Last Avenue of Escape Cut off as Loyalists Flee Before Advance.

BY ELMER PETERSON Associated Press Foreign Staff WITH THE SOUTHERN INSURGENT ARMY, Oct. 18—(AP)—The insurgent forces pressing toward Madrid claimed today they had cut the last avenue of escape from the capital as Government troops fled in disorder before the insurgent advance.

Who Are The Smiling Pair?

The following interesting communication speaks for itself: 64 Westminster St., Parkhead, Glasgow, Scotland 24.9.36

To the Editor, "Guardian", Charlottetown, P. E. Island Dear Sir:

I am going to make rather unusual request and hope you will accede to same. On the 6th inst. with some friends I boarded a steamer for Hampton Court from Westminster Bridge, London. On the way I took the enclosed photograph. The couple in the forefront were on a visit after 26 years' absence. They reside, I understand, just across from Charlottetown. I intended getting name and address but lost them in the crowd at Hampton Court.

I shall esteem it a great favour if through the medium of your journal it might be possible to trace them and pass on the enclosed copies of photo.

Thanking you in anticipation. Yours faithfully, JNO. W. MUIR.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKS ITALY; 25 KILLED

Heavy Property Damage Reported in Northeastern Section of Country.

VENICE, Italy, Oct. 18—(AP)—At least 25 persons were killed today in an earthquake which shook northeastern Italy and touched the northwestern section of Yugoslavia and a corner of Austria.

Property damage in the Italian area was extensive and all the dead reported were from that sector.

Venice itself felt the tremor but damage there was slight. Dispatches from Trieste said the Croatian capital Zagreb and the important town of Lubiano were thrown into panic by the quake.

Fifteen were killed in the Italian province of Caneva di Sacle, among the mountains in the province of Friuli. The earthquake killed one and injured six at Aemellano. Several hundred houses, churches and even castles were knocked down.

There was panic through the province of Carnia Treviso. Thousands of persons in night clothes rushed into the open and spent the rest of the night outside their homes. Many drove frantically away from the region.

Venice felt the shock but there was no casualties and damage was confined to a few toppled chimneys.

Hundreds of dwellings were re-

KING MAY SOON MARRY, REPORT

LONDON, Oct. 18—(A.P.)—The newspaper "Sunday Referee" said today rumors from abroad that the King may marry soon had resulted in increased rates for insurance against postponement of the coronation next year.

Under the front page headline "King may marry by Spring," the newspaper asserted rates had been set at £26 5s. for £100 of insurance—or $131.25 for $500 insurance against postponement of the coronation ceremony.

Earlier policies were placed at the rate of four guineas per cent—or $21 per $500 worth of insurance—gradually mounting to 15 guineas ($78.75) in August.

The newspaper did not speculate as to the identity of a possible bride for the King. But, the story read, his marriage before next May would make postponement of the coronation inevitable.

TROOPS ARE SENT TO QUELL BOMBAY RIOTS

Bitter Moslem - Hindu Street Fighting Spreads to Mill Area.

BOMBAY, Oct. 18—(CP-Havas)—Sixteen truckloads of British troops were brought into riot-torn Bombay today after 36 had been killed and 40 wounded in the bitter Moslem-Hindu street fighting which started Thursday.

Soldiers of the second battalion of Durham Light Infantry were ordered out after Lord Brabourne, Governor of Bombay and Sir Robert Duncan Bell, member of the Governor's Executive Council, arrived from Poona, the summer capital, to take charge of the situation.

Nine fires broke out yesterday, five of them in mosques and temples. Early this morning further arson and looting necessitated troops to keep order.

Latest disturbing feature of the situation was the spread of rioting to the densely-populated mill area, where factories were kept open through Sunday to keep the workers occupied.

The section is mainly populated by Hindus who yesterday fell upon groups of Moslem passers-by.

Two Children Are Burned To Death

LOON LAKE, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP)—The bodies of Joy and Philip Guse lay in a morgue here tonight pending the outcome of a coroner's inquest. Victims of an unexplained fire that destroyed the farm home of Olive Guse, district farmer, Saturday, their bodies were found in the ruins.

$4,000 Fire At Morell

A fire of unknown origin swept through the general store and two large warehouses of Mr. Fred Anderson, Morell, Friday night, causing an estimated property loss of $4,000.

A blaze in the rear of the store was discovered about 10.30. Before volunteer firefighters could gather the building, with attached warehouse, was a mass of flames making it impossible to salvage any of the goods.

Realizing that both the store and warehouses were doomed, the crowd centred their efforts on the nearby dwelling, which caught several times and by determined efforts saved the building.

A practically new car in one of the warehouses was destroyed. The loss was estimated at about $4,000, partially covered by insurance.

Annapolis Valley Orchards Again Hard Hit By Storm

KENTVILLE, N.S., Oct. 18—(CP)—Annapolis Valley apple growers lost heavily again this week-end as high winds swept through the Nova Scotia fruit belt and tore thousands of barrels of apples from the trees.

Growers of the Bridgetown district, at the western end of the valley, suffered most heavily and the last vestige of their 1936 crop, amounting to an estimated 40 to 50 per cent. of the total yield, appeared to have been destroyed by two windy week-ends in succession.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 barrels were counted lost in King's county, the biggest producing centre, 000,000

where growers estimated their total loss for the two storms as "well above 100,000 barrels." In Hants county, at the eastern end of the fruit belt, most of the year's crop had been picked, but loss of apples remaining averaged about 20 per cent. One grower said 100 barrels of the remaining 500 in his orchard, were destroyed last night.

Total loss in the valley from the storms was estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. Original estimates of the value of this year's apple crop, placed it at close to $4,000,000

RUSSIA TAKES GLOOMY VIEW OF SITUATION

Belgian Foreign Minister Cites Case of Ethiopia as Failure of Collective Security.

PARIS, Oct. 18—(AP)—French Government spokesmen tonight expressed fears that Belgium was lost to France forever as a military ally, despite Belgian assurances that for the present she considers all treaty obligations in effect.

(Belgium and France have a unilateral mutual assistance pact; Belgium is a member of the League of Nations, and both she and France were signatories to the five-power Locarno pact.)

The French Ambassador to Brussels, Jules Laroche, reported last night that the Socialist Belgian Foreign Minister, P. Henry Spaak, informed him Belgian would seek to terminate military accords at any future Locarno conference.

Taking his cue from the recent speech of King Leopold, in which the King came out for unentangled Belgian neutrality, Spaak intimated, diplomatic circles said, that Belgium in time also would seek to abridge her obligations under the League of Nations' covenant.

Flying Boats Blaze Trans-ocean Trails

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 18—(CP)—The German flying boat Zephyr was catapulted from the deck of the mothership Schwabenland at 2.34 P. M. (A. S. T.) today on a 1,700-mile hop to Horta in the Azores.

Rain, fog and poor visibility failed to cancel the flight. The barometer was falling steadily and the 10-ton ship bucked a 35-mile cross wind as she headed out over Sydney in the path of her sister ship, the Aeolus, which took-off Friday night.

Horta will be the lone stop between Sydney and Bremen, Germany. Three times conquerors of the Atlantic by the southern route, it is the first northern crossing by the Zephyr as was Friday night's flight by the Aeolus.

PONTO DEL GADA, AZORES, Oct. 18—(AP)—The German flying boat Aeolus arrived today from Sydney, Nova Scotia after a stop at Fayal, another of the Azores Islands. The Aeolus was catapulted from its mothership, the Schwabenland, in Sydney harbor Friday night.

Schooner Founders Off Sydney, Crew Are Rescued

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 18—(CP)—Crew of the former international racing schooner Hallogian tonight told how Captain William Kearley, master of the Newfoundland schooner Louis A. Conrad, refused to leave his ship when she struck on Point Acon, near here, early today, and had to be hauled into a dory.

The Conrad, bound for Placentia Bay, Nfld., to North Sydney, was hurled on the rocks by a 45-mile gale after her sails had been ripped from her masts, leaving her helpless. The Hallogian saw the distress signals and rescued Capt.

Survivors Picked Up By Freighter After Clinging Desperately To Capsized Life Boats All Night.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18—(CP)—Ten hours of peril clinging to overturned lifeboats was described tonight by seven Canadian seamen who related how their shipmates one by one slipped to death after the sand-sucker Sand Merchant rolled over and sank in Lake Erie. The dead, 18 men and a woman, were all Canadians.

The 252-foot craft was caught in a terrific storm in treacherous Lake Erie, 11 miles northwest of Cleveland, last night. Hastily lowered lifeboats were overturned by the sinking vessel. For hours the sailors desperately hung on but one by one they drowned before aid arrived.

Finally after daylight two rescue steamships, the Besseme and Marquette No. 2 and the Thunder Bay Quarries came upon the tossing boats. They saved the survivors, but they were pitifully few.

Seven Rescued

Only seven, including Captain Graham MacLelland of Cape Tormentine, N. B., could be picked up. After steaming about seeking other victims the vessel brought the rescued to port, the Besseme and Marquette coming here and the Thunder Bay Quarries to Sandusky, Ohio.

"It was the most terrible night you could possibly imagine," Captain MacLelland said.

"The sight of those poor fellows slipping off during the long hours will always be in my memory. They just appeared to become tired and sleepy and the next thing they were gone without a word."

He had barely given a signal to lower the boats, after the sand-sucker developed a list, when without a warning she went over, he said.

An investigation into the loss of the vessel, owned by the Royal Trust Company and under charter to the National Sand and Materials Company, of Toronto, will be held, it was announced at Ottawa. As the vessel is Canadian owned the United States will not investigate.
