

IMPORTANT READING MATTER SELECTED FROM THIS WEEK'S NEWS FOR THE GUARDIAN'S SATURDAY SUBSCRIBERS

Special to The Guardian. TOKIO, July 26—More than a hundred persons lost their lives today in a typhoon which swept over Tokio and Yokohama during the night. Forty bodies were recovered this morning in Suzadadi territory. The property loss will be large. Many fishing vessels and small coastwise craft are missing.

Special to The Guardian. EDINBURGH, July 24—Vedrine, the French aviator in a Morane-Borel monoplane maintained the lead in a circuit of the Great Britain aviation race. Beaumont followed Vedrine closely. Weymann was held up at Hendon awaiting the arrival of a new propeller.

Special to The Guardian. CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24—A continuation which started yesterday continued until 3 o'clock this morning by which time the flames were under control practically because there was no further fuel in their path. The disaster was the greatest since the fire in the European quarter in 1870.

It is believed that the present fire was the work of political incendiaries. Two square miles of the city was devastated and 5,000 houses destroyed.

HALIFAX, July 25—The water in the Fort Hood coal mine has risen to within a few feet of tide level, if indeed that mark has not been fully reached. This gives a perpendicular depth of nine hundred and forty feet. The water enters the mine in lessened quantity because of the pressure from the greater head in the pit, but the opinion of mining men is that the breach through which it comes has become greater and not less. An official of the mines department expects to go down to the colliery in a few days to look over the situation.

The inflow of water to the mines at Mahon has ceased. This is shown by the fact that the water remains stationary in the pit and does not rise and fall with the tide. In some way the opening has been filled. The mine could be pumped out, but it is a question whether the material which now closes the breach would be strong enough to stand the pressure after the pit were emptied. It is not likely that the mine will be pumped out. The chances are, rather, that when anything is done it will be to open a new shaft, the opinion of mining men being that the one now filled with water is not in the proper place. The Mahon coal seams are all right. There is ample room for the sinking of a new shaft farther east, where there would be no danger of flooding. But all this is a matter of the future. In the meantime the inflow seems to have ceased.

MIDDLE MUSQUODOBOIT, July 26—Those who heard tonight that William M. Sedgwick was dead, were inexpressibly shocked. He had been about during the day as usual and seemed to be in his customary health. Some of the people heard the sad news this evening, but those who did were not only shocked, but were filled with sorrow and genuine regret. Mr. Sedgwick had gone upstairs to retire for the night. Several members of the family who had remained below heard the sound of something falling. Going up to find the cause of the sound, they entered Mr. Sedgwick's room and found that he had fallen on the floor from the bed and that life was extinct.

No man was better known in Halifax county, east or west, than Mr. Sedgwick. He was one of the liberal-conservative candidates in the provincial elections of 1896 and for several years he had been a census inspector for the municipality of Halifax. An elder in the Presbyterian church for a long time and an ardent supporter of that denomination, he was thoroughly well informed in church matters. In all public affairs he took a deep and intelligent interest and his influence was always found on the side of progress and the best interests of the country. His father was the famous Rev. Dr. Sedgwick, so long the minister in Middle Musquodoboit, and the famous "old man eloquent."

J. A. Sedgwick, barrister is a brother, and the late Mr. Justice Sedgwick, of the supreme court of Canada was a brother. One of Mr. Sedgwick's sons is Rev. W. H. Sedgwick, of Toronto, who, at the present time is in River John. Another son is George S. Sedgwick, also of Toronto, a member of the law firm of Beattie, Blackstock and company. Two other sons are John and Robert. The time of the funeral has not yet been decided, because time is required to hear from relatives at a distance. There will be general sympathy throughout the province with the bereaved family.

Special to The Guardian. NIAGARA FALLS, July 26—Damage caused in the fruit belt of Niagara by yesterday's high wind. Fruit and vegetables were the chief sufferers. Five to ten percent of the peach crop was thrashed from the branches and ten to twenty percent of the pear crop is now on the ground. Fruit growers along the Niagara River declare the loss to be fully one third of the crop of early apples and from ten to eighteen percent of the fall and winter varieties.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 25—Edward D. Crans, and his wife, a middle-aged couple, well known and respected in this place, where they had lived several years, were found dead in their home Sunday. They had carried out an agreement to commit suicide. After making all the arrangements for the funeral they drank carbolic acid together. Mrs. Crans was dressed in her wedding clothes, which she had saved more than twenty years.

Man and wife were locked in each other's embrace. It is the coroner's opinion that the double suicide took place at least five days ago. A letter was left complaining that poverty had driven them to self-destruction, and bitterly assailing certain people who failed to render them assistance. Neighbors say that they had no idea that the couple was in needy circumstances and it seems that the Crans pride was too great for them to let their real condition be known. Mr. and Mrs. Crans lost two children by diphtheria several years ago, and it has been said that this misfortune unnerved them. Mr. Crans himself suffered a severe attack of typhoid fever several years ago, which worked injury to his mind. It appears from the letter that the couple had intended to commit suicide last March. It is believed that the pact was postponed in hope that something might occur to make the conditions of their life better.

Special to The Guardian. LONDON, July 26—That Germany will get compensation in South Africa as the result of her descent upon Agadir and in return for the free hand which France is seeking in Morocco, is conceded here, but it is also clear that Great Britain is not going to permit the establishment of a German naval base of the west coast of Africa if she can prevent it. To allow a possibly hostile power to establish itself on the flank of her own of trade communications would be vital menace to the country.

Lord Strathcona has promised $25,000 to Calgary Universities. BERLIN, July 26—The decision of the British Commons on the ratification of the declaration of London regarding the question why the ministry has decided to abandon the old standpoint of might and to adopt the standpoint of right.

"England, as the greatest maritime power, has hitherto had special privileges," has hitherto been a special privilege. "When naval wars were fought under the traditional law it was England's great object to suppress neutral trade in favor of her own, where she reaped great profit and advantage." England has consented to adopt the new standpoint because she fears that since other navies have arisen which compel the respect of the English, she would herself suffer too grievously from the consequence of an inadequate naval war law.

CINCINNATI, July 22—Miss Helma Stallo, who, with her sister Lorraine, is joint heiress to the fortune of Alexander McDonald, the late multi-millionaire Standard Oil magnate has capitulated to Cupid. She has confirmed reports of her engagement to Nils Florman, son of a former admiral in the Swedish navy, member of a wealthy Stockholm family and friend of King Gustaf V. "Formal announcement will be made in a few days by my father," said Miss Stallo. With her sister she is now at her palatial home. "Dalvay" in Giffon. As guest of the girl's father Edmund K. Stallo, Mr. Florman is also at "Dalvay." He recently rushed to the side of his fiancée on receiving news of the severe injury received by her in an automobile collision.

Miss Stallo when asked how long she had known Mr. Florman, said she met him in Paris last Christmas. She has spent the greater part of her time abroad since the death of her mother. Miss Stallo admitted that it practically was love at first sight, and their engagement occurred but a short time afterward. Mr. Florman no longer lives in Stockholm, but is engaged in business in New York. He is wealthy in his own right.

Since the sale of "Dalvay," noted as the finest homestead in Ohio, the famous young Stallo sisters have been busy packing their household treasures preparatory to giving up possession of the house that has been their home for so many years. The bulk of the estate of Mr. McDonald, the girl's grandfather, was left to the young women. It is worth in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. By an amicable arrangement the Misses Stallo decided to divide the personal property without the intervention of a third person. To carry out this agreement the sisters have spent the last ten days in itemizing the treasures and deciding what each shall have.

The art treasures and paintings at Dalvay have been famed through out the country, and the collection is estimated to be worth $150,000. Dalvay was furnished by English decorators and artists, and no expense was spared by the owner to make it a veritable dream palace. One room was copied after Fontainebleau and the ante-room was patterned after the salons of Marie Antoinette at Versailles. The state bedroom said to have been the most beautiful in the country, was equipped, as were most of the other rooms, with articles from celebrated chateaux in France.

Baby Nearly Died with Itching Rash

Mrs. M. C. Maitland, of Jasper, Ont., tells in the following letter of her child's remarkable cure by the Cuticura Remedies: "When my boy was about three months old he had a rash which was very itchy and a watery fluid. We tried everything we could but he got worse all the time, till it spread to his face, neck, and then to his entire body. He got so bad that he came near dying. This rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to prevent him tearing his skin. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws. "We were about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not had him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long while. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that he was left better. I took one box of Cuticura Ointment and pretty near one case of Cuticura Soap to cure him. I think our boy would have died had he not been cured. He is now a healthy, chubby baby and he still remains a firm friend of the Cuticura Remedies. He has been over twenty years ago and has had no return of the trouble." (Signed) Mrs. M. C. Maitland.

No more convincing proof of the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies could be given. As in this instance, a single case of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient to cure. Cuticura Soap is sold by Dr. J. C. Allen, U. S. A. Send for free Cuticura Book on skin and scalp diseases.

SOURIS, July 24—The sudden death of Capt. Thomas Walsh of Souris while sitting in an easy chair in front of his residence this morning came as a shock to the entire community. His condition was first noticed by his little grand-daughter Cora Walsh who notified the household. Drs. Sullivan, McDonald and McLean were immediately summoned and hastened to the scene but were too late to render aid. Death was due to heart failure. Deceased was seventy-four years of age and was born at West River, near Charlottetown. While a young man he went to the United States where he served for a number of years in the navy under Admiral Sarriagnut and was in his flagship at the taking of New Orleans. On his return to this Province he started a fishing establishment at Rustico and later removed to Souris where for a number of years he followed the occupation of sail making. He was a good citizen, highly respected and had no enemies. He leaves to mourn three daughters Mary and Cora at home and Annie Mrs. H. A. Fowler of Souris and a host of friends who deeply mourn the loss of the departed.

(Special by Telephone) GEORGETOWN, July 25—The trial of Wm. N. Molyneux in the Supreme Court at Georgetown was concluded today. In the morning the cross examination of Dr. Mathieson was concluded and the testimony of Mrs. Wm. Molyneux mother of the prisoner and Elsie Molyneux, prisoner's daughter was taken on behalf of the defence.

Mr. Mathieson's closing address to the jury was an extended one occupying two and a half hours in its delivery.

Mr. Johnson followed for the crown for about one hour. After the judge's charge the jury retired at 5.15 p.m. At 7.30 the jury returned and reported a disagreement whereupon the court asked for further consideration of the case to report tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

The Judge remarked when the jury returned that if they considered the circumstances so warranted they could bring in a verdict of manslaughter if it appeared that the act was committed under provocation and while in a passion. After the return of the jury in the Molyneux trial the case of the King vs Charles McDonald of Souris indicated for interfering with the police officer in the discharge of his duties and attempted prison breach was disposed of.

In this case James D. Stewart representing the prisoner announced that it was the prisoner's intention to withdraw the plea of not guilty, which was entered upon arraignment, and to substitute therefore a plea of guilty. Upon motion of Mr. Johnson, counsel for the Crown, the court imposed a sentence of three months in prison in King's County Jail for each offence. Both terms to run concurrently.

It is expected this morning the Webster Shooting case will be taken up. Special by Telephone GEORGETOWN, July 26—In the Molyneux case the jury came down at 10.20 a.m. and reported that they still disagreed. They were accordingly again sent back by the court for further consideration of the case and at 12.10 returned bringing down a verdict of guilty of manslaughter with a strong recommendation to mercy. Mr. Mathieson on behalf of the prisoner announced his intention of applying for a reserved case. The case of Caroline Webster vs Alphus W. Leard and others occupied the attention of the court all day.

This is an action brought by the plaintiff against the defendant for damages alleged to have been sustained on Aug. 31 last by reason of the plaintiff's being wounded by a bullet from a rifle used at the range of the Civilian Rifle Association, while the plaintiff was sailing in a motor boat while in the waters of Summerside Harbor.

Neil McQuarrie K. C. and J. J. Johnson K. C. for plaintiff, and John H. Bell K. C., A. C. Saunders and D. C. McLeod for defendants. The amount of damages charged is $1500. The following jury was empanelled: Wm. McKinnon, foreman; Arch. A. Nicholson, Geo. Moore, Hugh Campbell, Jos. Mitchell, Angus Stewart, John D. McKinnon. The witnesses examined today on behalf of plaintiff were Caroline Webster, plaintiff; John Mollison, and Surveyor, Capt. Fred Peters, Drs. J. S. McNeill, Alex. McNeill and A. A. McLellan and John A. McKay. Court adjourned at 6 o'clock until 10 o'clock this morning.

LONDON, July 24—King George has intervened in an attempt to start the warring factions to a peaceful goal. He is anxious to avert swamping the historic House of Peers with a battalion of new creations and if his personal influence can effect it he will arrange plan for overcoming the present deadlock.

The witnesses gave an audience to Premier Asquith, Balfour, and Lord Lansdowne. It is understood that His Majesty would see other leaders later. Meanwhile the political situation is so out of gear that the king's proposal has intended departure for Goodwood, where he was going this afternoon to visit the Duke of Richmond and attend the four days race meeting.

HOW TO CURE CATARRH

An Experienced Physician Says the Following Symptoms Are Sure Signs:

- You can always tell catarrh by the following well known signs: Eyes red and watery? Difficulty in breathing? Are the nostrils stuffy? Do you sneeze frequently? Is your throat hoarse? The remedy is "Catarrhazone," a direct breathable cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that's tainted by catarrhal germs. Pritchard, J. S. Allen, Pascal Gallant for defence. Court adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

It is expected that this case, which is the last on the docket will be concluded today.

Special to The Guardian. PARIS, July 24—Paris is sweltering in the worst heat wave in the last half century, which is made more severe by the drought, not a drop of rain having fallen for a month past. Indications point to a continuance of heat for several days at least, and to add to the suffering of the people there has been a partial breakdown in the water system. Many deaths have occurred, due to heat yesterday, the daily average being six deaths, Saturday when eleven were reported.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24—Private William J. Clifford, the first Canadian born man, who has won the King's prize, and the first man who ever won both the King's prize and the Prince of Wales' prize, the two plums of the Bisley meet, lives with his young wife in Toronto. This was his second visit to Bisley and on both occasions it was somewhat of an effort to tear himself away to go. Last year he left a bride of three weeks, and this year it was a baby son, four weeks old, that he had to leave.

Clifford is 33 years old, and has been indicted to the rifle as a shooting pastime ever since he was old enough to hold an air gun. He was born in Brampton and went to school in Richmond Hill. He came to Toronto seven years ago, and joined the Grenadiers soon afterwards. He has steadily improved in shooting and possesses a host of trophies won in O. R. A. and D. R. A. matches.

Private Clifford is somewhat of a mechanical genius. He is the inventor of a gun sight which he has patented and is now urging the government to adopt. Mr. Clifford's wife received a cablegram from him announcing his success, almost as soon as the press cables his congratulations, and chairman of the active ministry, but he has by no means been idle since he resigned. He and the mayor agreed immediately that he should have a civic reception when he returns.

LONDON, July 22—Sir W. M. Aitken made a successful maiden speech in the house of commons this afternoon. The debate arose upon Sir Gilbert Parker's resolution to reduce the colonial secretary's salary because of his action in excluding the consideration of desirable changes in the British fiscal system from the purview of the imperial royal commission on the trade relations of the empire.

Sir William Aitken charged the Rt. Hon. Louis Harcourt with turning the imperial conference to British party uses. Mr. Harcourt, he said, knew that all the overseas dominions, and more than half of the English people, favored imperial preference, and yet he hamstrung the royal commission by ruling out this vital question. He also criticised the action of Mr. Harcourt and the ministry in excluding the West Indies and the crown colonies generally from the consideration of the commission, and warned the house of the dangerous consequences of British inaction. President Taft, declared Sir William, had begun with his campaign against the British empire by reciprocity with Canada. He would next hit British trade by reciprocity with Newfoundland and lastly sweep the West Indies into the American net.

ELMSDALE, July 23—Dr. Alexander Falconer, D. D., passed away suddenly at 3 o'clock this morning. Dr. Falconer had been complaining yesterday of what his friends thought was indigestion. He had pains in the chest and arms, but there was no real alarm felt regarding his condition. He ate a fairly hearty dinner, and retired early Saturday night, asking that his tea be sent up. During the night he was restless and his daughter, who was with him, made several visits to her father's room to assure herself of his condition. About three o'clock she went into the room and addressed her father but there was no response. Then she went for Miss MacDonald, at whose house they were staying, and both entered the room. Miss MacDonald at once saw that Dr. Falconer was dying. A physician was immediately sent for, but before he arrived the venerable minister had gone to his reward. The physician is of the opinion that death was caused by degeneration of the structure of the heart, perhaps aggravated by what may have been indigestion. Dr. Falconer had preached in Middle Musquodoboit last Sunday. He took part in the prayer meeting in Elmsdale on Wednesday evening, and he was to have preached in the church here tonight. He was about the village all the week and seemed to be in his usual health. He was the father of a daughter, who had gone to call a physician before he retired, but Dr. Falconer would not hear of this. Born in Pictou county between seventy-three and seventy-four years ago, Alexander Falconer early decided to enter the church. He completed his studies here and became minister of Zion church, Charlottetown. Then he went to Dartmouth, afterwards he was called to Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, and returning to his own province, became minister of Prince street church, Pictou. He was a man of scholarly attainments, a good student, a forceful and acceptable preacher. Wherever he went he made his influence felt for good in the community. Some two years ago he retired from the active ministry, but he has by no means been idle since he resigned from Prince street church, his voice being often heard in the pulpits of his denomination. He was to have preached next Sunday in Port Massey Church, Halifax.

His son, Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of Toronto University, was absent from that city yesterday. Professor J. W. Falconer, of Pine Hill college, another son, is in Winnipeg, and his daughter, Miss Jean, was with him in Elmsdale. The remains will be forwarded tomorrow morning by the first train to Pictou, where the funeral will take place later in the week. The cause of this delay is to permit of his sons reaching Pictou for the funeral. Mrs. Falconer was in Pictou on Saturday, but came to Elmsdale today and Dr. J. W. Falconer came up from Halifax. Rev. G. S. Carson also came from the city today. In Dr. Falconer's death the Presbyterian church loses one of its best known and most scholarly and most valued ministers. He had been elected to the highest office in the gift of the church, serving as moderator at the general assembly meeting in London.

RICHMOND, July 23—Henry Beattie, whose wife was shot while she was out for an automobile ride with him on Tuesday night, was placed under arrest yesterday charged with murder.

Beniah Dinford, aged seventeen, testified at the inquest that Beattie was the father of her child and that Mrs Beattie had discovered this.
