HOW TOILET POWDER IS MADE

The use of Talcum Powder for the toilet is of comparatively recent origin. In its crude state it is unfit for such purposes, but thanks to the ingenuity of a German chemist it was discovered that by purification and blending with antiseptics and perfumes that a superior toilet powder could be made. Since that discovery hundreds of brands of Talcum Powders have been marketed each possessed with more or less merit. It remained, however, for Violet Dulce Talcum Powder, manufactured by Harmony of Boston, to completely satisfy the public requirements of a perfect powder for all toilet uses.

The talcum which forms its basis is obtained from the Iberian mines in Sicily which are noted for their superior value; this is taken in a crude state and subjected to several washings, then powdered and passed

MRS. LEIGH CONVICTED SEVEN TIMES

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(By Wire)—Mrs. Mary Leigh, who has been seven times previously convicted and whom the police describe as the most troublesome Suffragette, was today sentenced to two months jail without the option of fine.

The magistrate warned Mrs. Leigh if she were again convicted she would be sent to jail for a term of hard labor.

Lady Constance Lutton and Lady Sybil Smith, both prominent in the Suffragette movement were charged with smashing windows during the demonstration on Tuesday last.

They were sentenced respectively to a fortnight and a week in jail.

LONDON, November 23.—A long line of window-wrecking suffragettes again filed in and out of the court room at the Bow street police court, to answer the charges connected with the disorders of Tuesday night. The accused almost without exception took sentences with indifference choosing jail in preference to the payment of fines.

Mrs. Kathleen Rothwell managed to deliver a brief speech in spite of the protests of the magistrate. She had broken a big plate glass window on the Strand.

"It is out of my great love for humanity and particularly my devotion to women and children that I did this," she said. "Sex disqualification is the root of all social evils, and I am prepared to do anything the militant branch of the suffragettes dictates in order to gain the vote for women."

Mrs. Rothwell was committed for trial at the sessions. She refused the offer to bail in the intervals, saying she preferred to remain in jail until the trial.

Mrs. Hethick Lawrence, the head and front of Tuesday's suffragette riots, was the central figure of today's trial, standing unconcerned in the prisoner's enclosure, she listened to the evidence in support of the charge of assaulting the police and obstructing them in performance of their duty.

When the magistrate sentenced her to a month's imprisonment without the option of a fine, she did not flinch.

According to the evidence Mrs. Lawrence at the head of 30 women, stormed the cordon of police, time and time again, she struck a policeman in the face twice and struggled for fifteen minutes when she was arrested and taken away. She declared to the court: "I am glad to state that as far as the police in my vicinity was concerned there was no repetition of Tuesday of the brutal usage of women; I am inclined to think that what happened on the former occasions was done on the instructions of the government." She added that such scenes were repugnant to women but that the only way to secure freedom for women by franchising more men will leaving women voteless.

GLADYS KLARK CO.

A Fatal Likeness was the play enacted by the excellent Gladys Klark Company at the Opera House last evening with Miss Klark in a dual role, in both of which she gave a good illustration of her capability as an actress and her power to thrill and please her auditory. The other members of the company evinced the same conscientious way which has been characteristic of their performances during the season.

The plot of this play is a rather unusual one and held the eager interest of all present from start to finish. O' God, the God of the spirits of the dead, if there be ways in which he may come, vouchsafe him to me as a guide and guard, and grant me a sense of his nearness, in such degrees as Thy laws permit.

If in aught I can minister to his peace, be pleased of Thy love to let this be; and mercifully keep me from every act which may deprive me of the sight of him as soon as our trial-time is over, or mar the fullness of our joy when the end of the days hath come.

Pardon, O gracious Lord and Father, whatsoever is amiss in this my prayer, and let Thy will be done; for my will is blind and erring, but Thine is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE TRAINED DOG MEANT BOY'S DEATH

BRIDGETOWN, November 22.—"For God's sake men, can't you save my boy," was the agonizing cry of Charles Hubley, as his seven year old son sank into the waters of the Annapolis River at twelve o'clock on Tuesday. Little Gordon Hubley with a brother and another comrade had been playing on the wharf (Rays) at Granville and the younger of the trio had nipped to the side, when striking the wharf, suddenly went over into the water. The alarm was given by the other boys. Richard Ray, living close by, was soon on the spot. The boat, usually at the wharf had gone adrift. His big mastiff dog was sent off to bring the boy ashore. A little care was raised for help out of the water, the dog circled around it three times, but would not touch it. He had been taught by his owner not to touch the children. Had there been some loose clothing around the boy, he would have seized it quickly and brought the boy ashore. Very soon the arm went out of sight and the dog came back. Neither of the three could swim and nothing could be done to throw to the lad. The body was found at low water only a few feet from where it went down. On being removed to the bank, the dog lay down beside it and would not allow any but the father and Mr. Ray to come near the dead boy. Dr. M. E. Armstrong, the coroner, was notified but the circumstances did not warrant an inquest.
