—LETTER FROM FRANCE.—The following are extracts from a letter just received by the writer from Pic. 426729, 2nd Can. Batt., who is now on Active Service with the British Expeditionary Force.—"Dear Friend, I must drop you a few lines today. I was in my trenches at the time I received your letter. The German guns make fearful destruction but ours generally always succeeds in putting them out of business. I have had a few narrow escapes since I came to the front and expect to have more before we get through. How does the War situation seem to you down there? We are quite sure the Germans are getting the worst of it around here. I have seen quite a number of prisoners taken by the Canadians, some of whom I have myself seen up. They don't look good to them when they do that. Well I must close, hoping to hear from you again. Same address. Yours truly—"Dan."

—MALPEQUE'S LARGE PATRIOTIC SHIPMENT.—An exceptionally fine shipment for our island boys under arms, was made by the Malpeque Women's Patriotic Association from Kensington Station on Wednesday evening. The shipment contained 15 boxes weighing 750 lbs. The boxes were well made from fine lumber, stenciled and bound by straps of tin. Dr. James Keir doing the work personally. They were addressed "Capt. Mary Plummer, Canadian Field Comforts Committee, in care of Lt. Col. M. J. Stewart, A.D. of S. and T. Dist. 4, Montreal, Canada." What each box contained was stenciled on the cover. The principal articles were fruit cake, socks, mitts, canies, lobster, tobacco and stationery. Altogether the shipment was an object lesson in what can be done in the way of being of some comfort to the men who are brave enough to fight the enemy for the sake of those at home. Think of the comfort the Malpeque shipment alone will give to hundreds, and if every community would get together properly, each one sending some article of food or clothing to the proper authorities to be forwarded, each one would be doing "their bit," however small, to win the war. It would seem that fruit cake would be one of the best articles to send. There is a lot of latent energy in a pound of fruit cake, and it will keep good for months. It behooves all to do their bit by helping to make the soldier comfortable. Mrs. (Dr.) James Keir is president of the Malpeque W.P.A.—K.

—RAILWAY CONSULTATION.—The P. E. I. Railway authorities and the Kensington Town Council held a consultation last week with a view to lessening the liability to accident at Kensington Station. The Town Council strongly implored the Railway department to have the station and platform lighted by electric light. It would seem that the recent sad and fatal accident was the result of a condition that has existed for some time at many station platforms on the P. E. I. Ry., when crowded excursion trains pull in; i.e., the people who come to the stations to see the trains arrive crowd too close on the platform. The wonder is that such an accident has not occurred before. Sometimes the curious ones crowd so close that passengers have to struggle to get on or off the cars. The railway employees are also impeded in their work, sometimes being forced to go around the throng of people collected, rather than jostle their way through. Then again some seem to be absolutely without fear of moving trains. It is an everyday occurrence to see people walking on or standing close to the edge of a platform, when a train is in motion, without a thought of the possibility of some Boatswain person jostling. No doubt these are the reasons for the stations to meet, thoughtlessly crowd too close at times, but surely the onlookers ought to "have a heart" for the Railway Officials and passengers, and help to expediate traffic, by standing at a respectable distance.—K.

—OUR DUMB ANIMALS.—A friend has told us the following: Into a letter from an American in Paris, received last month, in which the statement was made that France felt very bitter towards the United States, was slipped a note by another hand, to the effect that the correspondent evidently did not know the mind of the French people, and asserting that the feeling was very different from that indicated by the letter. This note was signed, "Censor."

—ANEMIC PEOPLE Need More Iron in the Blood. If you are anemic you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face, colorless lips, aching finger nails, poor circulation and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

M. L. Trecker of Toronto, Ont., says: "For nearly three years I suffered from anaemia, and doctor after doctor failed to do me any good. I had such dizzy spells and would almost fall on the street. My mother wanted me to try Vinol and three bottles built me up so I feel like a new creature, and I am gladly recommending Vinol to others because of the good it has done me."

The bad effects of poor, deoxygenated blood cannot be overestimated, and it is the best and cod liver, peptonates, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates contained in Vinol that enriches the blood, improves the circulation and in this natural manner builds up health and strength. Try it on our guarantee.

Reinforcements For Your Dairy

How about that old separator that you have been thinking of discarding for the past one, two, three, perhaps five years? Don't you think it is time to replace it with some modern cream separator machinery? The "Made in Canada" cream separator will bring reinforcements that you have needed for some time in your dairy to enable you to make a "drive" for larger cream profits.

It will bring to you a skimming device that Government Dairy Schools have tested out and proven to skim so close that only one-tenth of a pound of butter fat is lost on every 1000 lbs. of milk skimmed. The Ontario Government's Dairy School Bulletin No. 206 considers the loss of one-half pound of butter fat good skimming. And there are machines that lose even as much as a full pound and more in every one thousand pounds of milk skimmed. Dear knows how much an old obsolete machine that has been in use for years loses. Certainly enough cream if it were saved to soon pay for a modern Standard cream separator.

The Standard also will bring to your dairy a real self-oiling system. This machine runs in a bath of oil, the reservoir only requiring to be filled three or four times in a whole year. This saves oil, keeps the machine in perfect running order, and means less attention required.

It will bring, too, a wide open bowl and discs that can be cleaned thoroughly in a minute. It will bring safety, for the Standard's gearing is all enclosed.

It will bring other things, too—easy running, interchangeable capacity, low supply can, instantaneous clutch, flexible neck bearing, etc., etc.

Made In Canada

But these are all described in our latest cream separator catalog. Send us your name and address and we will mail you a copy by return post.

Storming of Thiepval

TANKS PART IN GREAT VICTORY

Deadly Work by our New Engines of War.

With dash that nothing could arrest, assisted most handsomely by the Tanks, our troops crowned their two days of victorious fighting by the capture of Thiepval. Our attack, writes Mr. Philip Gibbs, began at half-past 12 after a great bombardment that had been continuous for 24 hours, rising to infernal heights of shellfire. Our men leapt out of their trenches to the south of the trees, just north of the "Wunderwerk" and advanced in waves. It was on the left that the men had the hardest time. One battalion leading the assault had to advance directly upon the chateau, that heap of red rubbish, and from cellars beneath it came waves of savage machine-gun fire. They were also raked by an enfilade fire of machine-guns from the left top corner of the ground where the village once stood. "Where are the old Tanks?" shouted our men, and started back to catch a glimpse of them. It was splendid to see the smiles spreading over our men's faces every time they talk of the Tank. Whatever their sufferings have been they cheer up and laugh in a comical way at the thought. For the Tank is a wonderfully fine tonic to the spirits of our men and an outrageous comedy thrusting his blunt nose into the grim business of this fighting. A Tank had been coming along slowly in a lumbering way, crawling over the interminable succession of shell-craters, lurching over and down into and out of old German trenches, nosing heavily into soft earth, and grunting up again, and starting into the open parapets as though quite unafraid by the exercise, and then waddling forward in the wake of the infantry. Then it faced the ruins of the chateau started at them very steadily for quite a long time, as though wondering whether it should eat them or crush them. Our men were hiding behind ridges of shell-craters, sweeping from the swish of machine-gun bullets, and imploring the Tank to "get on with it." Then it moved forward in a monstrous way, not swerving much to the left or right but heaving itself on jerkily, like a dragon with indignation, but a fierce fire leant upon its nose. The German machine-guns splashed its sides with bullets, which ricocheted off. Not all those bullets kept it back. It got on top of the enemy's trench, trudgeled down the length of it, laying its sandbags flat and sweeping it with fire. The German machine-guns were silent and when eight unwounded men and forty wounded were brought down safely as prisoners, but others were killed on the way by their own barrage. Later the enemy attempted a counter-attack after a tremendous barrage which lashed falling along the ridge and below in Thiepval Wood. Very lights rose through all the smoke, and I saw our men signalling for the help of our guns. The help came quickly, and a new storm of white and black smoke-clouds rent by little flashes of flame burst beyond the village on the German positions in and beyond the cemetery. One of the most remarkable Tank adventures was where our troops were held up by the raking fire of machine-guns. They made two attacks, but could not get beyond that screen of bullets. Then a Tank stroled along, rolled over the trench, with fire flashing from its flanks, and delivered it into the hands of the infantry with nearly 200 prisoners, who waved white flags above the parapet. That was not all. The Tank, exhilarated by this success, went lopping along the way in search of new adventures. It went quite along, and only stopped for minor repairs when it was surrounded by a horde of German soldiers. These men closed upon it with great bluck, for it was firing in a most deadly way, and tried to kill it. They lunged bombs at it, clambered on to its back, and tried to smash it with the butt-ends of rifles, jabbed it with bayonets, fired revolvers and rifles at it, and made a wild pandemonium about it. Then our infantry arrived, attracted by the tumult of this scene, and drove the enemy back. But the Tank had done usefully work, and between 200 and 300 killed and wounded Germans lay about its ugly carcass. For a little while it seemed that the Tank also was out of action, but after a little attention and a good deal of grinding and grunting, it heaved itself up and waddled away. The tanks are terrible engines of war, doing most grim work, and the men inside are taking high risks with astonishing courage.

Christmas dinner was nearly over. The turkey and pudding had been done full justice to and the Robinson family were languidly eating nuts and almonds, raisins, "Oh, mummy," said Clara suddenly, "daddy and you can't guess what I've got under the table!" Feeling very amiable and happy, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson tried to please their youngest by making shouting and cheering, they found a few German gunners standing with their hands up as a sign of surrender to the monster who had come upon them. "We couldn't have faced the chateau without the help of the old Tank," said several men. "It didn't care a — for machine-guns. It did them in properly." Unfortunately the great grasshopper got into trouble with some part of its mysterious anatomy, and had to rest before crawling home to its lair. So that the rest of the fighting in Thiepval was without this powerful support, and our infantry faced many other machine-guns alone. I suppose only Oville can rank with Thiepval for long and close fighting. Our men had to tackle and undergound foe, who fired at them out of holes and crevices while they remained hidden. They had to borrow for them, drive down into dark entries, fight in tunnels, get their hands about the throats of men who suddenly sprang up to them out of the earth. "I went down into some of these 'deep dug-outs,'" said one boy, "but ran back again every time I saw Germans there. Some of them wanted to surrender, but how did I know if they wouldn't have killed me? And other chaps were coming along with bombs. As likely as not I should have been done in by our own lads. It was very difficult to know how to handle 'em, and up above we were being raked by 75's and machine-guns, something frightful." Many of the deep dug-outs were blown in at the entrances, so that the men were forced to come up the other side. Our men smoked them out. It was rathunting, but dangerous rats, life-size, and often desperate. They surrendered in hundreds who one man were all, and then they and right down to their tunnels. I cannot tell the number of the German garrison. Nine hundred and ninety-all sorts of wild guesses at the answer. But at last they had to confess and replied sadly.—"A stomach ache." —"We give it up. What is it?" Clara Scottish-American.
