QUEEN'S COUNTY GUARDIAN

Head Offices in New Prowse Block—Charlottetown

John S. Lamont, City, spent Sunday at Winsloe.

The tide will be high today at 1.24 and tomorrow at 2.09.

Frederick Keyes, St. Stephen, N. B., is visiting friends in this City.

Races will be held on Tunnel Park, Cape Traverse on Wednesday, Aug 21st, as will be seen by the ad in this issue.

Stephen Gutham and family, who have been staying with Mrs. Allen, of Fitzroy St., leave on the S. S. Halifax today for Fall River, Mass., after having spent a very pleasant outing in Charlottetown and vicinity.

"And the villain still pursued her," likewise the heated term is pursuing us, therefore, the reason why those delightful afternoon outings of the S. S. City of London are so liberally patronized. For full particulars see her excursion bulletin in another column.

A correspondent writes from Orwel Cove: The farmers of this section are engaged at the hay which is a fair crop.—William D. Gillis sold his trotting horse Harry K. recently for a handsome sum.—R. Cullen is visiting friends here; he is the guest of Theophilus McLeod.—What might have proved a fatal accident occurred here recently, when a party of young people were out for a boatsail. A sudden gust of wind capsized the boat and only for the assistance of Sinclair McDonald it might have proved fatal to one of the Newton boys.

The pictures at Wonderland for the first three days of this week eclipse anything that has yet been seen there, the picture of the ruins of the ancient city of Pompeii being particularly interesting. The comedy pictures are a scream from start to finish. "The Pork Butcher's Night Mare" is an extremely fine piece of colored effects. That the pictures are giving entire satisfaction is evident in the increased attendance each evening. The playing of Miss Blanchard and the illustrated songs by J. Austin Trainor are among the pleasing features of the entertainment.

Speaking of the monument which is to be erected in Halifax to the memory of that noted Prince Edward Islander, Archbishop O'Brien, the Halifax Herald says:—The monument to be erected in the cemetery of Holy Cross, in memory of the late Archbishop O'Brien, will, it is expected, be completed September 1st. It is the workmanship of local stone cutters—Griffin and Keltie—and is to be a modification of the Celtic Cross, 12 feet in height. The base is to be of native granite, and the sub-base and the cross of Westerley granite. The inscription will be upon the lower part of the cross, in the center of which will be carved the symbolic mitre. Within the circle of the cross will be an inscription in Latin. The completed monument promises to be really beautiful—a fitting tribute and memorial to a good and great man—a man under whose episcopate the Catholic church in the Archdiocese and especially the city of Halifax, enjoyed a remarkable development."

Prince Edward Island's native-born may be found in almost every corner of the world, says a recent issue of the Canadian Courier. They are a far-faring people; but the more distant their abiding place the more certain they are that the place they came from can scarcely be equalled anywhere else. Judging from the miles they will travel to reach home again, if only for a few weeks, Prince Edward Island, like most small countries, is passionately loved. These native pilgrims, however, are not the only travellers who come to Prince Edward Island. It is a summer resort both for Canadians from the other provinces and for citizens of the United States. But it is fairly safe to venture an opinion that people from Montreal and Toronto outnumber all other summer residents. Outsiders congregate in a few large boarding-houses, which may be called hotels if you so please. At any one of these the sojourner is likely to find himself well satisfied with his share of earth and sky and sea and summer. Prince Edward Island does not greatly resemble any of the other Canadian provinces. It has its own individuality. What that is few people have yet taken words to express. Yet Mr. Basil King, a Prince Edward Islander, who has written three novels, would find an admirable setting for a pastoral or romantic love story in his native province. Dr. Macphail, editor of the University Magazine, a novel writer and essayist, could fit a story of Prince Edward Island with words which would find their way far abroad and yet would never lose themselves. Dr. Schurman, of Cornell, is a Prince Edward Islander; and it was in this same island that Dr. Falconer, whom the University of Toronto have chosen for their head, was born.

A. J. McKay, Malden Mass., brother of Mrs. John Collings of this City, is here on a short holiday. It is twenty-six years since Mr. McKay visited Charlottetown, and he, of course, sees very many improvements, and is renewing old acquaintances. He came from Boston to St. John by the new S. S. Yale of the Eastern S. S. Co., making the trip in about eighteen hours. This is remarkably quick time but no better than on every fair weather trip by this beautiful ship. Mr. McKay is a prominent contractor in Malden.
