A very pleasant gathering of friends from the city and surrounding districts was held at the residence of Alexander McMillan Brackley Point Road on Monday night last in honor of Misses Younker and Pierce who were about to leave for the neighboring Republic. The time passed quickly in games and dancing till the company broke up in the wee small hours after singing Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem enthusiastic in their praise of the hostess and the good time spent.

A KENTVILLE despatch says: The arrival of the Bluenose from Halifax to-day brought nothing but trouble to a former secretary of the Kentville board of trade.

Whether his mission was one of business or idle curiosity, it is hard to say. One thing certain he was these and in common with others, was scanning the faces of the various passengers, as they alighted. All at once his face assumed an expression of extreme interest. It seemed as though he had found a long lost friend, and rushing up he greeted Judge Meagher, who cordially returned the salutation. But alas for the ex-secretary, his sweet smile vanished at the wrathful look of the judge, who became highly incensed at certain jocular remarks about boards of trade delegates and Sydney, and that sort of thing. One thing certain, our jockey ex-secretary will not again refer to that Sydney meeting, at least to Judge Meagher, as the judge distinctly and emphatically stated he did not want the ex-secretary to address him unless he spoke first.

It is encouraging thus to see young and old taking interest in the good cause.—Rev. James McDougall, "the young eloquent" preacher at the Kirk here two weeks ago, and is expected to preach there again this evening. His addresses are marked in a peculiar degree by earnestness and a flow of language seldom heard.—Weather remarkably fine.—No produce moving as yet. MARFAREW.

Our turn-outs haven't got that "livery stable-rig" stamp about them. This is very reasonable weather for driving—roads are excellent and the air bracing. Use telephone if you like—100.

WILTSHIRE ROAD NOTES.—September the glorious harvest home month with all its beauty is rapidly passing away.—Our school is progressing under the management of George McNeill of Milltoe, who proves himself to be a valuable and painstaking teacher.—Henry Easton has erected a fine and commodious granary which reflects great credit on the builder Mr. Neil of Elmwood.—Miss Alva Bowman has returned home from visiting friends in Central Royalty while there the guest of James Swan. Our new tailoring establishment at Hampshire is doing a rushing business.—George Keiff of Darlington, has purchased a beautiful brood sow.—A sad gloom was cast over this community a week ago while John Stewart was pitching grain to a stack at Barmston Youkers, South Calville, the horse started and Mr. Stewart been on the land falling a distance about six feet on his head when pitched up was unconscious. Owing to the fork he had in his hand it prevented the fall from being so great, otherwise we hope to hear of his recovery soon and see him out again as Mr. Stewart is highly esteemed by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The Root of the Matter

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble, by Getting Down to the First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied in the form of chronic stomach trouble; the failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked improvement.

"Friends had often advised me to try a well known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy but never took any stock in advertised medicines nor could believe a fifty-cent patent medicine would touch my case.

"To make a long story short I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort.

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement; in my appetite and general health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure me completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar and no one should suppose I had ever known the horrors of Dyspepsia.

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of this remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test), malt diastase and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this, digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourishment which can only come from food; stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, inevitable followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouble.
