but could cause the large wound.

Lt. Hon. aked the prisoners if they had any questions. They replied in the negative.

Dr. H. H. Pierce, Charlottetown, physician and surgeon, testified that he had been associated with Dr.
MacGuigan in performing the autopsy.

He corroborated the evidence given by the previous witness.
In his opinion the knife was not large enough to cause the larger wound. Considerable force being used, could cause the wound. It was a clean cut.

Witness did not think any of the wounds except the larger one would cause immediate death.

There were no wounds which appeared to have been caused by a swing movement, he said.

John E. Sterns
John E. Sterns, Charlottetown, lawyer, testified that he was at the police station when the call came in for help.

He told of going to the corner of Elgin and Pownall streets. Mr. Ivan Reddin accompanied him and they arrived about the same time as the police patrol.

Witness told of entering the store along with the police. He saw Constable Lund open the sliding door, and flash his light around, then go into a side door to the other part of the house.

Witness was standing in the store and saw Mr. Reddin open the sliding door and go into the storeroom. He went in with Mr. Reddin and saw the body of Peter J. Trainer. It was lying on the floor behind some boxes with the feet protruding.

He then went into the other part of the house, and saw Constable Gregory at the bottom of the stairs.

Witness heard a voice saying:
"Come on up." He saw Gregory tumbling downstairs in a dazed condition.

Witness told of seeing Constable Poole taking a man in from outside. It was Earl Lund, witness said, and identified him in the courtroom.

Saw Police Go Upstairs

He told of Constables Lund and Webster going upstairs, and two heavy missiles coming down at them.
Later two policemen and Phillips came down, witness continued. He identified him in the courtroom. He told of seeing the two men being taken out of the shop and away.

He told of Constable J. C. Cameron taking pictures. Witness said he picked a cloth cap off the floor as he was coming from the storeroom. He identified this cap when it was produced.

On the dining-room table were a number of papers, including Income Tax returns, he said.

William Ryan, Charlottetown, testified that he did business at Peter J. Trainer's grocery store and had been at the shop about five or seven minutes to ten o'clock on the night of Jan. 30.

He told of having to stamp his feet to let Mr. Trainer who was in the house, know that he was there.
The bell above the door was not working.

Made Purchase
