Talented Artist Visits Province

A talented vocalist and composer of music and poetry in the person of Miss Norma Gregg is visiting the province at the present time. Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd Olson, she is the guest of Mr. Milton Hart, of Montreal, President of the Modern Paving Company and Mrs. Hart, at their home on West Street.

Miss Gregg is an eminent vocalist and composer of music and lyrics. She is a protégée of Madame Schumann-Heink, and is at present studying with Madame Hannah Butler, the famous voice teacher with salons in Chicago, Paris and Berlin. She is a daughter of Walter W. Gregg, associated with Danciger Oil Refining Company of Oklahoma and Texas.

Miss Gregg has received very complimentary press notices from the various cities in which she has appeared. She is described as a genius of music and poetry, as a young woman of rare talents as a composer of no mean ability, as well as a writer of charming verse. The Los Angeles Herald paid a high tribute to Miss Gregg as "the lovely dramatic soprano who has been heard all over this continent, and recently for several weeks in Honolulu, sang a remarkable collection of her own composition."

A prominent New York musical critic says "She has a soprano voice of great range, tone purity, and dramatic power, and an unusual clarity of diction."

Miss Gregg gave a concert recently in New York, with Giuseppe Lombardo, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and she has recent tentative offers to appear on the Heinz Program this winter broadcasting over NBC, in New York.

At present she is compiling a book of verse for publication next year. This evening she will give a recital from 7 to 7:30 p.m. over Station CFCY, and will also sing in Trinity United Church on Sunday evening.

MR. SEAMAN 3RD TRIAL FOR SPEAKS BEFORE MARKADONIS TRADE BOARD

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) SYDNEY, N. S., July 26.—A third trial will be necessary to determine whether or not Nicholas Markadonis murdered his sister-in-law, Mrs. Cleo Markadonis, in the kitchen of her Glace Bay home.

Arrested soon after his sister-in-law was shot, Markadonis was convicted at his first trial but an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada saved him from the gallows a few days before he was to die.

The second trial opened here Tuesday after being postponed from June because of the disappearance of an important prosecution witness who later was arrested and held in jail here.

"On evidence of Dr. Archibald alone, who examined the body shortly after the woman was killed, you should have no difficulty in deciding that a murder was committed, apparently while the deceased woman was preparing milk for her four months old infant," said Mr. Justice Hall in his address to the jury.

"There is no other conclusion to arrive at, on this and on other evidence, but that Cleo Markadonis was the victim of cold-blooded murder."

"Evidence discloses that Markadonis was first connected with guns when testimony disclosed that he had a shotgun hidden under a pile of lumber in the loft of the garage on the Markadonis premises. This gun was tried some distance from the town of Glace Bay, at which time the accused remarked upon the amount of noise it made when discharged."

"Next we find the accused attempting to find a rifle of smaller bore, and after that, starting negotiations for obtaining a revolver from a number of persons, finally securing one from a resident of Glace Bay named Costey."

"You find his statements made to Lesanco, asking if a 22 gun would have sufficient power to kill a woman or a man, and later his statement to MacDonald, if a .32 would have sufficient power to kill anyone."

"Next we must consider the purchase of bullets made by MacDonald for Markadonis, who gave him the cost price, and his request to the buyer that he tell anyone who asked him that they were bought for a man at Sydney pier."

"These cartridges were given to Markadonis and later MacDonald, a youth named Murrant and the accused went out to the Morien Road and discharged six of them, MacDonald firing four and the other two, one each."

"When this box of bullets was found by the police, there were only 38 cartridges contained therein. The revolver procured by the accused from Costey had a six-shot chamber. Six were discharged, and if the gun were then refilled the number remaining would correspond exactly with the number found in the box by the police. It is for you to say whether one of the missing six was found in the dead woman's skull."

"The gun Markadonis procured from Costey was one the latter had found in the woods 11 months ago. For this gun, which Costey states was rusty, Markadonis traded a nearly new shotgun valued at $8.00. When MacDonald, Murrant and the prisoner tried out the 32 cartridges on the Morien Road, one chamber was apparently partly clogged with rust, and would not take the cartridge."

"Markadonis, according to evidence given by MacDonald, fired this chamber out until it was in perfect working order."

Submit Cheerful Trade Report

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) WINNIPEG, July 26.—The Canadian Credit Men's Trade Association today submitted another cheerful trade report to Canada's business men, a report that showed conditions generally were being maintained at a level equal to this time last year.

Warm weather and the usual seasonal exodus to lake resorts and other holiday spots tended to slow up retail sales somewhat, the report showed, but in most centres the improvement that set in some months ago was being maintained.

The Maritime report follows: HALIFAX: Wholesale trade about the same as last year, and though retail sales are quiet, hotels, garages and accessory stores report increased sales. Collection fair.

SAINT JOHN: Wholesalers report volume fair, with retailers showing slightly improved returns.
