Nations if the Versailles Treaty were separated from it.

Herr Rosenberg made the statement in connection with comments on the resolution passed by the Fascist Grand Council in Rome urging a drastic revision of the League's structure.

Writing in Volkischer Beobachter, he said "If the Italian attack should demand separation of the discriminating treaty from the League, at once conditions would be created again making possible international meetings."

Rosenberg found other nations in sympathy with the Italian attitude toward the League. "It is now up to the League to meet the demands of our times or sink into empty nothingness," he wrote. "The shaky structure has received a new blow from which it will never recover in its old form."

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 6 —(A.P.)—A movement to investigate requests of the League of Nations, Spain and Portugal for official observers at the Pan-American Conference was opened today by Cordell Hull, head of the United States delegation. The American secretary of state moved in the steering committee to create a committee on policy to "re-examine purposes" of the calls for observers. A vote on his motion is scheduled tomorrow.

The United States, it was learned, feels admission of non-American observers should be considered in relation to structural integrity and original objectives and might prove an entering wedge of disintegration into pan-Americanism.

Lauds Council Action

The Italian press today lauded the Council's action, hailing its ability "to view international forces with Mussolinian clarity and attention to realities."

(An Associated Press dispatch from London said it was learned that Great Britain held questions of disarmament should supercede consideration of League reformation.)

Under the proposed reform of Geneva, a "League within the League" might be formed of the United States, Russia, Germany, Japan and possibly Poland and Spain or one or two others.

This form, supporters believe, would make membership more attractive to the powers without.

SAYS SLANG IS NO SIGN OF DECADENCE

LOS ANGELES, Dec 6—Slang is no sign of decadence, a university professor told the Pacific Coast Philological Association and it's nothing new with the modern generation.

Residents of London at the end of last century, Prof. F. C. Baxter of the University of California said were so affected in their speech they called the Alexandria Palace the "Ally Pally."

AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS

A new feature of Scientific Agriculture (la Revue agronomique Canadienne) the official organ of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists is the inclusion of the Economic Annalist as a quarterly feature. The Economic Annalist, a review of agricultural business prepared by the Economics Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, was forced to discontinue monthly publication owing to curtailment of funds available for its maintenance. The material used in Scientific Agriculture will also appear separately as The Economic Annalist and will be sent to persons, other than subscribers to Scientific Agriculture, who have requested it.

across the South Atlantic.

The flyers said they were too tired to partake of the festivities which the Brazilians had planned for them. Instead they went in an automobile directly from the docks to the home of the British Consul, A. D. Scotchbrook, who was one of the first to greet them when their plane was put at anchor.

Will Examine Plane

Lindbergh told the Associated Press he would inspect his plane tomorrow and decide then on a date of departure from Natal. Replying to questions about the flight he said:

"We had the most favorable flying conditions. There was no trouble with the plane. Our average speed was 100 to 120 miles an hour. The only ship we met during our flight was the Cuparcona. We exchanged messages with her."

When welcoming delegations reached the anchored monoplane, Lindbergh's words, as usual, were few.

"It was a fine trip," he said, "with fine flying conditions. We encountered occasional strong south winds."

Japan Anxious To Promote Peace In Far East

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 6—Prospects that there might be open warfare between Japan and Russia were strongly discounted here by His Excellency Iyemasa Tokugawa, Japanese Minister Plenipotentiary to Canada, who passed over Canadian National lines enroute to Ottawa. "In the newspapers," he said, "there has been talk of war between Russia and Japan. I don't think there is any likelihood of that. As far as Japan is concerned, we have no intention of seeking trouble with Russia, the United States, or any other country.

"The Foreign Policy of Soviet Russia is conducted differently to that of other countries and that must be remembered in dealing with the Government of the Soviets." Japan is anxious to remain on friendly terms with the Soviets to promote general peace in the Far East, and the same can be said about the United States.

All thinking men in Japan are anxious to maintain the countrys traditional friendship, with the United States and I believe that sentiment is reciprocated in the latter country.

Missing Man Serving Time

(Canadian Press)

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Dec. 5.—City police asked cooperation of citizens in finding William Guthro, 59, missing since last Thursday.

Magistrate G. Earle Logan read in a newspaper today that a province-wide search had been instituted for Guthro. The name seemed familiar. It clicked. Magistrate Logan called the police.

"William Guthro is in the county jail," he said.

Guthro, found guilty last Friday when he appeared before the Magistrate for creating a disturbance, was released today.

murder—and a deliberate and definite disobedience of the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.' We do not excuse those in high places or in low who condone lynch law.

"The judicial function of the government is the protection of the individual and of the community through quick and certain justice. That function in many places has fallen into a sad state of disrepair. It must be a part of our programme to re-establish it."

Same Objective

The President said the United States Government was seeking the goal the churches look toward and that from "the bottom of my heart I believe that this beloved country is entering upon a time of great gain."

"Tha gain," he said, "can well include a greater material prosperity if we take care that it is a prosperity for 120,000,000 human beings and not a prosperity for the top of the pyramid alone.

"If I were asked to state the great objective which church and state are both demanding for the sake of every man and woman and child in this country, I would say that that great objective is 'a more abundant life.'

Pagan Ethics

"The early christians challenged the Pagan ethics of Greece and of Rome; we are wholly ready to challenge the pagan ethics that are represented in many phases of our boasted modern civilization. We have called on enlightened business judgment, on understanding labor and on intelligent agriculture to provide a more equitable balance of the abundant life between all elements of the community.

"We recognize the right of the individual to seek and to obtain his own fair wage, his own fair profit, in his own fair way—just so long as in the doing of it he shall not push down nor hold down his neighbor."

PEERS DEMAND

Government's policy, revealed in yesterday's note to Dublin, by refusing to say what steps Britain might take.

Stating he had no authority to say in advance what steps might be taken in the event of further breaches of the Anglo-Irish Treaty the Government spokesman rejected suggestions that tariffs on Irish goods be further increased, and the British representative withdrawn from the Free State.

BREAKING OFF RELATIONS

Breaking-off relations would not, he said, improve the situation, while a further increase in tariffs might reduce the total proceeds. Lord Danesfort had suggested the returns from increased tariffs be granted to those whose interests were damaged by the Free State's actions.

The peers originally expressed objections to the various bills passed by the Dail Eireann, already described by the British Government as repudiations of the Treaty. Particular attention was given the bill abolishing the right of appeal to the Privy Council. Lord Hailsham in this respect quoted a long series of cases to show this right could be removed only with express authority of an Imperial Act.

But he refused to be drawn as to the possible consequences. "There are large numbers in the Free State who for years have taken their lives in their hands in order to honor the obligations of the Free State," said the Minister. "and I am not prepared to assume that ultimately this body is not going to triumph."

SEAMAN DROWNED

LOCKEPORT, N. S., Dec. 6—Tumbling from a dory while setting trawls, Clifford Matthews, 52, was drowned today. Matthews, a member of the crew of the Lockeport schooner Lucille M., was alone in the dory and fellow fishermen were not aware of the accident until the dory was noticed drifting away.

FOUR DIE

had been carried out by their father before he rushed back into the blazing home in a hopeless effort to rescue his young wife and the trapped son and daughter.

Sympathetic neighbors heard the youngsters tell their story as they bundled the boy and girl off to a nearby home for warm clothing. It was not yet dawn this morning when they awakened startled to be lifted from their beds and hurried downstairs in their night attire.

Dashes Back

Flames were roaring through the little two-storey house then, and the smoke was thick. Aucoin ran down the stairway through the smoke clowded hall, dropped them hurriedly outside, and dashed back frantically into the building. The children saw no more of their father.

He lay at the very threshold of the little home when firefighters made their way through the debris as the flames died away. The soaring heat had held them at bay while the building burned, and they had been forced to stand by, powerless to aid the imprisoned four.

Summoned by Grandfather

They were summoned by the children's grandfather, Ben Aucoin, whose home stands a scant 50 feet from that of his son. Frantic cries for help awakened the elder Aucoin; he saw Samuel's home enveloped in flames, and called the fire department, giving the alarm to neighbors at the same time.

Fourteen-year old Margaret, another grandchild, was in the home of another grandparent, Mrs. Joseph MacIntyre, several blocks away. The circumstances that her home was being renovated probably saved her life; the family was using only two rooms as temporary sleeping quarters.

Origin of the fire had not been determined today. It was believed, however, to have started in a defective chimney.

GLACE BAY, N. S., Dec. 6.—(C. P.)—Drizzling rain beat lightly on the ashes of a holocaust tonight while within a stone's throw lay the bodies of its four victims.

In two closed caskets at the home of Joseph McIntyre were the charred remains of Samuel Aucoin, his wife, Adeline, and two of their children, Josephine, 11, and Harold, seven. In one were the mother and daughter and in the other, father and son, the remains of the boy still clasped in the last embrace of his heroic father who gave his life in a futile effort to save his family.

HISTORIC ARCHIVES BURN WHEN FIRE RAZES PALACE OF JUSTICE AT ISTANBUL

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 6.—Priceless historic archives in the Palace of Justice were among properties destroyed tonight when fire gutted the building, doing inestimable damage.

The palace was converted into a raging furnace. The flames were whipped by a terrific gale sweeping in from the Black Sea. Six fire brigades answered the alarms but had little hope of saving any of the archives or other valuables in the palace.

The historic Mosque of St. Sophia, 75 feet away, was endangered.

Stresses Need Of More Cooperation

Available British Market For All Our Surplus Egg & Poultry Products, If Greater Co-operative Effort Were Made, Says Mr. J. J. Leightizer.

Need of greater co-operative effort on the part of egg and poultry producers in view of the opportunities now available in the British market was emphasized by Mr. J. J. Leightizer, manager of the P. E. I. Co-operative Egg and Poultry Association, in an interview with a Guardian representative yesterday. The possibility of developing such trade, Mr. Leightizer states, is now ripe, if only the production can be organized in such a way as to take care of the volume of business demanded by British buyers. No single organization can command the production necessary to meet this requirement; it can only be done by the combined action of a large number of our farmers.

Mr. Leightizer referred to the shipment of 1,000,000 pounds of turkeys from western Canada to England last year. The shipment was made by the Canadian Poultry Pool, and was sold at no profit to the producers. It did result, however, in establishing a reputation for the Canadian product, and this season a greater export than last year's will be made at prices three cents in advance of the Canadian market price.

A statement in the Maritime Merchant, to the effect that Maritime producers were not supplying their own egg market requirements to say nothing of the export trade, was called to Mr. Leightizer's attention, and he expressed the opinion that this was wide of the mark. There is undoubtedly a surplus egg production in the Maritimes. This Province alone produces about 4,500,000 dozen eggs yearly, approximately 2,000,000 in excess of home consumption. At present our exports are confined to shipments to Nova Scotia, Montreal and Toronto, and with greater co-operative effort there is no reason why we could not take advantage of the still wider markets offered overseas under the Empire trade agreements.

Mr. Leightizer highly commends the proposed introduction of marketing legislation in Canada along lines similar to the British Marketing Act, but adapted to suit the particular needs of this country.

EXPORT LIQUOR

only under license and that no invoice for export of intoxicating liquor to the United States will be certified by their consular representatives except upon presentation of evidence that a license has been issued.

"The several prohibitions against release or removal from warehouse, clearance and entry for export, contained in the Export Act, will therefore, not apply to intoxicating liquor destined for delivery in the United States of America for which an invoice certified by a United States consular officer is presented."

Instructions Forwarded

Instructions have also gone forward to collectors of national revenue for the collection of the new validation fee of 20 cents for every proof gallon taken from bond to be exported.

These read as follows:

"No permit shall be granted for the removal of any spirits for export in bond unless the person applying for the same has paid to the collector or sub-collector a validation fee of twenty cents for every gallon of the strength of proof to be removed for export in bond, under the said permit.

Collector's Duty

"No one but the collector or sub-collector shall sign any such permit and no such permit shall be signed until the collector or sub-collector is satisfied that all relavant requirements of the act and regulations have been complied with, nor until the validation fee has been paid. Upon the signature of the collector or sub-collector being affixed, the permit shall be valid.

"Every such permit shall, when the spirits covered thereby have been laden upon the train or vessel upon which they are to be exported, immediately be delivered to the collector or sub-collector at the port of exit for transmission to the collector or sub-cllector who issued the said permit."

The department has been advised that increasing importance will be attached to the official strip label as a certificate of age and government supervision, by certain countries importing Canadian spirits. With this in view, the department is having the present label re-designed, but labels of new design will not be available for about one month from this date. In the meantime the labels now in use will be supplied free of charge upon requisition.

Girl in Sweden, Man in U.S. Wed

DETROIT, December 6.—A wedding was solemnized on Saturday between a bride who sat before a telephone in Stockholm, Sweden, and a bridegroom who sat in a telephone office in Detroit.

The principals were Miss Sigrid Sofia Margareta Carizon and Bertil Hjalmar Clason, the latter of Flint, Mich. Across thousands of miles came the voice of the bride, from Stockholm to London, to Glasgow, to Maine, to New York and to Detroit. English operators in Scotland and London wrote down the words. The United States Consul in Stockholm translated them. They were the witnesses to the strange ceremony.

Judge John D. Watts, Detroit, sitting beside the bridegroom, spoke the words: "I pronounce you man and wife," as Clason's brother, Ragnar, and his wife, officially noted the words.

With the final "I Do," Mrs. Sigrid Carizon Clason, in Stockholm, probably sighed and began to think of new clothes and a steamer ticket to America.

Clason later was presented with a bill for $47.50, cost of the telephone wedding. "I'm sure it was worth it," he said.

He expects his bride to start for America within a month.

Find All Apples Not Fancy Kind

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 — (C. P.) — When he tried to sell a judge some ordinary apples as "extra fancy Mackintoshs," Sam Birk, proprietor of a local fruit store, bit off more than he could chew.

Judge Maurice Tetreau of the local court saw some excellent apples for sale in the window of Birk's store labelled "Extra Fancy Mackintosh." When he entered to buy some, however, Birk told him he could not remove any of the apples from the window as it would destroy the display, but sold him some others as "Extra Fancy Mackintosh." "I showed them to a friend of mine," said the judge, "and he told me there was not a Mackintosh in the lot."

Birk paid two fines, one for having exposed for sale apples not of the kind stated and another for failing to remove the markings on the baskets which stated that the contents were "Extra Fancy Mackintosh."

CRUISE TO FIND SECRET HERB

In a fifteen-foot collapsible boat three Britons are on their way to India to search for a secret herb used by the natives to cure rheumatism. The expedition was organized by Frederick Ramshaw, nephew of the mayor of Wimbledon, England. On reaching India the three will at once start for the Nilgiri hills, where Grimshaw saw the herb used with astonishing success by native doctors several years ago. He is determined to find this herb, which he is convinced will be of great benefit to humanity. The secret is closely guarded by the natives. One of Grimshaw's companions is Clarence Gardner, 24 years old, who has traveled widely and has a knowledge of navigation. "The quest is dangerous," said Ramshaw as he was about to set sail, "and I may never come back."

CRIMINALS MARRIED IN JAIL

After being separated six years Constantine Tolinoff, a notorious thief, and Bassilka Grigoreva, recently convicted of murdering her husband, have just been married in the Central Jail in Sofia, Bulgaria. Six years ago Tolinoff was given a long sentence. Shortly afterward the girl married another man, who treated her so cruelly that she strangled him while he slept. In prison she met Tolinoff and their romance was revived. The ceremony was held in the prison chapel and was attended by the warden, the prosecutor who had obtained the sentences on the lovers, and many others. A former police chief sent a beautiful present. After the ceremony the bride's child by her first husband was christened. Then the bride and groom were taken back to their cells.

"GUEST" STEALS NECKLACE

How a man posed as a guest at a large house party at Dameny House, West Lothian, the Scottish residence of the Earl of Rosebery, and stole a pearl necklace valued at $20,000 and other articles was revealed during the trial of Robert Meechan, a miner, in Glasgow, Scotland. The necklace is said to be the only one in the world similar to the one owned by Mary Queen of Scots, which is now in the Scottish National Museum. Meechan, it was testified, sauntered in with the guests, and later explored the bed chambers. He disturbed a child's nurse when he flashed a torch along a corridor, but she paid no attention, thinking he was a guest. Meechan also admitted recent thefts from Airthey Castle, in Logie, and his record included conviction in Leeds two years ago, followed by a parole.

Old Dutch Cleanser Looks Like This under the microscope. The flaky, flat-shaped particles do not scratch

STARTLING

"My! What a difference there is in cleansers! Now I can see why Old Dutch goes further and costs less to use."

"You're quite right. It is startling, isn't it, how different Old Dutch Cleanser is. As you see, its particles are flaky and flat-shaped. Because of that, they cover more surface and remove dirt quickly, easily and without scratching. Gritty particles, on the other hand, are irregular chunky shapes and merely scratch the surface with their hard, sharp points."

Get your money's worth. Use Old Dutch Cleanser. Ounce for ounce, it does more square yards of cleaning than anything else. In addition, it protects beautiful surfaces because it doesn't scratch; is kind to the hands; doesn't clog drains; is odorless and removes odors. Old Dutch is unsurpassed for all cleaning from porcelain and enamel to kitchen utensils, floors and woodwork. It's the only cleanser you need in your home.

AUSTRALIA IS HAVING HER WHEAT PROBLEMS

MONTREAL, Dec. 6— The wheat crop of Australia for the 1933-34 harvest is estimated at between 160 and 180 million bushels, according to the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways. Australia's domestic consumption is about 50 million bushels which will leave approximately 130 million bushels for export. Under the quota agreed upon at London, Australia's export of wheat was set at 105 million bushels up to July 31st, 1934, and the government of the commonwealth is in consultation with grain exporters as to ways and means of conforming with the requirements under the export quota. Australian flour has not been moving very rapidly of late due to lack of demand by Chinese and Japanese merchants.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—To meet notes falling due and pay interest on other obligations, the United States Government tonight sought to borrow nearly $1,000,000,000 for one year a 2¼ percent.

With payments of $868,000,000 to be made on December 15, the Treasury offered to the investing public $950,000,000 "or thereabouts" in certificates of indebtedness with the proviso usual to such operations that maturing obligations would be accepted in exchange for the new issue.
