An address, accompanied by a beautiful leather case with ivory brush and comb, was then presented by Myra Hardy and the following address was read by Victoria Watts:—Dear teacher—We, your pupils of York school, cannot let this occasion pass without remembering you in some way. For the past two years you have been with us, and in the school room you did your duty to one and all, faithfully and well, and were ever ready to help in anything when asked. And now, as you are about to leave us, we ask you to accept this small token as a remembrance of the many happy days spent with your pupils of 1917. ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.—On the close of the New Haven school, June 29th, the pupils presented their teacher, Miss Katie MacNeill (De Sable) with a handsome manure set, and the following address:—Dear teacher—We, the pupils of New Haven school, have learned with sincere regret that you are about to leave us. We, therefore, wish to express to you our unqualified appreciation for your painstaking and untiring efforts in our behalf. It is not our intention to offer you vain flattery or empty words of praise, but rather in this public way to acknowledge our gratitude for the special attention and service you have exercised towards our welfare and advancement. We acknowledge that we have at times tried your patience but we hope that our future conduct in life may be such as will cause you to feel amply rewarded in the knowledge that the time spent in New Haven school was not spent in vain. We have often felt keenly our own dullness in grasping at the solution of various difficult problems with which we meet in our course of studies, but your patience and ability in coaching us through the mysteries of education has always led us to accomplish that which at first seemed to us impossible, thus preparing us for the higher problems that await our attention. Now, in closing we ask you to accept this small token of esteem and appreciation of your valuable service to us. We will miss you greatly for your genial, courteous manner, your ability in surmounting difficulties and your untiring effort in our behalf. We extend to you our best wishes whenever you may go and may success crown all your undertakings. Signed, Pupils of New Haven school.

A Case for Winarnis

If you who are weak, anaemic, nervous, or run-down could realize what a short course of Winarnis would mean to you, you would not continue to suffer needlessly. You would get a bottle of Winarnis at once and, from to-day, begin to derive the new health and new life that Winarnis promotes. Remember that your health is your most valuable possession.

Winarnis is a tonic, a restorative, a blood-builder and a nerve food—all in one. Therefore it promotes new strength, new blood, new nerve force and new vitality. That is why over 10,000 doctors recommend Winarnis. Winarnis has been famous in Europe for a third of a century. Thousands have testified that it has restored them to health and strength. Don't confuse it with the many inferior preparations of apparently similar nature. Accept no substitutes. Buy Winarnis itself. Don't let the hundred and one home worries make you forget to buy yourself a bottle of Winarnis today.

Hoffman vs. Zaib, action for a promissory note of $51.80 was concluded and verdict given the plaintiff for full amount with costs. The case of Frederick W. NINE MILE CREEK.—The semi-annual examination of Nine Mile Creek school took place on Thursday afternoon, June 28. A large number of visitors were present. The pupils were examined by Miss Clara Gallant, Mr. Stewart Inman, Mr. Livingstone and Mrs. Doull, and acquitted themselves most creditably. An interesting feature was the physical drill performed by the entire school, under the leadership of Miss Libbie Compton, their teacher. This school has taken second prize for physical drill under the Strathcona Fund, which speaks well for the efficiency of Miss Compton as a teacher. She also inaugurated a school garden last year, and to say the least, it is one of the best kept gardens to be seen in any school grounds today. The ratepayers without exception expressed themselves as extremely sorry that Miss Compton was about to sever her connection with the school. After the examination, the pupils entertained the visitors to a choice selection of recitations and choruses, and were in turn treated by the teacher to confectionery. Several of the pupils presented the teacher with useful gifts as small tokens of their esteem and appreciation. These enjoyable proceedings were brought to a close by all singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the "National Anthem." Before dispersing, however, Miss Gallant took snapshots of teacher and pupils, also the visitors, as mementos of this pleasant occasion.
