Coughs

are not all of the same character and have different causes. No one remedy can therefore be made that will be certain to cure every case.

But ordinary coughs due to an irritated condition of the membranes of the air passages induced by a recent cold are quite sure to be promptly cured by cough mixture. The kind of a remedy to be depended upon as a general family cough cure.

THE FUTURE HOUSE OF LORDS AN IMPERIAL SENATE.

The Standard of Empire, which gives a valuable compendium of the news of the entire British Dominions, also discusses from time to time with great ability the principal topics which are of general interest to all the British peoples. Among these is the need of reform in the House of Lords and the general lines upon which such reform ought to be, and ultimately will be developed. The Standard of Empire is of opinion that the House of Lords is not going to be destroyed, nor is it likely to have its powers seriously curtailed.

But its composition will be changed. It will lose its exclusively hereditary character and become what it was in the days of our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, a Witenagemot, a Council of the Wise Men. The Standard finds that the Unionists, not less than the Liberals, are anxious that the Upper House shall be reformed, and that only those who object to all Second Chambers desire to leave it in its present condition.

In discussing proposed methods of reform it concludes that to make the Lords a genuine Senate, an efficient organ of legislation, able to revise the proceedings of the democratic assembly with real authority, it must have a large admixture of the nominated or representative element. "A reformed House of Lords, claiming confidence on the ground of the character, status and official experience of its members, would be a far stronger, as well as a more useful, body than one based on the accident of birth and heredity."

Among the plans for reform The Standard finds the most popular is one under which the hereditary peers should elect a limited number of their own order to represent them in Parliament; and to these elected peers should be added a quota of life peers appointed by the Crown, and a contingent of official peers, qualified by public service or by being the heads of great professional, educational, scientific and perhaps religious corporations and associations, and again it is proposed that the Upper House should contain a representative element elected by the counties of the United Kingdom, or chosen by a limited body of electors with a high property and educational qualification.

To these The Standard of Empire would have added some representation of the Overseas Empire, perhaps adopting the American or the German plan of representation by States. But it holds that the Empire is not quite ready for such representation at present, and will not be until "the organic union of the Empire shall be achieved." The Standard hopes to see in the future, the House of Lords become an Imperial Senate in which Canada, Australia, South Africa, India and the Crown Colonies, as well as England, Scotland and Ireland shall be represented.

As to fitting representatives from overseas to the Imperial Senate that yet may be, it has been proposed that these might be selected from those who have held the post of imperial Governors General or Governors. The Standard concludes that these would not be the most fitting exponents of oversea opinion, and that the choice should be made from among those who have held the position of Premier, or who have at least attained to cabinet rank in the various Dominions. But the difficulty is recognized that such men might prefer the greater activities and rewards of public life at home.

The above outline is of interest as showing something of the Conservative or Unionist view of what reforms should be made in the House of Lords. To some it may seem surprising that British Conservatism should favor such a very substantial measure of reform in the Upper Chamber. It gives good hope that something may be effected along the lines laid down, or in some other way which may increase the usefulness of the House of Lords, and bring it into closer touch and harmony with popular sentiment, before long, and by whichever party may be in power.

As to representation of the oversea Dominions in the House of Lords, it now exists in some sort and will probably continue. There are a number of peers of colonial birth, Canadian, Australian and other. They do not, however sit in an official capacity as representative of the sections of the Empire in which they had their birth or residence. But an evolution is going on under which, if the Empire is to hold together—as we doubt not it will—either in an Imperial Senate or High Council of the Empire, the over-sea Dominions must some day have a voice.

The Halifax Chronicle states that every Liberal member from the Province of Quebec will support the Laurier naval policy. Should this prove true there is little doubt that the naval program will be endorsed by a very substantial majority.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded 50c.

Mr. Warburton is keeping himself well to the front this session at Ottawa, taking part effectively in all the principal debates. At this stage of the long discussion on the Government's naval program it is hard to evolve much that is new, but the ex-Premier made a creditable effort, from the Liberal standpoint. Any way the people of this Province, having but few representatives, like to have one or more of them conspicuous in the firing line.

MOTHER AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

ENTWISTLE, Alberta, March 3. — Mrs Dingham and her infant child were burned to death last night, in a fire which destroyed their home. Mr Dingham was away. About midnight Mrs Dingham awoke to find the room in flames. She made a desperate attempt to save the child, but was unable to escape.

So far the Legislature has been well supplied with material to work upon. The Departmental reports were submitted at the earliest moment after the address was passed and there has since been a plenty of bills to occupy the attention of members from day to day until now the third week of the session and the budget and voting of supplies are yet to come. The session can hardly be made a very short one now.

Some Liberal newspapers are crowing pretty loudly over Mr. Foster's loss of his libel suit against Editor McDonald and the Toronto Globe. Mr. Foster was unwise to appeal to the court and seems to have got about what he might have expected. He had indulged in very strong language toward Mr. McDonald, giving him the lie direct and threatening to cram his lies down his throat. Mr. McDonalds' attack and rejoinder were hardly more offensive. The jury evidently thought it a case of "six for one and a half dozen for the other" and that Mr. Foster should not have appealed to the court.

It is announced that Messrs Emery and Pepper, two members of the United States Tariff Board, are shortly coming to Ottawa to consult with the Canadian Government over the application of the new American tariff, to Canadian goods. If the maximum tariff, which is 25 per cent higher than the present rate, is to be applied to Canada, it will take effect on March 31st. The American visitors in conference with the Canadian ministers may come to an understanding, or they may not, but there ought to be enough sound common sense among them to prevent a tariff war, which must result in great disturbance to trade, with probable loss on both sides.

Girls With Bad Complexions.

The skin should really be so soft and transparent that the blood in the vessels beneath can impart to it the pale, rosy tint which is the ideal "bloom of health." Often, however, the skin becomes coarse and rough, and its cells filled with various impurities, which should be thrown off. This results in those "muddy," sallow complexions, spots, backaches, etc.

Girls who are troubled in this way will find Zam-Buk a perfect skin food. Smear it slightly over the spots, the eruptions, the sallow patches, at night, and notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard, scurfy-like patches are removed. The cuticle is softened. The cells beneath are stimulated to healthy operation. The pores resume their work properly, and a good complexion results. Isn't this better than attempting the impossible task of improving your complexion from the outside?

FINE SUBURBAN SERVICE ON I. R. C.

ST. JOHN, March 2—The Board of Management of the Intercolonial Railway met in Montreal yesterday and considered the request of a delegation of St. John men who asked for an improved suburban service between St. John and Hampton. The delegation met Messrs. Brady, Pottinger and Tiffin in St. John some weeks ago but at that time the railway men were unable to give them any definite answer. Now, however, the board of management has decided to grant the request and the result is that the suburbanites living in the vicinity of this city, on the line of the I. R. C. will have a better service this summer than ever before. Several new trains will be put on and run at such hours as will practically remove all possible inconvenience which may now attach to suburban residence.
