

SPICES LIKE MOTHERS

Nearly everybody has a longing for the good things grand-mother used to make. Pickles even when made by grand-mother's receipt, seem to lack something. This lack is in the spices used. Realizing the needs of the housewife and cook, we have made a specialty of pure, fresh pickling spices. We know what spice should be and we have a mixed spice which we should like you to try. Use them and you'll know the secret of grand-mother's good pickles. 1/4c a quarter pound.

PROHIBITION IN MAINE.

The decreased Republican majority in the recent elections in Maine is being turned to account by the anti-prohibition press as an indication that the Pine Tree state is disposed to recede from prohibition of the liquor traffic. There is no sufficient evidence to warrant this conclusion. Broadly stated the Republican platform included the energetic enforcement of the existing stringent law, while the Democratic platform asked for a resubmission of the law to the people. This, no doubt would tend to throw the liquor interest, and those who favor the license system rather than prohibition, into the Democratic camp. And the Democratic party is of itself a strong party in almost every state of the union—even in Maine, where it has been usually in the minority for many years. The party strength in Maine is large outside of the anti-prohibitionist element. It gained accessions, and the Republicans lost some ground, but still were able to command a majority in the vote for the Governorship and other principal offices for which the election was held.

The Democratic attitude was artfully chosen. It is now over fifty years since the adoption of prohibition as the settled policy of the state in regard to the liquor traffic. Very few of the voters of 1851 are now living. An entirely new generation is now invested with the voting franchise. It was therefore a plausible theory that the people of today should be consulted by again submitting the principle of prohibition to a vote of the people. This was a proposition which nearly all the prohibitionists of Democratic leanings would support and it appealed with force to many temperance men in the Republican ranks. To those men resubmission meant something altogether different from repeal. We are convinced that if prohibition were now submitted to the popular vote in Maine it would be reaffirmed, by a large majority and that many who have now given their votes for re-submission would swell the majority. None the less we doubt not that the artful plank of re-submission was a device of the enemy, and it proved to be an astute one. But the prohibitory law has yet to be reckoned with in Maine for an indefinite period in the future.

The Toronto News in speaking of Prince Edward Island recently spoke of its "lonely shores." It now appears that what our appreciative visitor really wrote was "lovely shores." That sounds much better.

IN MEDICINE HAT.

A few short years ago and Medicine Hat was not entered upon the map of Canada. Now it is a station on the great C.P.R. and many travellers across our broad continent, or around the world it may be, pass through it daily and read its name on the station sign board. It has some 3,000 people, including lawyers, preachers and doctors. What is most noteworthy about it just now is that three of the doctors of the medicine town have done a remarkable thing. Two of them are named Smith and the third named Goodman. Let it stand to the credit of all the Smiths and Goodmans of the future—if the experiment succeeds. For, be it known, they cut out a section of the spinal cord of a wounded and paralyzed engineer, and spliced into its place an inch or more of the warm and tremulous spinal marrow of a dog. The dog was put out of business, and the man at latest accounts still lives. There may be danger that the patient will feel disposed hereafter to bark and chase cats in the moonlight,—for a scion does not lose its innate quality by being thus engrafted and the inch of marrow is all of the dog that is now alive. But barring this difficulty, if the man shall live and be able to perform the ordinary functions of a man and an engineer, with an inch of dog meat encased in his spinal vertebra, the place where this wonder was wrought will deserve to be "writ large" on the map of Gopher Land and Medicine may hereafter wear a new feather in its Hat.

Why Forty-Five Women Died.

During the month of March forty-five women were reported to have died in the United States as the direct result of using "headache powders." The poisonous and powerful ingredients caused paralysis of the heart and nerves, and death followed. It is not difficult to understand that any drugs which have such hypnotic effects as to immediately stop pain are deadly in their action on the nervous system. In order to thoroughly cure headaches the nerves must be revitalized and built up, and there is no way this can so well be accomplished as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorative. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does not stop the headache, but cures it by removing the cause. It is not recommended as a relief for headache, but as a thorough and positive cure. Headache, sleeplessness, irritability, lack of energy and power to concentrate the mind, and all the symptoms of exhausted nerves disappear when this great food cure is used. Fifty cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Our Exhibition is coming with rapid strides and it's to be the biggest ever. It will be the real thing. Those who come from St. John will take note that there will be more than two or three baskets of potatoes, turnips and carrots in the roof and vegetable display.

Canada's revenue is bigger than ever and the expenditure ditto. Mr. Tarte was right when he said, "Wait till you see us next year." The money comes and goes in big wads. It's a good deal like the laborer receiving his pay and paying it out again. "I just get two looks at it, one when I get it and the other when I hand it over to the old woman."

It is announced that the Trans-Siberian Railway has resumed passenger traffic. This is a long period since the end of the war, but the trouble in war does not end with the last battle or even the signing of a peace treaty. Twice a week through express trains leave Vladivostok for Moscow and vice versa. The trip covers eleven days and the first class fare is $138; second class $90. This includes sleeping berths.

We have in Charlottetown the priceless boon of pure water. We are reminded of this when we read in an exchange that Washington, D. C. has just put in a filtering plant which cost $1,468,405 and which costs $164,250 yearly or $170 daily to operate. And this because the bad water caused frequent epidemics of typhoid fever and a high death rate. Washington has provided filtering beds covering 45 acres of ground, but the filtered water is, after all, far from being pure and wholesome as ours is.

The situation in Cuba is rather alarming at this writing, the revolution being apparently more serious than had been supposed, and Havana threatened by a large body of insurgents. The landing of United States marines and their sudden withdrawal complicates matters, but it would seem that in the end the Washington Government may be warranted in intervening with armed forces. The Republic of Cuba is in some sort an American protectorate and the continuance of stable government and social order there cannot be a matter of indifference to the United States, which at great cost set the island free from Spain.

SEPTEMBER.

While summer days grew brown and old,
A wizard delved in mines of gold;
No idler he—by night, by day,
He smiled and sang and worked away.
And, scooping thrift, with javish hand
He cast his gold across the land.
Still smiling, o'er the trees he wound
Long russet scarfs with crimson bound;
He drew a veil of purple haze
O'er distant hills where cattle graze;
He bared the sun in amber mist,
And stepped the sky in amethyst.
Low in the east, for crowning boon,
He hung the golden harvest moon;
And donned his coat of frosty white
As twilight deepened into night.
Then to the roll call of the year
September answered, "I am here!"

Splendid Sale of the New Floor Coverings, Best of Fall, 1906 Designs.

This is an event we have had in preparation for some time. As our regular prices for every day carpetings are lower than other houses offer, special prices for such a splendid new line of Floor Coverings as we present in this event are certainly extraordinary. It is an unusually interesting exhibition because we show the newest and best of the products of the country's mills for 1906. It is an extraordinary sale because we sell the most serviceable, durable and every way reliable Carpets, Rugs, Linoleum, etc., at very much below our regularly low price.

JAMES PATON & CO.

WE never have permitted and never will permit anyone to undersell us or successfully to dispute our supremacy in any branch of our business.

CLEANLINESS IN BEDDING

Some people pay every attention to having their house and clothing, etc., absolutely clean and perfect, and at the same time do robe at night, and be satisfied to undertake to get the rest they are entitled to by lying on a mattress that is unclean and unsanitary, made of old clothes (known as flock) and other undesirable materials.

The MATTRESSS we sell are absolutely clean and sanitary, and are guaranteed to be germ and vermin proof.

Ask to see the Mattresses we sell at $3.00, $4.00 or $5.00.

We are Sole Selling Agents in Charlottetown.
