PHINEAS FOGG'S TIME WAS HALVED

Englishman Travels Round The World In 40 Days And No Mishap—The Manner In Which He Made His Wonderful Time

LONDON, June 25.—Lt. Col. Burnley Campbell writes to the Times that he landed at Dover on June 13 after completing a circle of the world in forty days and nineteen and a half hours. If he had caught the St. Petersburg express at Berlin on June 12 he would have reduced the time by several hours. After asking whether this is a record for speed around the world he gives the following particulars of his trip:
He left Liverpool on May 3 at 7.30 p. m. by the Canadian Pacific Railroad steamer. As arrived at Quebec on May 10 at 3 p. m. and left by the Canadian Pacific Railroad's express transcontinental mail train at 7 p. m. He reached Vancouver on May 19 at 5 a. m. and left at 12.30 p. m. on the Canadian Pacific's mail steamer. He arrived at Yokohama on May 27 at 5 a. m. and departed on May 27 at 7 p. m. He reached Tsingtao on May 28 at 9.30 a. m. and left at 6 p. m. by a Japanese steamer which reached Vladivostok on May 31 at 2.15 p. m. He took a transiberian train at 7 p. m. and arrived at Harbin on May 31 at 7.20 p. m. He left at 8.10 p. m. and reached Irkutsk on June 4 at 6.30 p. m. He arrived at Moscow on June 10 at 2.38 p. m. and left at 6 p. m. He arrived at Warsaw on June 11 at 9.30 p. m. and left at 11.30 p. m. He reached Berlin on June 12 at 11.35 a. m. and departed five minutes later. He arrived at Cologne the same day at 9.08 p. m. and left at 11.15 p. m. He arrived at Ostend on June 13 at 7.30 a. m. arriving at Dover at 2.30 p. m. of the same day.
Lieut. Col. Campbell was singularly fortunate in making connections, but on May 30 the steamer on which he was travelling ran aground on an isolated rocky island during a dense fog in the Sea of Japan. The tide fortunately lifted the ship off and enabled him to make railroad connection at Vladivostok. If he had missed that train there would not have been another for four days.

BOY THOUGHT WAS IN HEAVEN

LIVERPOOL, June 25.—Six Onitsha boys from West Africa who recently visited the Colonial Exhibition at Liverpool have given amusing details of their impressions to Mr. Obeetham, a missionary, on their return.
One boy said that when he first saw the splendor of Liverpool he thought he was in Heaven, but when small children began to throw stones at him he realized that he was not.
Another said that the day after their arrival in Liverpool the weather was very cold, and that when he went out into the street, he was horrified to see smoke coming out of his mouth. He felt much ashamed, and tried not to breathe, expecting that if he did so all the white people would stare at him; but he was soon reassured when he noticed that "smoke" was coming out of their mouths also. It is always so warm home that he had never seen his "breath" before.
The lads were much surprised to see how hard-working Englishmen are. They were surprised not to see anyone idling in the mid-day siesta, which is the rule home, and they were even more surprised to find that the Britishers light up after sunset and still go on working.

$1,350,000 RAISED BY METHODISTS

LONDON, June 25.—Another remarkable scene in the centenary of the primitive Methodists, whose pilgrimage to Mow Cop was described some days ago, was witnessed at the session of the conference at Leicester. It was proposed to inaugurate a thanksgiving fund and after a solemn dedicatory service, W. P. Hartley, a prominent Methodist, rose and offered $45,000. This was received with enthusiastic acclamations, after which delegates offer delegate rose and promised generous contributions. At the close of the meeting it was announced that these offerings, with the pledges already made on behalf of churches, reached a total of $1,350,000.

EDITOR'S MAIL. USE THE AMBULANCE.

Sir,—I notice in the news column of a recent issue an account of the way our policemen handled an old man who was sick.
I take exception to the statement that he was handled as tenderly as possible. Who ever heard of a man being handled tenderly and hauled on a jigger to the police station? To my mind it is a cruel and brutal. If the police are not aware of the fact I wish somebody would kindly inform them that Charlottetown has an ambulance which in all the disposal of citizens for just such cases as this.
Rich or poor the patients will be handled tenderly in the proper use of the term. Any one who would convey a sick man on a "jigger" ought to be reprimanded not commiserated.

[SPECIAL BY CABLE.]
YOUNG'S COVE ROAD, June 26.—Sensational evidence was given at the inquest into the burning of the steamer Crystal Stream this morning by Mrs. Coleman who was cook on the burned steamer. She said there had been common talk that the Crystal Stream would not run through the summer.
One party was reported to have said he would have vengeance if it took ten years.
Captain Perry of the rival steamer Aberdeen, she thought, was the party that said this.
Mrs. Coleman further testified that she saw Captain Perry running across the wharf when she came on deck after discovering the fire on board the steamer. He was in his bare feet, she said. Mrs. Coleman had feared the steamer would be set on fire, had set up late and did not address when she lay down to sleep.

SAD DROWNING AT ST PETERS

Clifton Arnold Loses Life In Effort To Save His Sons

The harmony of Tuesday was marred at St. Peter's Bay by a regrettable drowning in St. Peter's Harbor when Clifton Arnold, a fisherman heroically lost his life in trying to save his two boys who were fishing outside the harbor bar. It has been a very fine morning, and the local fishermen had gone outside and were busy with their trawls when a breeze sprang up which made Mr. Arnold anxious lest his two boys would be able to get back across the bar and safe into harbor again.
He acted out in a dory to help the lads, but they had started for home and managed without mishap to pass the bar over which the waves were breaking with some force.
But the self-sacrificing father was not so fortunate. His dory was upset by the breakers and he was thrown out and drowned, the misfortune happening in the sight of some three score people who had assembled to witness the tea's coming in. Notwithstanding the regret with which they viewed the calamity and their anxiety to render a witness to be impossible for the spectators to avert the sad fate which befell poor Arnold.
The drowned man came to St. Peter's from Nova Scotia about six years ago. He was about fifty years old and leaves three sons to mourn.
He was unfortunely off and his sudden taking away is deeply lamented.
The body was found yesterday on the shore of the harbor within the tide and had drifted in.
In view of the facts of the case the coroner, Dr. McLaughlin thought it wise to try to hold an inquest.

FAMOUS HOCKEY PLAYER WHOSE NAME BECAME WELL KNOWN LAST WINTER

Belleville, Ont., June 21.—"Hod" Stewart, the famous hockey player, was accidentally killed here yesterday afternoon. His father, Mr. William Stewart, of Ottawa, has the contract for the erection of the drill shed in this city, which is now being built, and "Hod" was here acting as overseer for his father.
The weather has been extremely hot here lately, and yesterday afternoon "Hod" with two companions, named Reynolds and Maiden, went down to the Grand Junction dock, which runs out into the bay of Quinte. "Hod" had his swimming trunks and set out for a swim to the right house, about a quarter of a mile away, while his companions waited for him. He reached the platform when, surrounded by the water, which is about five feet from the water. He rested a minute or two and was then seen to dive into the water, evidently to return. The watchers waited for him to come up in vain after a few minutes they became alarmed and ran for a boat and rowed to the lighthouse, where the body of poor "Hod" was found on the bottom in two feet of water.
He had dived head first on to a lot of lured rocks, there was a terrible gash in his head, and his neck was broken.

SUPREME COURT TRINITY TERM

The Chief Justice in his charge to the Grand Jury referred to the proposed removal of the jail outside the city, and commended the Government in having made this important change.
The Grand Jury reported that they had visited the Hospital for the Insane, the Poor House and the Jail.
At the Hospital for the Insane they found the building clean and well kept and the patients seemed comfortable and the patients seemed as comfortable as the place would permit.
The Grand Jury found a true bill against Robert McLeod of Iris, on a charge of unlawfully and carnally knowing a deaf and dumb girl named Mary Ann Nicholson. He will be tried on July 3rd; Attorney General for the Crown, A. A. McLean, K. C. for the defence.
The following cases have been disposed of:
An application was made by D. McKinnon on behalf of Joseph Assat from an Assiat for naturalization.
International Harvester Co. vs. Stephen Drain. Judgment for plaintiff $55.
Johnston for plaintiff; Morson, C. C. for defendant.
International Harvester Co. vs. Murdoch D. McLeod and another. Judgment for plaintiff for $61. Johnston for plaintiff; J. D. Stewart for defendant.
Eustach Donovan vs. Michael D. Donovan. This was an action on covenant contained in a deed. At the close of the plaintiff's case the defendant's counsel argued for a non-suit, and after argument by the counsel on both sides the Chief Justice held that the points taken by the defendant's counsel were well taken, and the plaintiff was formally called and non-suited. Morson, K. C. and Duffy, for the plaintiff; Johnston for the defendant.
Edward J. Duffy vs. Bernard Creamer. Action on an account. This case is now before the Court and will be resumed this morning when the Court opens.

ARMIES AND NAVIES OF THE GREAT POWERS—AND MANY OTHER STATISTICS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO READERS

Germany leads the world in military strength, with an army on a war-footing of 1,840,000 men. Russia follows with 1,800,000, and France is third with 1,300,000 troops. Here the statisticians stop counting in millions. Austria-Hungary can put into the field a total of 760,000 men, Italy of 630,000, and Japan of 600,000. Great Britain has but 110,000 troops, which will be raised to 160,000 under the government's military reorganization scheme of Feb. 25, 1906, of which it is given. These seven countries spend annually upon their military establishments, $762,500,000. France's per capita tax being by far the highest, $150,000,000 for a population of 39,000,000. Germany's expenditure is 10,000,000 more, but it is borne by a much larger population, 62,000,000. Russia leads the world in the annual cost of maintenance of its military strength, $195,000,000.

STATEMAN'S YEAR BOOK GIVES FACTS

The comparative tables of the strength of navies are based upon a point system of fighting efficiency, all ships being reduced to a common denomination, with the Dreadnaught as unit. In this class (1000 tons) the United States is represented by the Louisiana among the battleships, but as yet possesses no cruiser to match the British Inflexible. In the 1000 ton class (60) the United States has the Maine among the battleships and the Washington among the cruisers. The Alabama figures in the fourth class (45), and the Kearsarge and the California in the fifth (35).

WOMEN WILL NOT RIDE ASTRIDE

LONDON, June 25.—The attempt to make popular the riding astride of women on horseback, if judged from the horsewomen in the park and other resorts of London, must be regarded as having failed.
The master of a fashionable riding school in the West End says it certainly is not growing in favor at present. Ladies find that it brings into use muscles usually undeveloped in women and that it is very rough on their knees.
