IMPORTANT READING MATTER SELECTED FROM THIS WEEK'S NEWS FOR THE GUARDIAN'S SATURDAY SUBSCRIBERS

MONDAY.

The Milford Farm owned by John C. McLeod was offered for sale Saturday. The highest bid was $4000 but the reserve was higher than this amount and no sale was affected. F. H. Horne was auctioneer.

After being in business for 11 years the partnership existing between J. S. McEachern and A. P. McDonald will cease after December 17th. They have cleaned out their stock and gone out of business. The firm was very successful and in the 11 years they both cleaned up a good bunch of money. Mr. MacDonald and family will go back to their old home in Prince Edward Island early in the spring.—The Moyie Leader, Moyie, B. C.

A pretty house wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 7th, at the residence of Rev. A. D. McDonald, Calgary, when Mr. McDonald's eldest daughter, Elsie Jean, was married to James W. Hunt, of the firm of Reece, Giddy & Hunt, commission merchants, Edmonton, the bride's father officiating, assisted by Rev. H. G. Gratz, M. A., B. D., of Sunny Slope. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Edith MacDonald. The bride wore a beautiful gown of cream satin, trimmed with pearls. A wreath of orange blossoms crowned her tulle veil, and her bouquet was of roses and lily of the valley. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt left for a trip to the coast, the bride wearing a very beautiful coat of Persian lamb and mink, the gift of the groom. (Rev. Mr. McDonald is a brother of Major MacDonald, Stipendiary Magistrate for Charlottetown.)

—In the list of prizes at the Winter Fair, J. W. Callbeck is credited with first prize for "Sow two months and under three months." This should have read "over 9 and under 15 months." Mr. Callbeck was also awarded third and fourth prizes in "grades of any other breed," and fourth in dressed carcass. This fine exhibit was taken to Amherst Fair and looked after by George Callbeck, the bright and capable young son of J. W. Callbeck, who is ill in the P. E. I. Hospital in Charlottetown, and was not able to attend the exhibit.

—The death of Mrs. Janet Edgar Forsythe, widow of the late Charles Forsythe, took nlace in Alberton on November 9. She was the daughter of the late William and Janet Bell, who came to this country from Dumfrieshire, Scotland, in 1872 and made their home in Hill's River. She had not been in good health for several years and her death was not unexpected but the deep grief of her friends and the sincere mourning of a large sommunity will long be remembered. Her life was one of faithful devotion to duty with a high sence of Christian responsibility. Such are always much loved and greatly missed. She leaves behind her two sons, John William at home, and Robert B., principal of the Rossland High School, also two daughters, Mrs. Howard Clark, Alberton, and Miss Bessie at home. The funeral was an exceptionally large one. The service was conducted by the Rev. George Millar.

On the eve of his departure for East Point, to which parish he has been transferred, Dr. B. J. Gillis of St. Dunstan's College was presented by the students with the following address, together with a fur coat and cap, as a slight token of the great affection which they have for him:

To the Rev. B. J. Gillis, D.D.

Rev. and Dear Sir:—We learn with profound regret of your early departure from St. Dunstan's College where during the short period of your professorship, you have succeeded in an unusual degree in directing towards yourself the affections of the student body.

Your devotion to duty, and your solicitude for the lessening of college monotony have, we assure you, impressed us with a sense of your regard for our welfare here, and led us to hope that you would not soon be transferred to other fields, which perhaps might not offer such scope for the exercise of the many talents you possess, and which in the short space of three months we have so learned to appreciate.

We shall not dwell here on our relations during the past few months. They have been cordial, eminently satisfactory and fruitful of happy memories. We merely wish to express our appreciation of those relations and to express the hope that your return to us may be looked for in the not distant future.

We trust that in your new sphere of usefulness you will have the goodwill and kindly co-operation of your parishioners—which indeed you cannot fail to have—and that your life there will be as happy as it deserves to be.

In conclusion—for we cannot prolong the pain that the consideration of your parting gives us—we request the acceptance of this symbol, which but faintly typifies the affection in which we hold you.

Dr. Gillis left on Saturday morning for East Point, to which parish he has been appointed as curate to Rev. Jos. A. McDonald.

SUMMERSIDE, December 19 — The death occurred very suddenly about 11 o'clock Saturday morning at the Empress hotel, Summerside, of W. S. Garrison, the well-known tree man. Mr. Garrison was up about as usual Saturday morning and after having breakfasted went across the street from the Empress hotel to Patrick Mulligan's shoe maker's shop, and after being there some little time he complained of pains in the pit of his stomach. He then returned to the hotel and still continued to complain of the pains in the stomach and chest and also of a smothering feeling. Local remedies were given, and about ten-thirty Mrs. Leard noticed the hard breathing of Mr. Garrison and at once telephoned for a doctor, but when he arrived Mr. Garrison was dead. Dr. Jardine, the coroner, held an inquest on the body and a jury composed of Thos. Johnston, Foreman; J. M. Noonan; P. N. Enman; W. W. Muttart; T. P. Grady; J. H. Gaudet and C. B. Morris, who after viewing the body and hearing the evidence of Louis Leard, prop., of the Empress hotel, Mrs. Leard, Dr. A. McNeill and Patrick Mulligan, brought in the following verdict: That W. S. Garrison came to his death from heart failure on Dec. 17th., 1910. The late Mr. Garrison was a native of New Brunswick and came to the Island about ten years ago where he has since been engaged as representative for Brown Bros. nursery. He was about 55 years of age and leaves to mourn several brothers and sisters in his native province. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 2 p. m. from the undertaking rooms of A. H. Wadman to St. John's cemetery, St. Eleanor's.

JAMESTOWN, Ny., Dec. 15—By the burning of a farm house near Russell, Pa., last night, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nelson was burned to death and two younger children were burned so badly that they will probably die.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Dec. 18—Cap't Carter of the schooner Jesse Hart, arriving here today after terrible experience reports the probable loss of the schooner Laura C. Hall, with all hands during Friday morning's blizzard.

The Laura Hall, was bound from Port Reading for Sackville, N. B. and it is believed she foundered near Nantucket shoal.

Capt. Carter states that on Friday morning the Hall, deeply laden, passed his vessel and shortly afterwards disappeared.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Dec. 18—The Barge Birghampton, and two others were lost from their tow on Thursday night, during a wild storm.

The Binghampton has been located and saved, but the other two barges with crews of eight men have probably foundered.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—Among those passing the civil service examinations are C. W. Heaney, third on the list in the third division, and R. W. Tomlins, in the preliminary, both of Charlottetown.

OTTAWA, Dec. 15—The bill introduced by Mr. Verville (Maisonneuve) to restrict the hours of labor upon public works to eight hours a day was presented to the House this evening in an amended form, and as such received the endorsation of the Government. The bill as amended restricts work on public buildings to 48 hours a week, with a stipulation that extra time shall be paid for on the basis of 25 per cent. additional wages. The bill was still in committee when the House adjourned at midnight.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—With the exception of a few personal changes the new House of Commons will be the same as the old one.

If the six districts, still unreported go the same as last time, the Liberals will have four members less and the Unionists one less than previously, making these predominant parties exactly equal, if a Liberal Speaker is elected.

The Laborites have gained three and the Nationalists two seats.

Both the Nationalist gains were Unionist losses. The standing of parties tonight is:

Liberals 268.
Laborites 43.
Nationalists 72.
Independent Nationalists 10. Total 393.
Unionists 271.

Two of the Independents are generally looked upon as Liberals.

There is no further talk of Parnellite home rule.

The Government policy is confined merely to self-government for Ireland, subject to Imperial control.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., December 14.—The plea of Hattie LeBlanc to be allowed to go back to her old home in West Arichat, with her father, was granted today, when a jury, after deliberating an hour and a half, decided that she was not guilty of the murder of Clarence F. Glover at Waltham, on the night of November 20, 1909. The verdict was a popular one—so popular, in fact that the traditional decorum of a Massachusetts court was swept aside while men and women cheered, shouted and wept for joy. The demonstration continued for ten or twenty minutes, and the court officials were utterly powerless to stem it. The crowd in the corridors took up the cheers of the throog that was packed in the court room, and there came answering cheers from more than 2,000 men and women who had assembled on the quadrangle in front of the court house and the surrounding streets of East Cambridge.

Immediately after the verdict had been announced and the girl had been discharged from custody, Assistant District Attorney Wier endeavored to persuade Judge Bond to hold Hattie as a witness to give evidence before the grand jury that would warrant the indictment of Mrs Lillian M. Glover, the widow of Clarence Glover, who had been accused by counsel for the defense of being the real culprit in the case. Judge Bond declined to grant the requisition. Last spring Mrs. Glover was acquitted of a charge of being an acessory after the fact. Mrs. Glover was not incensed when the verdict was returned. When informed at her home of the result she received the news cooly.

"Does it surprize you?" she was asked.

"Well, no", she replied. "I can't say that it does. This has been a very funny trial right through. Hattie was accused of the crime, but in reality I was tried for it."

"I did not do it, I want to go home to my father." In a voice pathetically weak and with a strong accent Hattie LeBlanc, the little French-Canadian girl, today made her last statement to the jury which decided that she did not murder her employer, Clarence F. Glover. Judge Bond finished his charge to the jury at 9.32 and at 9.45 the twelve men retired to consider their verdict.

At no previous time since her arrest had Hattie shown more grief plainly than this morning. When she was brought into the court room, by a deputy sheriff and the matron of the Cambridge jail, she was pale and subdued. Her usual smile was absent and the morning greetings of her attorneys failed to dispel for even an instant the cloud that had settled upon her countenance. The jury too, plainly evinced the strain to which they have been subjected. As the 12 men crossed the corridor on their way to the court room, only two bore upon their faces any trace of a smile. The others looked grave and showed in their faces that they have been giving careful deliberation in the case.

When the trial was resumed at 9 o'clock, Judge Bond at once continued his charge to the jury.

In his address, Judge Bond referred to the sore on the finger of the defendent, which he said, the prosecution claimed, was made by the backfire from the revolver.

The district attorney then corrected the judge, saying that the government claimed that the sore was made by the flash from the muzzle.

"Do you mean that she shot herself?" asked Judge Bond.

District Attorney Higgins did not reply.

The court called attention to the fact that no experiments had been made with the revolver to show that such a sore as has been described on the defendent's finger could be made with the revolver, altho the police had the weapon for more than a year.

Judge Bond said that the jury had the right to infer what interest influenced testimony on either side. He referred to Attorney Elmer's receiving $4,153 from Mrs Glover, and said that if Elmer was interested in collecting evidence to use in the case to make it clear that Mrs Glover was not implicated, then both witnesses were interested.

When Judge Bond ended his charge, Clerk Dillingham turned towards the diminutive prisoner, and said:—

"Hattie LeBlanc you now have the opportunity to say anything you desire."

Pale and frightened the girl rose, folded her arms across her breast and turned towards the jury. Her voice was so faint that her words could be heard only a short distance.

"I did not do it; I want to go home to my father."

The jury was unable to hear her, because she spoke so faintly, and her chief counsel, Melvin M. Johnson, repeated her statement for the benefit of the jurymen.

James Cummings, son of Malcolm and Mrs. Cummings, of Darlington, P. E. I., aged twenty five years was accidentally killed recently by being caught under a log while employed as brakesman on a logging train for the International Timber Company, of Campbell's River, British Columbia. The remains of the late Mr. Cummings were brought home on Dec. 7th by his brother Allan. The deceased was possessed with many charming qualities of mind and manner and by his kind and sympathetic nature has left lasting rememberances on the hearts of those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance and by whom his death shall be sincerely mourned. His life, though short, was bright and full of promise, but it is little matter at what hour of the day the rigourous fall asleep. Death cannot come to him untimely who has learned to die, "the less of this brief earth the more of Heaven, the shorter time the longer immortality." That the deceased young man was beloved and esteemed was attested to by the large concourse of acquaintances who notwithstanding the state of the roads gathered at his funeral on the 8th to pay their last tributes of respect to his memory. The funeral services, which were strongly impressive, were conducted by the Rev. John Gillis, pastor, Strathalbyn. He leaves a sorrowing father, mother, three brothers and one sister to cherish his memory.

Leaves have their time to fall and flowers to wither,
As the north winds breath and stars

But all thou hast, all seasons for thine own, O death.

TUESDAY.

A hog weighing 800 lbs, was sold to James Kennedy, Hensington, by John A. Brown, Graham's Road, a few days ago. It is said to have been the largest hog handled on the Island this season.

A pleasant little function took place at the wholesale warehouse of McCoubrey and Bulman, Prince St., yesterday, when Captain Theo. Doucett, of Rustico, P.E.I., was presented, by a number of his friends in this city, with a gold mounted briar pipe and pipe case. Captain Doucett is one of the veteran P. E. Island mariners visiting this port. He has been sailing between the Island ports and Sydney for the past 35 years and the present is the tenth consecutive autumn that he has brought a cargo of produce to this city. Captain Doucett is highly popular with all of the local dealers.—Sydney Ex., Dec. 16.

His many friends in Hampton and vicinity, especially at this season of peace on earth and good will toward men, are pleased to again welcome to their midst Alexander Patrick Ferguson, of Winnipeg, Man., who has recently returned to his old home to spend a well earned vacation. Mr. Ferguson left Winnipeg on Dec. 3rd and arrived at Summerside some few days ago after having visited en-route Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, New York, Boston and other American cities. He expects to remain on the Island for about three months, then to return to Winnipeg where he has extensive business interests. Energetic and resolute, and realizing the limited field afforded for his young ambition by his native land, ambued with, and impelled by the possibilities and opportunities of Western Canada, he determined to seek his fortune in the west, and, therefore, help his home some ten years ago, locating at Winnipeg, where he has been engaged in the contracting and building trade ever since. Even in the short space of ten years, Mr. Ferguson has seen Winnipeg grow from a city of 80,000 to nearly 150,000 inhabitants, perhaps the most cosmopolitan on the American continent. East, west, north and south, the city is extending itself, and what was ten years ago acres and acres of barren prairie, is now covered with handsome and durable structures. Mr. Ferguson has been for many years a staunch, consistent and enthusiastic, though broad minded, member of the Orange Lodge, in which institution he held many high offices, and on the 12th of July is a familiar figure upon the streets of Winnipeg regaled and mounted upon a white horse. For the last few years Mr. Ferguson has taken a keen interest in all kinds of sport; including baseball, hockey and rifle shooting, being a member of the Pirates Baseball and Hockey Club, (successors to the Tigers), and of the Manitoba Rifle Association. As a member of the Pirates hocket team, he acquired much fame as a puck chase in many of its cup matches, and of his skill on the defence line as goal kepper, is largely attributable the cups which the club now hold, and the success it has attained. Mr. Ferguson and his friend, Heber Auld, another famous Island shot, came very close to catching a place on the famous Bisley Team last year. Mr. Ferguson always uses a Lee Enfield, while Mr. Auld is enthusiastic in his praises of the Ross Rifle. Both of these young hopefuls propose practicing hard this coming spring with the view to a free trip across the pond on the next Bisley Team. Mr. Ferguson is most enthusiastic as to the resources and possibilities of Western Canada, especially Manitoba, which he claims with her boundaries extended to include all that vast tract of country to the north of her present limits, and with the Hudson Bay railway and Winnipeg, the gate-way city is destined to become the arbiter of the fortunes of the Dominion. Yet with Scott Mr. Ferguson believes the truth of the following lines.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said
This is my own native land.

To My Friends in P. E. I.

In this my initial letter as correspondent to the "Beau-Brummell" of all P. E. I. papers let me state that in the future I shall endeavor to keep the readers of this good paper posted as to the welfare of their sons, daughters and relatives in general, in this, one of the largest and busiest cities in the United States.

I suppose that there is without doubt more Islanders located in Boston and its surrounding towns, than any other city on the map, and it has been my good fortune to meet some one of my former acquaintances every day from the Garden of the Gulf. It is some fifteen years since I left the dear old place, and time no doubt has made its customery changes. Many of the boys and girls I knew then have grown almost beyond recognition. Those that have steered their course to Boston I have met in my daily travels or at least the greater part of them, and now that I have associated myself with The Guardian, I hope to meet them all. Hoping that my future letters and notes will meet with universal approval to the readers of this paper I will close this preliminary by wishing you all a Merry Xmas and A Happy New Year.

Does anyone remember Dan McIsaac, he used to be a marble worker with a concern on Kent Street. I see him most every day, he is manager of one of our Hotels, looks fine and has a good position.

I saw J. B. Dawson, the other day, better known to his Island friends as "Brent" he is in the grain and hay business in Mattapan, a short ride from the city, and doing very well.

Carver and Carver, Attorneys at Law, that's the sign painted on the front door, leading to one of the largest suites of offices, in one of Boston's biggest office buildings, none other than Percy W. and Arthur G. Carver of Pownal, located in the aforesaid place of business, denotes the condition of affairs financially.

I met J. Lewis Hayden from Vernon River, he has been in the Real Estate business for a number of years, but in a short interview he told me he had given it up and was going in the Cafe business somewhere on Washington Street, about the first of the year.

Joe O'Neill, formerly of Vernon River, is in the "Collecting bad debts" business. I should think Joe would be reasonably successful in this line, lots of experience.

Any fellows from P. E. Island who want to meet any of the girls from his home, will just drop in to Child's Restauraunt on Washington Street, near Boylston, between the hours of eleven a.m. and two p.m., will meet her there, either waiting on table or feeding her face.

The Boston Arena is now open, this is practically the first season. One of the largest in door ice skating rinks in the world. There is some 27000 square feet of ice surface, frozen by a mechanical arrangement. The floor is covered with about 20 webs of piping through which circulates a freezing substance, composed of ammonia and other chemicals. To give an idea how fast they can freeze a surface—one man with a spray hose can start spraying at one end of the rink and by the time he is done spraying, the ice is in first class condition for skating. The working staff of the Arena from the Executive Staff down, is composed of Canadians. J. W. Norfolk, of St. John, N. B., is Hockey Manager, William W. Brown of Pownal, P. E. I., better known as "Billie" is Chief Instructor of Skating. The chief engineer is from Yarmouth, N. S., and the major part of the help hail somewhere from the land of the Maple leaf. Billie Merritt, the speed skater of St. John is pulling off some very fast half miles, while Edgar Richardson, of Sydney, N. S., is showing his Boston friends some fine points in hockey. Another capital place to meet friends from home.

Jack Sheehan, of Summerside, is the holder of a very nice position in the capacity of manager of Dunlop-Cook & Co., Canadian Furriers. I dropped in on Jack one day this week and he was very glad to see me. This store is one of the largest and best stocked stores in the United States, catering to the finest trade. Ladies furs are their special line and right here, is where Mr. Sheehan shines.

SUMMERSIDE, December 20—The Supreme Court at Summerside resumed at 10.30 a. m. yesterday and His Lordship gave his charge to the jury in the case of Martha Jenette McCallum vs. George Bowness. On the conclusion of the Chief Justice's charge the jury retired at 11.30. When Court resumed after dinner the jury came in and through their foreman announced that they could not agree. His Lordship asked the foreman if he thought there was any chance of them agreeing if they were sent back to the room and the foreman said he did not think so. The jury, standing 4 for the defendent and 3 for the plaintiff. The jury were then discharged. While the jury were out the case of Rev. F. S. Bamford vs Geo. Bowness, an action for defamation of character, was then called and the following jury impanelled: A. J. McLellan (foreman), Stephen Saunders, Jos. Connolly, Peter Cahill, Dennis O'Brine, Howard Adams and Hugh McIver. The plaintiff's case was opened by Mr. Saunders who after addressing the jury called as his first witness Rev. F. S. Bamford, the plaintiff, whose direct examination was not finished when court adjourned until 10.30 this a. m.

Keep Baby's Skin Clear

Mothers, do you realize the importance of caring for baby's tender, easily irritated skin? Neglect or unsuitable methods may give rise to simple rashes or tiny sores. Torturing, disfiguring humors follow and threaten to become permanent. Not only is Cuticura Soap the purest and sweetest for baby's bath but, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, it affords the speediest and most economical method of clearing baby's skin and scalp of eczemas, rashes, itchings and irritations, and of establishing a permanent condition of skin and hair health.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists everywhere. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass. Send for free Cuticura Book on the care of skin and scalp.

Don't Chastise The Child

Little 10 year old Leona Kelly of Pembroke, Ont. had an annoying weakness of the bladder and kidneys. Whipping and scolding did not avail and the child became worst. Then a friend advised Booth's Kidney Pills. She is now cured and her mother writes: "I cannot thank you enough for the happiness Booth's Kidney Pills have brought to our home and I can recommend them to mothers with children suffering in this way." Sold and guaranteed by Geo. E. Hughes, City.
