Captured enemy clothing, weapons and equipment are carefully studied by Intelligence Officers of the Canadian and Allied armies. Don't let the picture on the left fool you. The lad seen here is NOT a Jap, but a Canadian soldier dressed in a quilted Japanese winter coat, with fur collar and cuffs, steel helmet and a Jap "Bren" gun with bayonet attached. This equipment was captured in the Pacific theatre of operations. At the right, a Canadian Army Officer looks over a German sub-machine gun captured in North Africa. German and Japanese shells and land mines are seen in the background. — (Canadian Army Overseas Photo).
