Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

CUMBERLAND SCHOOL

The semi-examination of Cumberland and School took place in the school room on Wednesday, Jan. 11th.

The large attendance of parents and visitors testified to the interest taken in the children and school.

The schoolroom was beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens, carnations, flags, etc. The pupils were thoroughly examined by their teacher, Miss Adelia Cahill, assisted by Miss Edna McDonald, Miss Mary Hogan, Miss May Murphy and Mr. T. Rochford, and showed by their ready answers and the manner in which they conducted themselves the thorough training they received from their teacher.

After the examination a program was nicely carried out. Mr. ... acted in the capacity of chairman. At the close a complimentary address was offered by the chairman and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the teacher of all.

The following is the programme:
Choruses, Welcome by pupils.
Recitation, Ella Murphy.
Recitation Vincent Murphy.
Recitation, Loretta Murphy.
Dialogue, The Secret.
Recitation, Leo Doyle.
Recitation, Freddie Dowling.

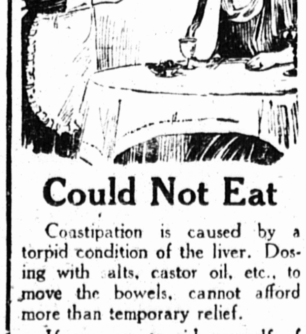
Recitation Ella Murphy.
Recitation, Tom ...
Solo, There's somebody waiting for me.
Dialogue, Christmas ...
Recitation, Stella Murphy.
Recitation May Griff
Song, It's Coming
Closing Address, E. Murphy.

After a treat from the teacher the meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

WILL GO TO GENEVA.

LONDON, Jan 19.—Invitations to the forthcoming Genoa economic conference have been sent to the United States, South American nations and to all European nations except Turkey, and acceptances have already been received from many countries.

The status of Ireland is said to be virtually the same as that of the existing dominions.



Could Not Eat

Constipation is caused by a torpid condition of the liver. Dosing with salts, castor oil, etc., to move the bowels, cannot afford more than temporary relief.

If you are to rid yourself of this ailment and the scores of annoying symptoms and diseases which come in its wake, it is necessary to get the liver right by such treatment as is suggested in this letter:

Mrs. Alvin Richards, R. R. No. 1, Seeley's Bay, Ont., writes:

"For two years I was afflicted with indigestion, and in the morning when I got up my breath was bad. I had a poor appetite, and just felt like eating certain foods. I used many different medicines as a laxative without benefit, and the doctor's medicine did not help me at all. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them better than anything I had ever tried. I can highly recommend them to anyone troubled with constipation or kidney troubles."

NEW EVENTS

Chapter 551

Patty found her work easy, amusing and annoying. The actual labor in the little office amounted to very little; it was mostly answering the telephone keeping a very simple book record of dues and expenses, and carrying on a small correspondence. In her leisure she practised typewriting, and in time obtained a fair speed and accuracy.

Little by little she began enlarging her own work. She began to handle their publicity, taking it out of the hands of an earnest but incompetent young woman. She kept track of messages from one member for another, did much of their investigating, made out reports and found a hundred ways to be useful.

Millie, meantime, was exploring the city, and shopping and going to theatres. In the process of getting settled, many pieces of furniture had to go, many had to be bought. At last, they possessed a charming, if very tiny home.

Millie found herself free, as she called it, for the first time in her life. When her mother would go with her, which was rarely, she gladly took her along. Otherwise, she went alone except when Patty accompanied her to the theatre.

"My clothes are all wrong," was one of her first comments.

That week she shopped, at first astonished at the high prices, later fascinated by the clothes in the cheaper stores.

"They're just as fashionable and don't cost much," she said producing an embroidered suit at $16.65 (value (?) $35, and a dress of thin satin covered with gaudy beads.

This continued until Millie had a wardrobe of what she called really smart garments. Everything she saw on the streets she wanted. She revelled in an exaggeration of the mode. She copied every shop girl or chorus girl she saw, and began doing her hair with great puffs over either ear and wearing dresses that clung to her with shameless fidelity.

"You look shabby beside me," she complained to Patty. "Do go and get a new suit."

Patty realized that her gray tweed was showing the wear and travel too much to be really good. So she bought a suit of a rough dark green that made her pale gold hair shine like concentrated sunlight and a snug little turban of what Millie derisively termed ... whose iridescent blue ... and green set off her complexion in a way envied by ... the Civic Committee.

Millie ... first scoffing at what she called Patty's "old maid taste" began to see, after a few months, that Patty was right and she was wrong. Besides her cheap clothes lost their piquancy of line, and the cotton backs showed through the silk surfaces.

"I'm going to throw them all away and get new," she announced.

"We can't afford it," Mrs. Parke objected.

"Well when my money goes I'll get a job," Millie answered. So far she had been much too busy to think of working.

icjysyfshineulesw bnedayoa ?itf

And the first wardrobe went to the janitress, whose 18-year-old daughter was delighted. The second wardrobe was better in quality, if not in kind.

But that was late in the winter. One of the first activities which Paty worked was a benefit for a hospital that the Civic Committee mothered. One member secured a real grand opera star, another a very good violinist, another paid a well known dancer whose commercial sense was stronger than her charitable one.

A group of young girls, whose dances and parties filled the society columns of the Sunday papers, agreed to appear in a ballet, and Patty found her greatest work keeping them up to the mark, making them reach rehearsals on time, making and breaking engagements for them when these social affairs interfered with the rehearsing. She worked in the evening as well as the day but she loved the big downtown theatre that had been hired and enjoyed being back of the scenes, and seeing the real artists who were to appear.

That was how she met Paul again.

The club rooms were over a smart little catering shop. The old show window, which once displayed a few pieces of georgette lingerie were covered with plain scrim curtains now, and Patty at her desk could see without being seen.

A dark green car filled with boxes drew up outside the shop, and presently the club room door opened. Paul appeared, auto cap in hand.

"I beg pardon I was told Mrs. Munn might be, oh, why hello" And his formal tone gave way to astonishment.

As for Patty, she held her desk with one tense white hand before she had her fluttering scattered senses under control.

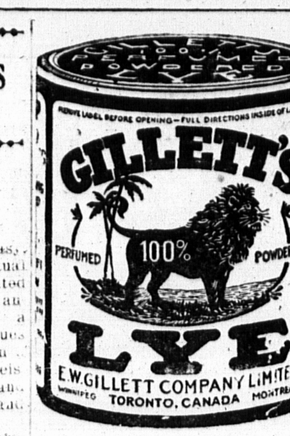
"What are you doing here, Miss ...?" plainly he had forgotten her name! So far had she faded from his memory!

"Parke," she supplied and held out her hand and tried to smile casually.

"I know really. I thought of you as Miss Patty, you see, your name is Patricia, isnt it " He was anxious to make up for his apparent lapse of memory. So he did remember her first name Her heart sang. Had he perhaps thought of her as Patty all this time? Plainly, he hadn't thought about her once, as his conversation later showed.

Patty brought things down to business at once in that way she could keep her voice unemotional.

Tomorrow— New Acquaintanceship



Annual Meeting Of Bible Society

The eighty-third annual meeting of the P. E. Island Auxiliary Bible Society took place on Thursday and Friday, January 12th and 13th at Montague.

There were two sessions, the first of which was held on Thursday evening beginning at ... in the Methodist Church. The meeting opened with devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. McKenzie. The Vice-President Rev. Mr. Armstrong, then took the chair and delivered an introductory address and named the following committees:

Resolutions—Rev. Mr. Raymond, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Rev. Mr. Brown

Nominations—Dr. Ayers, Mr. E. Mellish, Rev. Mr. Jones.

Credentials—Capt. Graham and Mr. H. Nelson.

The reports of the Secretary, the Treasurer and the Superintendent of Sunday School work then followed, after messages regretting their inability to attend were read from the following: Rev. Mr. Brodie, Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick, Rev. Mr. Spriggs, Rev. A. H. Herman, also the efficient Secretary of Sunday School work Miss C. M. Haslam.

The Secretary's report then followed after which the Treasurer's report was submitted. This showed a gratifying condition of affairs—the subscriptions last year being over one thousand dollars more than for the year before.

Rev. F. S. Porter submitted and read the report of Rev. Mr. Heine.

Rev. Mr. Glendenning delivered a most interesting address. He expressed the pleasure of working in this great cause of the Bible Society. He entered fully into the spirit of the eulogies to W. S. Louson, the life President of the P.E. I. Auxiliary, who worked so faithfully, and is now gone to his reward. He congratulated the officers on their reports and on the financial statement which showed a satisfactory increase over last year as regards collections. He spoke most eloquently and effectively about that wonderful book the Bible, and it is to be regretted that space will not permit even a summary of what was a notably interesting address.

A splendid address and exceptionally eloquent presentation of the work of the Bible Society was given by Rev. F. S. Porter of St. John, N. B. He spoke most feelingly of the lamented death of the late president of the branch of the Society and held the undivided attention of his audience during the delivery of an address that has rarely been surpassed by any speeches on the subject of the Bible. He outlined the work of production, and of distribution, and glowing and convincingly described the effective missionary results achieved by giving to heathen nations God's word in their own native language. His address merited the deepest attention given it and was listened to with unqualified approval.

This first session closed with a benediction by Rev. Mr. Jones.

The second session took place on Friday morning at which the business consisted of reports of committees and election of officers; a round table conference, conducted by Rev. F. S. Porter and reports of branches. Following are the officers elected for the present year:—

President, Rev. H. D. Raymond.
Vice-President, J. C. Jardine.
Rev. John Sterling, Rev. C. E. Armstrong, Rev. P. A. Fitzpatrick.
Secretary, J. D. Seaman.
Secretary for Sunday School Department, Miss C. Maud Haslam.
Treasurer A. W. Sterns.
Depositary, Isaac Carter. (Committee recommended that one for each County be opened up.)

Executive Committee—The officers, together with J. P. Gordon, A. P. Prowse, Geo. Haslam, M. A. Leard, Rev. Dr. McEwen, Rev. W. R. McWalker, Rev. Mr. Spriggs, Rev. J. M. Murchison.

Auditor—W. T. Huggan.

The resolutions passed at this session follow:

Resolution.

That we express our deepest appreciation to the people of Montague for their unbounded and generous hospitality; also to the trustees and pastor of the Methodist Church for the use of the building, and to the choir and organist for furnishing the musical program at the meetings.

That the thanks of the annual meeting be extended to all the Branches and collectors for the splendid financial results achieved during the past year.

Resolution re Death of W. S. Louson

The P. E. Island Auxiliary of the Canadian Bible Society desires to put on record its keen sense of loss in the death of its President, Mr. W. S. Louson, who was called to his reward on October 31st last.

For fourteen years Mr. Louson was the honored and efficient President of this Branch. He exhibited a holy zeal in every good work, but in the Bible Society his splendid Christian qualities found their best expression. To him the Bible was the one rule of faith and conduct, and to propogate it among all peoples was God's cure for the world's ills. He had a happy faculty of making young people study the Bible and prize its teachings and many of God's aged people were cheered in declining years because of his work and influence.

Mr. Louson was one of the best type of the Churches laymen who have been the bone and sinew of the Kingdom on earth. His manly form, his kind face, his hearty handclasp and wholesome humor all contributed to a character and influence whose effect is incalculable. He is greatly missed. His place will be hard to fill, but we believe that he being dead yet speaks. To the bereaved family the Society would extend sincere sympathy commending them to the God of all consolation.

Be it Resolved, That this meeting expresses its hearty appreciation of the splendid services which Miss Haslam has rendered the society and the Province at large in her duty as an officer of the Bible Society in its special relation to children's work.

Be it Resolved That this Society records its grateful appreciation of the magnificent and untiring devotion of its Secretary, Mr. J. D. Seaman whose continual service in season and out of season has made possible the very satisfactory report of the past season's work.

Be it Resolved, That this Society extend its sincere sympathy to our good friend Mr. A. W. Sterns, for many years the efficient and painstaking treasurer of this society, who is absent today because of illness. We would express our hearty appreciation of his services and pray that he may be spared long to continue his efforts in this and every Christian work.

Be it Resolved. That this annual meeting of the P.E.I. Bible Society place on record its keen sense of the great importance of the work which the Society is undertaking among the children. In our opinion nothing can be more far-reaching in its influence for good both for the extension of the Society's work and also and still more important, the implanting in the minds of the rising generation those foundation principles of truth which can be found only in the Word of God.

Most Food for the Least Money

A cut of roast beef or a sirloin steak brings joy to the palate of a real man with a real appetite, but you should eat it with a carbohydrate food like

Shredded Wheat
With HOT Milk

Health and strength come from a mixed, well-balanced ration. You need the heat-making and tissue-building elements that are found in the whole wheat. Get warmth and strength for the day's work by eating Shredded Wheat with Hot Milk. Heat the Shredded Wheat Biscuits in the oven to restore their crispness; pour hot milk over them, adding a little cream and salt, or sweeten to suit the taste. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked and ready-to-serve. Contains more nutriment than eggs or potatoes and costs much less.

"All the Meat of the Golden Wheat"

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat cracker — a real whole wheat toast — and is eaten with butter or soft cheese.

Noted Surgeon Has Succumbed

Dr. Norman E. MacKay Passed Away Yesterday After a Lengthy Illness—His Distinguished Record

HALIFAX, Jan. 19.—The death at an early hour Tuesday morning of Dr. Norman E. Mackay, M.D.C.M., M.R.S.C., of Halifax, brought to a close the long and successful career of one of the best known physicians in Eastern Canada and one of the most skilful surgeons in the Dominion. For nearly two years he had been in failing health, but his indomitable will fought bravely against the disease which attacked him. Following an operation at the Victoria General Hospital, at which the diagnosis held out little hope of withstanding the disease, he sought the highest medical treatment abroad, first at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and finally at the Brady Institute, from which he returned only a few weeks ago. It was evident to his friends that he was steadily failing, but he made a brave fight for life and that courageous and fearless spirit so characteristic of his life, remained with him to the end. Death came quietly to him shortly before 4 o'clock in the morning.

Dr. Mackay leaves a widow, who was the daughter of the late Lemuel Miller, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and sister of Dr. A. F. Miller, of the Nova Scotia Sanatorium, and one son, Norman, barrister, of this city. He is also survived by three brothers, Angus, Allan and Donald, and one sister, all of Baddeck.

Dr. Mackay was a typical Highlander, big of body and big in brain and intellectual power. He was a son of Victoria, being born at Big Glen, in that County, seventy years ago, and like many other Nova Scotians of note, had his early education at Picton Academy. After that he came to Halifax to attend the Halifax Medical College. That was before its affiliation with Dalhousie. He proved a brilliant student and won his M.D.C.M. there, getting his M.B. at the old University of Halifax in 1879.

Not content with the opportunities his own provinces afforded and ambitious for further training and experience, Dr. Mackay went to England and won his M.R.S.C. Returning to Canada he started practice in Charlottetown, P.E.I. Having made a name for himself there he came to Halifax in 1881, and for the past quarter of a century has been leader of his profession in Nova Scotia and one of the ablest surgeons in Canada. He was operating surgeon at Victoria General Hospital for about twenty-five years, and Professor of Surgery and Clinic at Dalhousie. He had been for many years Chairman of the Provincial Medical Board and a member of the Medical Council of Canada.

In public service he was port physician for a quarter of a century and filled the position of chairman of the City Health Board for several years. He took a keen interest in civic and other public affairs, and throughout his entire public career showed an independent individuality, acting always as he thought best for the public weal. His family will have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

In addition to his high professional attainments Dr. Mackay was exceptionally well informed on political and constitutional questions, and had a wide knowledge of public affairs both in Canada and the Old Country. He remained a student all his life and kept himself abreast of all progress in the science and profession of surgery, of which he was such a successful practitioner. He was a staunch Liberal in politics and in former years took an active part in politics. He was a Presbyterian and for many years a member of St. Matthew's congregation.
