SUGGESTS SCIENCE TAKE A VACATION

Bishop of Ripon Held That People Need a Rest to Catch up With Discoveries.

LEEDS, Eng., Sept. 6.—A controversy over the question of whether science should take a 10 year holiday to permit people to catch up with its discoveries has cropped up in the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

The controversy has church representatives on one side and scientists on the other.

The Rev. Edward Burroughs, Bishop of Ripon, suggested in a sermon yesterday that there should be a 10 year scientific holiday during which every laboratory should be closed in order that the world could assimilate evolutionary knowledge which he said gladdened the world.

Caledonian Club Picnic

An enjoyable outing was held at Bonshaw Monday afternoon by the members of the Caledonian Club and their friends.

Bonshaw is without doubt an ideal place for an outing and a large number took advantage of the fine clear afternoon, some going by boat and others by car.

After an excellent and appetizing luncheon at Mrs. Beaton's, the gathering assembled on a nearby field which had been previously fitted up for a picnic and games and dancing were indulged in.

Prizes were offered for the dancing of the Highland Fling and Gillie Callum, these dances affording great amusement for the spectators.

In a nearby booth the old fashioned square dances were indulged in, many taking advantage of the opportunity.

The sports were somewhat delayed by the boat arriving late owing to tide conditions but a very pleasant afternoon was spent renewing acquaintances among former neighbors and meeting friends from other sections and from abroad.

Notwithstanding the three disappointments owing to unfavorable conditions which prevented the usual gathering, nevertheless the picnic was greatly enjoyed by the many who attended.

Tragic Accident Monday Afternoon

The pleasure of Monday's holiday was somewhat marred when it was learned that shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon a car accident occurred in the city in which a little boy, Everett, three and a half years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Doucette was almost instantly killed.

Mr. Doucette was driving along Sydney Street accompanied by his child, going west; when he reached the corner of Weymouth and Sydney Streets a car driven by Alyre Arsenault, accompanied by Mr. J. B. Gaudet, coming along Weymouth from the railway station going north, struck the car driven by Mr. Doucette.

The car was forced up against a telephone pole and the little boy, Everett, who was thrown out when the cars collided was pinned between the car and post. Mr. Doucette was also thrown out of the car and although in a dazed condition managed to force the car from the post and extricate his child which he carried to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howatt nearby.

Dr. Dewar was hastily summoned but when he arrived he pronounced the child dead.

Mr. Doucette who suffered a severe shaking up and yesterday had to be summoned to hospital. It is feared a bone in his elbow is splintered and he is suffering injuries to his back and ribs.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Doucette in the loss they have sustained by the sudden death of their bright young child.

The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

IS PREMIER MACKENZIE KING GOING TO RESIGN?

Toronto Financial Post Announces That The Party Is Not Satisfied With The Leadership, And, That Mr. King May Be Sacrificed Unless He Calls To His Assistance The Reckless And Disloyal Section Of His Followers.

TORONTO, Sept. 6, 1927.—The Financial Post publishes the following: What was back of the semi-official announcement that Hon. Mr. Larkin, High Commissioner in London, was to be replaced by Vincent Massey, and subsequent partial denial of the story? Was it a feeling put out by the Prime Minister himself, or was it inspired by some of his Cabinet colleagues? It is said to have been given to The Globe by a former Conservative minister who is known to be in the confidence of some of the Liberal leaders.

It must have had some official sanction from Liberal headquarters, for it appeared exclusively in the Government newspapers.

Some such plan has been under way for a long time but the despatches did not tell the whole story. They did not say that Mr. King was to replace Mr. Massey at Washington. Ever since his defeat in the House, last year, when Robb and Dunning stepped in and pulled the party together in the House and subsequently won the election, there has been an understanding that he should be asked to retire gracefully to the more congenial quarters of the Washington legation.

The election gave him a respite and developed a desire to recover his prestige, and it became generally understood, chiefly among Quebec and Western leaders, that he was to be allowed to remain as Prime minister for two years before going to Washington. This would give the new prime minister time to find his place in public esteem before the general election. Recent developments, however, have given him encouragement and much needed confidence. He is receiving strong support from two rather important political groups—the one which has no sympathy with the strict enforcement of certain national revenue and allied laws, especially as they apply to liquor and narcotics, and the other which sees little hope for Canadian development within the British empire and thinks the time has come when we should work for closer commercial relations with the U. S. This does not suggest that Mr. King personally sympathizes with either, but Mr. King is a professional politician, not a statesman, and may accept support to justify his ends.

That this may mean an entirely new political line-up in Canada was the agreed opinion of a group of French Canadian leaders discussing the situation with The Financial Post six months ago. They believed that it would be necessary for Ferguson and Taschereau to get together in a national party with Dunning as prime minister, provided the latter continues to hold the West. He has not been popular in Eastern business circles, but the sound and courageous way in which he dealt with the Hudson Bay terminal situation has won him growing confidence.

The signs of life, energy and enthusiasm spreading in the leaderless Conservative ranks were unexpected. The Liberal leaders see the necessity of preparing for it at once and not waiting for it to come before changing their leadership. In this is probably the explanation of the hint or feeler put out as to Mr. Larkin's resignation. They are not prepared to take chances on Mr. King, the student and theorist, with a record not generally popular, with the new Conservatives led by an astute and constructive politician and statesman like, say, Howard Ferguson.

With Mr. King out, a government administered by such men as Robb, Dunning, Euler, Malcolm and Ralston would command the belief, so much of public confidence that only an accident could shake the Liberals out of office for many years.

Mr. King, as indicated by his recent speeches and interviews and his press, is apparently making every effort to live down, to overcome the suspicion that his sympathies are less British than should be held by the chief executive of a British Dominion.

His attitude in the 1923 Imperial Conference, his desire for a new party for Canada, his readiness to sacrifice Canadian to U. S. business interests and other incidents, are quoted and used against him and against Canada. On this hand, it is said that he breathed Imperialism at the 1926 Conference or the short crops of the last two years, but in proportion to the late holding that body together when the Irish and Africans would have broken away. He thus placed the past five years.

Hon. Wm. Duff, M. P., for Antigonish-Guysborough, who at the recent sitting of customs commission at Ottawa emphatically denied all connection with rum-running activities.

Potato Crop Estimates Orphanage Children Entertained

Mr. W. Boulter, Secretary of the P. E. I. Potato Growers' Association states that the estimated total value of the Island of the 1926 potato crop was three million dollars. The total acreage under potatoes this year is about 45,000. The total certified acreage for 1927 to date is 25,000. This latter number is included in the 45,000 acres.

In this connection it will interest you to know that an above average crop of potatoes is forecast for the Dominion this year in the latest report prepared by the Dominion Fruit Branch. According to this survey, Canada will have a 102 per cent crop as compared with the ten year average, the estimated yield being 56,644,000 hundredweight as compared with 48,882,000 in 1926.

In Ontario, with a total acreage of 152,000 acres, present indications are for a yield of 10,518,000 hundredweight, compared with 9,898,000 last year. Favorable growing conditions have been experienced in all parts of that province.

An increase of something over five per cent is reported from Nova Scotia, the estimated yield being 3,500,000 hundredweight. In Prince Edward Island, where this is a major crop, an estimated yield of 4,822,000 hundredweight will be harvested. In spite of wet weather, New Brunswick growers look for a crop of 5,255,000 hundredweight, and in Quebec it should run to 15,405,000, nearly a million over 1926. On the Prairie Provinces the crop estimates at 2,254,000 hundredweight will be somewhat smaller than in 1926 but in British Columbia, with an increased acreage and good growing conditions the crop is now estimated at 1,216,000 hundredweight as compared with 1,395,000 in 1926.

Prospects for potatoes have improved in all sections of the United States, and in nearly all important producing States. It is still too early to accurately forecast the yield in the Northern States, but the present condition of the crop is quite uniformly good, and prospects are for an average yield of 117.5 bushels per acre and a total crop of 411,000,000 bushels, compared with a five year average production of 394,000,000 bushels. This hand, it is said that he breathed Imperialism at the 1926 Conference or the short crops of the last two years, but in proportion to the late holding that body together when the Irish and Africans would have broken away. He thus placed the past five years.

No More Long- Distance Swims For C. N. E.

(Special to The Guardian)
TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6.—No more 21 mile marathon swims for the C. N. E. with women drifting around in the dark waters after 15 hours or more of struggling with the waves. That seems to be the definite decision of the exhibition authorities, now that they have had time to size up the merit reporting event of last Wednesday in its proper perspective.

"We certainly want no more 21 mile events," said John J. Dixon, President of the C. N. E. to the Star today. "There is a revulsion of popular feeling against such tests of endurance, and if we put on anything of the kind it would be a race and not a floating contest."

Prince Edward Island Day At C. N. E.

(Special to The Guardian)
TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6.—Today at the Canadian National Exhibition is International and Prince Edward Island day. Years ago this was known as Americans day, but the C. N. The little Island Province which still sticks to prohibition is the centre of attraction in the confederation line of the Canadian Provinces today and special emphasis is being put on her exhibits and indeed industries.

EXPERIMENT IN AIR MAIL DELIVERY

Seaplane to Take off Three Packages From Liner Em- press of France.

(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6.—Toronto's first mail delivery by the ocean and air route may take place this week. Today a great Vickers-Vanessa seaplane left Ottawa for Father Point to take off three packages of mail from the liner Empress of France, one for Montreal, one for Toronto and one for the west.

The flight is a test trip and the flying boat will alight on the water at Montreal. From Montreal the Toronto fast mail will go by train, the net gain being about 20 to 30 hours. If the tests prove the feasibility of the service, further trips will be made.

For the present the air section of the trip will be between Father Point and Montreal, but it may later be extended to Toronto direct, saving forty to fifty hours or more in urgent British mail for the Ontario capital. Other tests will shortly be made with mail for the remote regions of Canada where long delays have ensued through lack of rapid transit.

Hon. Peter Venoit, post master general, declined today to credit these routes. "We want to prove them feasible first, as otherwise we might cause great disappointment after announcing a service and finding it cannot be carried through."
