops. Prayers of reparation were also said. In the evening special devotions took place with the Rector officiating at Solemn Benediction. The psalm Miserere Mei and the Litany of the Saints was recited. The men's choir under the direction of Mrs. D. Doucette was in attendance. Mr. Alex MacLean was at the organ.

Medical Evidence

Dr. Telfer, R.C.A.M.C., who was medical orderly officer at Barrieffield, was asked in the question, said he was rushed to the scene of the accident by Mr. Burns who came for him at the military hospital. He said McEwen had a fractured skull, and his first examination led him to believe that the young soldier had suffered a fractured skull. Examination of the skull showed there was a fracture at the base of the skull.

"How would you think the injury was sustained?" asked Mr. Rigney.

"I think he might have hit the back of his head on the pavement. There were no other serious injuries about the body, other than two abrasions, one on the left knee and one on the left wrist."

Lance-Corpl. Edward Douley said he and McEwen and two soldiers named Shaw and Duncan were returning from Kingston and had walked along the new sidewalk until they reached a point directly opposite to the entrance of the camp.

Shaw and Duncan, who were walking in front, and McEwen and I who were behind, left the sidewalk and were walking along the highway just east of the camp entrance. We were all on the right hand side of the road. McEwen and Duncan were the closest to the white line. I could not say where I was walking, whether I was walking on the right or the shoulder. We had only walked a very short distance, say about 50 yards when McEwen was struck by a car which came from the west, which was struck through the body of the car. I was thrown into the gutter. I had known the deceased, McEwen, for 12 years, as I went to school with him."

In answer to Mr. Cliff, witness stated he and his chums were walking along the highway after leaving the sidewalk as they intended to enter the camp by way of the hospital gate. He said "I was the first time he had ever walked home from Kingston to the camp."

Thrown In Air

Matthew Duncan told of being thrown into the air when McEwen's body struck him. "I was lifted right off my feet and carried some distance," he added. "I heard no car or saw no lights and did not see the Burns car until it entered the camp and came back. I have no fault to find with the lights on Burns' car."

Lance-Corpl. John Shaw said he was walking with Duncan, the

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

For the morning sermon the Rev. J. Hudson took as his subject the question: "Has Jesus Been Here?" In Mark 7:24 we read "He arose and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, and would have no man know it; but he could not be hid." The evidence of his presence is undeniable. We look across the years and see his influence in the civilization of the world, we turn today and see man in human institutions and human lives. Less Weatherhead, in "It Happened in Palestine" mentions a visit to Tyre and Sidon, and says here, "Men ask, has here is the memorial, I look to the hill above and thereon is an orphanage, the expression of His words 'Suffer the little children to come unto Me.'"

In our civilization today the skeptic may say, "Look at this war-torn world, with its fear and hate, has Jesus been here?" In answer we say, consider the little churches in every town and village, observe the people who disturbed in mind, bearing a burden of sin and sorrow, seek Him there and come forth in comfort, in new confidence and courage, in the assurance that God forgives and God restores. Look at orphanages, hospitals, every institution for man's betterment, and know that Jesus has been here.

Has Jesus been here in our own hearts? Has He brought love, joy, peace to us? Has He brought to us His spirit in our reaction to the needs of our neighbor? Yes, Jesus has been here?

Palestine's "Come Holy Ghost" was sung by the choir.

At the evening service the young

LONDON CLAMORS FOR PHOTOSTATS

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(CP)—War-time clamors for London's commercial photographers is company records. Millions of index cards, sales and purchase accounts and correspondence are being photographed so that the originals are not lost. Duplicates can be obtained.

Commercial photographers enjoy a "land office" business as insurance companies, banks, every type of concern—seek to have records copied so German air raids can't disclose business. Ironically, the specially designed apparatus used to speed up the photographic process was designed by a German Jewish refugee.

Leo Lancer, a Londoner waiting to be called up by the Royal Air Force as a reconnaissance photographer, was one of the first to see the necessity for speedy duplication of records and bought the patent rights of the invention. With his seven crews of photographers he's working night and day.

One of his biggest duplication jobs was a £1,200 (12,000) order from a railway company. It involved nearly 1,000,000 photographs. He
