Soil Erosion Is Alarming South Africa

By Bryan Young

PRETORIA, South Africa, Jan. 26.—(CP)—South Africa, now fully awake and alarmed about the situation, is beginning to take wide measures to save her soil and water.

The country's soil, most of which is not rich, is eroding, and its water, in a land of few lakes, meagre forests and small rivers is steadily decreasing.

Scientists, engineers and industrialists studying the situation say that South Africa's mining and industrial progress may be retarded through lack of water in years to come, and even today there is not enough water to meet the needs of the country. One expert goes so far as to say that eventually the Union will have to distill sea water on a tremendous scale to meet her requirements.

The government had adopted a policy of encouraging industries to move into rural areas, but the shortage of water makes this impracticable except in a few favored areas, and in many of these the problem will become acute in the future.

To combat these tendencies the government has embarked on a double program of establishing large irrigation projects and encouraging soil conservation. Broad-acre farming in the Union's irrigated areas is being directed to "farming" out the waters of the Orange River—the country's largest river. This is to be done by building more big dams on the river and by diverting some of its waters in canals and tunnels to other rivers and dams in order to get it to areas short of water.

Backache Whipped by Man and Wife

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Technical staff of the National Research Council laboratories here are building what might be termed "a poor man's atom smasher."

Costing a mere $50,000, compared with the University of California's $5,000,000 effort, the Canadian model is expected to do a more efficient job for some purposes than the much-publicized cyclotron.

CARS COLLIDE

Two cars collided a few minutes after midnight Sunday morning at the corner of Pleasant Street and Longworth Avenue. Drivers and passengers escaped injury but both cars were considerably damaged.

LEARNERS OF BROTHER'S DEATH

A wire has been received by Mr. Abner Vesey, York, conveying the news of the death of his brother, Eustace M. Vesey at Central Butte, Saskatchewan last Wednesday morning. The telegram also disclosed that the death of her husband proved such a shock to Mrs. Vesey that she was suddenly stricken and passed away shortly afterwards. Two sons and a daughter are left to mourn.

SORORITY MEETING

Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Mrs. J.T. Lines on Wednesday evening, January 22nd, with the new president, Mrs. Tom DeBlois in the chair. Mrs. DeBlois succeeds the past president, Jean Macdonald, who has accepted a position in Toronto. The program, in charge of Mrs. A.J. Murchison, program convenor, was an interesting one, consisting of short talks by various members of the society.

C.C.F. Would Boost Old Age Pensions

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The C.C.F. party announced plans tonight to stage a Dominion-wide campaign for old age pensions of $50 at age 65 and to carry the matter to the floor of the House of Commons in the coming session which opens next Thursday.

In its concluding session of the three-day meeting of the national conference the party's 28 members of the Commons, endorsed a resolution making these demands in regard to old age pensions for Canadians:

1. A pension of not less than $50 per month at age 65 without a means test.
 2. Such a pension to be paid in full by the Dominion Government.
 3. The pension to be paid together with a cost-of-living supplement, an invalidity supplement and free medical, dental, optical and hospital care.
- The C.C.F. old age pension program compares with the present general pension of a means test, the building of a means test, the cost shared by Federal and Provincial Governments. The Dominion has proposed $30 pensions at 70 years of age with a means test to be paid in full by the Dominion and old-age assistance with means test for those aged 65 to 69 shared by the Dominion and the Provinces.
- Finance Minister Abbott has warned that these latter proposals will have to be reconsidered because of the recent higher subsidy payment proposals made to the Provinces in Dominion-Provincial financial talks.

Poor Man's Atom Smasher Cost $50,000

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Technicians at the National Research Council laboratories here are building what might be termed "a poor man's atom smasher."

FOUND DEAD ON SIDEWALK

Found on a sidewalk in Brooklyn with a swastika and the word "Nazi" carved on his chest, Anthony Charles Trabasco, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., died 45 minutes later without regaining consciousness. The student, dressed only in pyjamas and underwear, had been beaten. In addition to other injuries, his skull was fractured.

War Bride Checks Baby's Weight Proudly

"I'm so proud of him," said the English war bride as she happily displayed her well-nourished, black-eyed, rosy-cheeked, 15-lb. baby to Miss Wilson, Director of Public Health Nursing, at the Summerside Well Baby Clinic conducted by the district public health nurse, Miss Eleanor Wheeler. Mrs. Arsenault is a regular attendant at the Baby Clinic as she said she was taught in school that this was the right thing to do. She is so pleased with her new life in Canada and although only here a few months, she easily speaks of Summerside as "her home."

OTTAWA AWAITS

Mr. Abbott, explaining the proposals to a press conference, said he believed the Dominion had reached the limit of its financial concessions.

To obtain the increased payments from the Dominion, the Provinces would have to agree to a virtually exclusive use of the personal income and corporation tax fields. If they wished they could share the inheritance tax field with the Dominion, but that the payments would be reduced accordingly.

OF INDIAN ORIGIN

Arabic numerals, used by the modern world, came originally from India.

National production increased.

Mr. Abbott said he could not see what might be accomplished by a new Dominion-Provincial conference. No Province has offered alternative proposals to those which have been advanced by the Dominion. He said that such conferences broke up in failure in 1941 and again in 1945 and as a result the Dominion had to negotiate individually with the Provinces.

Judgment Given For Non-Suit In Car Purchase Case

Following is the text of a judgment given in the Queen's County Court by Judge C. Gavin Duffy, in the case of Russell McIntyre, plaintiff, vs. Samuel Kennedy, senior.

"In this case, plaintiff sues defendant for $360 for part of the purchase price of a car purchased by the plaintiff from the defendant or his son about August 1945, for a price which is admittedly $350 above the "ceiling price" fixed by the regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"Both parties knew that the price was above the ceiling and were taking measures to endeavor to cover up the transaction.

"But it is contended that, notwithstanding the fact that both parties knew they were committing a breach of the regulations, the purchaser can turn around and sue the vendor for the surplus price, and recover.

"The section of the regulations on which the plaintiff relies is as follows:—(Order-in-Council, P.C. 823 of Nov. 1, 1941 as amended) Sec. 14. No person shall have any right to enforce or receive payment of more than the amount of any specific or maximum price prescribed under these regulations or fixed by or under authority of the board or concurred in by the board, and any person who pays any greater amount may recover the excess, notwithstanding that such person may have been guilty of an offence in so paying such greater amount.

"The prohibition in the first part of the section is against the person "enforcing or receiving" a greater amount than the ceiling price, and the implication of a guilty knowledge of a sale in excess of the "ceiling." But it does not suggest or attempt to condone a guilty knowledge on the part of the purchaser.

"Such an interpretation of the section would result in terrible chaos and an over-throwing of many well established rules of law. Following this interpretation, any person could buy a car and knowingly pay above the ceiling, then turn around and sue the vendor and recover the price. This would certainly be encouraging a multiplicity of law-suits which is contrary to the well established principles of law. It would also be encouraging the purchaser to break the regulations, which I refuse to believe is the intention.

"Again, persons in pari delicto are not allowed to sustain actions against each other. The interpretation would upset that principle.

"Again, persons who come into court must have clean hands. The plaintiff has not shown that he acted in good faith in purchasing the car.

"In the case of Woywotka v. Mokerly (1945) 4 D.L.R. 262, the only case quoted by the plaintiff in support of his contention, the court succeeded, but the judge prefaced his judgment by finding that the plaintiff knew nothing of any "ceiling," and when he found out he attempted to return the car and cancel the sale.

"I feel that the only sensible way to construe the section is to allow the plaintiff to succeed when he innocently purchases a car without knowledge of the price "ceiling." Otherwise, the regulations would allow a man to commit a wrong or breach of the regulations and then assist him to nullify his vendor in damages and costs. I refuse to put such an interpretation on this section 14.

"The second ground of defence is that the car was owned by Samuel Kennedy, Jr., and although the sale was carried through by the defendant, he was merely acting as agent for the car's owner.

"The contention I consider is borne out by the evidence. Mr. McLean, who formerly owned the car in question, swore that he sold the car to Samuel Kennedy, Jr. and was paid by him for the car.

"Samuel Kennedy, Sr. and Jr. both swear that the car was owned by the son, and that the son got the money on the sale. Of course the car was not registered in the name of either of them while the car was in Kennedy's possession. When the sale was made to the plaintiff herein a transfer was made direct from McLean to the plaintiff.

"But the preponderance of evidence points to ownership by Samuel Kennedy, Jr. In this case, the action cannot succeed against Samuel Kennedy, Sr.

"There will therefore be judgment of non-suit, but as both parties will pay his own costs."

Mr. J.A. McDonald K.C. appeared for the defendant and Mr. J.O.C. Campbell for the plaintiff.

Red Cross Blood For Crash Victims

HALIFAX, Jan. 26.—(CP)—About 2,000 cubic centimeters of whole blood—almost the entire supply of the blood donors division of the Canadian Red Cross here—was donated to the Royal Canadian naval hospital during the week-end as doctors fought to save the lives of two American flyers seriously injured in the crash of a United States naval air transport at nearby Eastern Passage, Friday night.

Donated by Halifax citizens, the blood helped to keep alive Lt. J. Smith of Oakland, Calif., and Lt. D.A. Swanson of Jacksonville, Fla., pilot and co-pilot, respectively, of the aircraft which crashed after overshooting the airfield. Five other occupants of the plane also were injured.

Daring Flight Planned In The Antarctic

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Little America is waiting anxiously for word that six big, stripped-down navy air transports have taken off safely from the carrier Philippine Sea on a daring, 600-mile flight to this Antarctic base.

Messages from the Philippine Sea, which made a rendezvous early Saturday with three other ships off Scott Island, indicate that Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, commander of the expedition, has the planes poised for take-off. He will fly in the lead plane.

Byrd described the plan to fly the big war-engineered DC-3s to the snow airstrip built here as a "most important experiment."

"This expedition has encountered extraordinarily severe weather, hazardous flying conditions and difficult ice formation," the force commander said. "It nevertheless has overcome major obstacles and already has made notable progress in discovery and exploration.

"The launching of these large planes from the deck of a carrier is another major step in our effort to penetrate and explore the important Antarctic continent."

"The planes were equipped with wheels for the take-off from the carrier and had heavy skis fastened to the undercarriage to permit landing on the snow strip here. To facilitate take-off the transports were fitted with jets.

DOUBLE TALK TOM PUZZLES FUGS, FANS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(CP)—There is a book published here which they say every boxer should read. A neatly-bound, green-covered volume entitled "The Rules and Regulations of the N.Y. State Boxing Commission," the tome is a classic—a classic, that is, of delightful double talk and contradictions.

First published at some long-ago date not readily determinable, T.R.A.R.O.T.N.Y.S.B.C. never reached the best-seller ranks. Why this remains vague in literary circles since it proves to be one of the best laugh-producing treatises of the century.

Utilizing the book-reviewer's right to "reprint a few brief passages" the following quotes are presented to enlighten the reader about the pastime called boxing.

"Between June 1 and Oct. 15, seconds will be permitted to wear a white shirt. The following quotes are presented to enlighten the reader about the pastime called boxing.

"Unlaundered shirts are the vogue for the balance of the year. Cuff links are optional.

"No drinkables, refreshments of any kind or other articles except programs may be served or sold in the arena or hall where boxing contests are given."

"(Nothing, that is, except those bottles of fizzy stuff and the things they serve inside test-tube rolls. Light on the mardar, please!)

"No person shall be allowed to stand at any of the clubs and seats must be provided for all that are admitted."

"(Get off my foot, bud! How about cushions for these 'standing room' seats, commissioner?)

"Over to the wrestling section, 'rasslers' of the catch-as-catch-can trade are warned that:

"The so-called drop-kick is prohibited. (This is an outrage. It eliminates the attempt to convert for an extra point.)
