

Uncle Zeke and Fido had the same idea

About the only difference was that Fido buried bones all over the place in broad daylight. Uncle Zeke used to plant his hard-earned savings out by the barn in the dark of the moon. Both of them could—and did—dig into their savings whenever they felt the need.

Your modern "buried treasure" may be in a much safer place. Ordinary methods of saving are fine, as far as they go, but they are subject to what too often happens to the best of human intentions.

A Canada Life contract goes further. Have the nearest Canada Life representative show you how one dollar can do the work of $3.00 in terms of a guaranteed retirement income.

The CANADA LIFE Assurance Company

Representative: S. W. WILLIS

CABLE MIXUP STARTS HEAVY RUN ON HIDES

By J.C. GRAHAM (Canadian Press Staff Writer) WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 5 (CP)—How a mutilated cable led to a speculative orgy of calf-skin buying by Canada, Australia and other countries was told in the New Zealand Times by representatives of the Finance Minister Walter Nash. He was explaining restrictions which have been placed on the sale of hides, pelts and skins in New Zealand.

therefore been necessary for the government to impose restrictions on sales and a satisfactory allocation had been worked out. A restriction was also placed on the price to be received by sellers in New Zealand. This was fixed at 43 cents per pound. The difference between this price and the speculative price, being offered would be paid into the Bobby Calf Pool, where it would be held for the benefit of producers.

HE'S RICH, HARD TO GET
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika, Sept. 30—Dr. John Thornburn Williamson turned up today as perhaps the world's richest, most eligible bachelor—but marriage-minded girls will have to go to Tanganyika to catch him.

FABULOUS STRIKE
He's 5 feet, 10 inches tall. He's slim, dark and handsome. He's single. And he's just turned 21. The world's richest diamond mine—a fabulous strike that should be more valuable than the Kimberley Mines which have produced more than $1,000,000,000 worth of gems in the last half century. The trouble is that Williamson is shy. He won't leave his mine which is deep in Africa, 500 miles from here. He works 12 hours a day. He won't see anyone except a few government officials, and they must go to him.

People who have met him, however say he's not entirely anti-social. He keeps his radio going every minute he's awake—whether he's working or resting.

KINDLY NATURE
Williamson's acquaintances report he has a kindly nature, and has provided extra facilities for his 6,000 native workers. He reads the classics and books on geology. He has a doctor's degree from McGill University in Canada, and may be writing a book about geology.

REPORT CANNIBALISM IN NIGERIAN JUNGLE

LAGOS, Nigeria, Oct. 3—A gruesome story of murder and cannibalism in the Nigerian jungle growing out of tribal enmity unfolded in a Lagos courtroom when 11 natives were arraigned on a charge of murder. All were convicted and sentenced to death. The fate of Jameson Lino Euker, Owerri Province school-teacher after he left his home to arrange for a family feast was learned shortly after his murder and reported in news dispatches from a Nigerian settlement. But it was not until the murder trial when an eyewitness of the crime told his story from the stand that details of his death were learned. For more than a year enmity existed between the Ibibios, the tribe to which Euker belonged, and the Iboos who blamed the Ibibios for the murder of their chief. The boundary line between the tribes' lands is the river which divides Owerri from Calabar Province. It was in Calabar shortly after crossing the stream where Euker died. Six men attacked the school-teacher with clubs at the top of a hill up which Euker had pushed his bicycle, the witness testified. Clubbed unconscious, Euker was dragged into the bush and exhibited before members of the Ibo tribe. Then his body was cut up,

Calls For Statement Of Policy

By JAMES MCCOOK Canadian Press Staff Writer BLACKPOOL, Lancs., England, Oct. 6—Britain's Conservative party today called overwhelmingly for a concrete program and a statement of policy with which to counter in his scheduled address in answer to the electorate against the Labor Government.

At the same time Winston Churchill, party leader and wartime Prime Minister, said that "all the burden" of restoring world peace should not be thrown upon the United States. He renewed his plea for the establishment of a United States of Europe.

Following this afternoon's lively session at the party's 62nd annual conference, delegates speculated on what Mr. Churchill would say tomorrow in his scheduled address in answer to the electorate demands from the convention floor for a statement of policy.

Speaker after speaker today rose angrily and said there must be clear-cut leadership and a firm policy. They declared that the leadership and party must be able to answer questions such as what the Conservatives would do with a nationalized industry if they were elected.

While the conference was going about its business energetically, Anthony Eden, deputy party leader, outlined his policy views in a speech at Liverpool.

Mr. Eden outlined a tri-partite system for industry with the state leading but not directing a partnership of management and labor. Management would run industry with government help, advice and assistance, he said.

"I believe that with proper understanding, the organizing power of modern government can be developed not to obstruct and to stultify free enterprise but to help it adapt itself to changing world conditions and to realize the highest levels of production."

Labor too, must join in the drive for production, he said. The labor union's fear of unemployment could itself contribute to that very unemployment. Wildcat strikes were in part caused by the feeling of union members that they were losing contact with their leadership.

As Mr. Eden is one of the men closest to Mr. Churchill, Conservative circles here interpreted his speech as his first strong bid for the party leadership when Mr. Churchill decides to retire. It was also believed that Mr. Eden's speech was made with his chief's approval.

Food Board Is Answer To Atomic Bomb

HALIFAX, Oct. 5 (CP)—Another war in seven or eight years unless the nations of the world reach a good agreement that will provide health standards for the world was forecast by Sir John Boyd Orr, Scotch director general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, who arrived here today aboard the Scotia.

The liner docked almost 24 hours ahead of schedule with 800 civilian passengers and more than 200 dependents of Canadian servicemen.

Included in the passenger list were Mrs. Rhonda Kelly, winner of the title "Miss Australia", and a ballet troupe.

Sir John, who is on his way to a conference in Washington, said that only on the matter of food was there a chance of world agreement, adding that only a world food board will be the answer to the atomic bomb.

"Either we will have war in seven or eight years and we will all be blown to hell... or we'll have world co-operation."

He expressed doubt that the Paris peace conference would reach a successful conclusion. "Such treaties will only last as long as they suit any particular nation."

"Nations will never co-operate on the matter of boundaries. But they will about something as concrete as food."

Complete Crown Testimony In Espionage Trial

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Crown finished with its star witness today in the trial of Harold Samuel Gerson, 41, of Montreal and Ottawa, a former munitions department official who is charged with conspiring to communicate confidential information for Soviet Russia.

Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland of the Ontario Supreme Court adjourned the trial until Monday, postponing defence examination of stocky Igor Gouzenko, 27, former cipher clerk for Lt.-Col. Nicolai Zabotin, the former military attaché in Ottawa, who is charged with allegedly the head of an espionage ring said to include the Montreal-born Gerson.

In his second day on the witness stand before a jury of 12 men, Gouzenko completed identification of 26 documents he took with him when he fled the embassy Sept. 5, 1945. Thirteen were outlined Thursday, the other 13 today. All have been made public previously.

Most of those submitted today referred to Russian requests for information and to information provided by Dr. Allan Nunn May, British scientist serving a 10-year term for espionage, including obtaining samples of uranium and the existing arrangements, which were flown to Moscow from Canada.

They were submitted to establish the nature of the conspiracy in which the accused is said to have been involved.

The trial of Gerson, a geological engineer and graduate of McGill University, began Wednesday after Mr. Justice McFarland ruled that it would not be in the interests of justice to try Gouzenko with four other accused, including J. S. Benning, his brother-in-law and colleague as a munitions department employee.

Under income tax revisions made in the budget last June and effective with the 1947 tax it is assumed that all taxpayers with children under 16 receive the allowance, and the exemption for each child is fixed at $100.

Previously, taxpayers who were in higher brackets and whose allowances would have been entirely offset by tax could either collect the allowances and repay them or not take allowances. Under the existing arrangements small families with income of not more than $3,200 receive no benefit from children's allowances.

The department said in today's statement that a number of families receiving less than $3,200 had not taken the benefits because the amount they retained would be negligible.

PORTRAIT OF A No. 1 CITIZEN...

any week-day after Thanksgiving—

He is signing up for his CANADA SAVINGS BOND

a No. 1 investment for himself and a No. 1 weapon in his fight against inflation.

BANK OF MONTREAL
working with Canadians in every walk of life since 1817

MY BANK
TO A MILLION CANADIANS

NOTE: You can buy your Canada Savings Bonds at your local B of M branch for cash, on the Monthly Savings Plan, or on the Deferred Payment Plan. Any member of our staff will be glad to give you full particulars.

signal from Polhu on England's southwestern tip 1,900 miles from Newfoundland. The message consisted of the single letter "S" in Morse code and was received distinctly many times during the day's epoch-making experiments.

But the world at first was skeptical of such magnitude was the claim New York newspapers were hesitant to accept it and even Thomas Edison described it as a newspaper fake.

As the truth spread across the world, messages began to pour in from kings, princes and emperors. The linchpin of the word was focused on Newfoundland and the inventor.

Oddly enough, Marconi chose Newfoundland for his experiments in response to a distant plea from its minister of fisheries, T. J. Murphy. The minister had published a chart illustrating scenes of 80 wrecked steamers and other vessels which had piled up on the island's rocky shores.

Getting in touch with Marconi, he sought erection of a wireless telegraphy station on the dangerous coast.

The inventor accepted the invitation, landed in St. John's early in December, 1901 and began setting up his equipment.

He had previously transmitted a sending message 400 miles. A week later, he far outdid himself with reception of the signal from Polhu.

EVEREST MOUNTAINEER COMMANDS AT LAHORE
NEW DELHI, Oct. 3 (CP)—Major Gen. J. G. Bruce, D.S.O., the mountaineer who, with Capt. G. I. Finch, set up a world record in 1922 by climbing within 1,800 feet of the peak of Mount Everest, has recently been appointed Lahore Area Commander.

General Bruce fought in the First Great War and on India's North-West Frontier in 1907-23.

In the Second Great War, he was first employed in the joint planning staff under the chiefs of staff in London and subsequently on the staff of the Central Norwegian Expeditionary Force.

On his return to India at the end of 1940, he took over command of the 17th Indian Infantry Brigade and later was appointed deputy director of military operations at General Headquarters. Recently he became deputy chief of the general staff.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., Oct. 4 (CP)—There was no coffee, shaving or washing for half of the residents of Wolfville today after the water main burst and left the western section of the town without water. Town authorities have arranged to deliver water to hospital by truck while the main is being repaired and if necessary a delivery service will be arranged for private homes.

GENERAL STORE

Before the days of the thriller serial — we enjoyed this thriller cereal flavor!

- Yes, even before the first "nickelodeon" with their flickering silent films and piano accompaniment, that one-and-only Grape-Nuts flavor was a big favorite on breakfast tables all over Canada.
- Today that same glorious flavor is a "double feature" — you can enjoy it now in honey-golden, curly POST'S GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES as well as delicious, chewy Post's Grape-Nuts. And it's all goodness that comes from two golden grains—wheat and malted barley—specially blended, baked and toasted, for glorious flavor and easy digestion.
- Just look at the nourishing Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes give you! Carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for bones and teeth; iron for the blood; and other food essentials! Surely here's a breakfast treat your family needs and will enjoy! Pick up a package of ready-to-eat, nourishing Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes today. You'll appreciate the economy of the giant size package. And recipes for cookies and other good things made with Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes are on every package.

Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes
A Product of General Foods

INSULATE . . .

TO OVERCOME NEXT WINTER'S FUEL SHORTAGE

REMEMBER, we have been warned by our government that all types of fuel will be in short supply next winter. Enjoy more comfort, and burn less fuel. Insulate with Mineral Wool. CALL US NOW!

D. J. CHEYNE, Care Guardian Office.

NORTEHRN INSULATION

COMPANY OF CANADA LTD.
Marine, Home and Industrial Insulators
40 Charlotte St. Saint John, N.B.

Free Estimates and Booklets on request.

STARTS WORK IN JUST 2 SECONDS

ASPIRIN

RELIEVES NEURITIC-NEURALGIC PAIN

GENUINE ASPIRIN IS MARKED THIS WAY

It's better and CHEAPER to prevent trouble than to correct it

PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE

WILL KEEP YOUR CAR FIT

It's costly to wait till you must have your car repaired. It's far better to give it regular attention to keep it in good running condition.

Specialists in Preventive Maintenance

Horne Motors

168 Kent St. Charlottetown