

Central Guardian

ZION CHURCH CONCERT party will be at Orange Hall, Kensington, on Monday, the 24th inst., at 8.30 p. m., weather permitting. 6059-6-22-21

AT TRYON ON WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26th—The Sunday School picnic of the Tryon Baptist Church will be held in Tryon on Wednesday afternoon. Come and enjoy a good supper. 6076-6-24-21

POLICE COURT — At the Police Court on Saturday morning, three speeders were each fined $5. Two drunks paid $10 and one $5. Clarence Power, for driving a car without the owner's permission received three months in the County Jail.

COUNTY COURT—The regular June term of the County Court opened on Tuesday last and adjourned until Thursday when the case of R. E. Mutch & Co. vs. the Canadian National Railways was heard. This was an action for damages to a shipment of potatoes sent to Chatham, Ont., by the plaintiff. On account of delay, the consignee cancelled the contract. Judgment will be delivered by Mr. Justice Stewart on July 8th. The case of John McQuirk vs. Macdonald was heard on Friday. Judgment was reserved until July 9th. But one case, that of James Trainor vs. City of Charlottetown remains to be disposed of.

CAR THEFT CAUGHT—On Friday evening about 10.30, when a local business man's car was parked in front of the Charlottetown Club, a young chap who has been guilty of similar offences in the past, took the car without permission and went for a drive. The owner, a few minutes later finding the car gone, jumped into another and with his son gave the thief hot pursuit. After a long chase, he eventually came up with him and brought him into the Police Station. The offender was sentenced to three months in jail on Saturday morning.

RETURNS FROM CONVENTION—Mrs. William O. Davey returned Saturday night from Windsor, Ontario, where she has been attending as a delegate, the annual convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada. Mrs. Davey speaks very highly of the treatment accorded the all Canadian delegates and is enthusiastic over the success of the Convention as a whole. She was very proud to hear the name of Miss Frances Kirwan, a Charlottetown girl, announced during a meeting as second place winner in the Canadian essay competition, which was sponsored by the League and open to all Canada. While in Windsor, Mrs. Davey had an enjoyable visit with her son, William, who has been located in Windsor for the past two years. Mrs. W. J. McIntyre and Mrs. F. J. Casey, other delegates to the Convention, remained over, the former lady is expected home Tuesday night, while the latter has planned an extended visit with friends in Montreal.

TABLET DEDICATED—At the regular session of St. Paul's Sunday School yesterday afternoon, a tablet to the memory of the late Mr. A. E. Hertz, who devoted a great deal of his life work to the welfare of the Sunday School, was dedicated by the Rector, Rev. H. D. Raymond, who declared Mr. Hertz's life an outstanding example of faithfulness. Remarks were also made by Mr. Justice Hazard, Mr. W. E. Bentley and Mrs. Purdy. The tablet is inscribed as follows:—"In memoriam of Arthur Ernest Hertz who at the age of 3 years commenced an attendance at this Sunday School which continued for 46 years and was only terminated at his death. He died May 31, 1928, aged 49 years." The Sunday School Library which has been completely renovated, will be known as the "Ernest Hertz Memorial Library."

PERSONALS—Mrs. R. A. McDonald, Montreal, is home on a visit to her mother.

The many friends of Miss Pearl Douglas, of Cambridge, formerly of this city, will be sorry to learn that she had to undergo an operation on Tuesday last. Latest reports are that she is doing nicely.

The Rev. J. Eustace Purdie, B. D., Principal of the Bible College, Winnipeg, has arrived home, and will spend the summer with his family in Charlottetown.

Mrs. J. A. Fraser and little daughter, Helen, of Regina, Sask., arrived in the city Saturday evening to spend the summer with Mrs. Fraser's mother, Mrs. Mary Wynne, 257 Richmond St.

Death Yesterday Of Miss G. Mawley Of Summerside

(Special to The Guardian) SUMMERSIDE, June 22—Miss Georgie Mawley, the proprietress for many years of Summerside's leading hotel, the Clifton House, passed away suddenly at 5 o'clock on Saturday morning following a paralytic stroke.

Miss Mawley was in her usual health on Friday night and after the late train had arrived she was showing a guest to his room when she complained of feeling dizzy and went out on the balcony. Shortly afterwards she was seized with the stroke from which she did not rally. Sad though her death appears she was a lady of such great activity that she would have no doubt chosen just such an ending in preference to a lingering illness. Miss Mawley was 69 years of age and was probably the best known hotel proprietress in Eastern Canada. She was born in Charlottetown and was the youngest but one of a large family. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Mawley who for many years ran a hotel at Charlottetown where they were well known. They had the misfortune to be burnt out twice in the city and came to Summerside when Miss Mawley was quite young. They bought the large premises on the corner of Water and Central Streets from Mr. James Campbell, built for his own private residence, and after making various improvements and enlargements it was opened under the name of the Clifton House. Miss Mawley has so successfully conducted the establishment since her parents' death that it not only was patronized by the cream of the travelling public but had been the scene of many banquets at which several Governor Generals of Canada and many other persons of eminence have been the guests of honor.

Known far and wide by the travelling public for the splendid service and honorable dealings with all, the late Miss Mawley was very highly respected by them. In her private life she had many friends and her death came as a great shock to all who knew her. There is only one sister left to mourn, Miss Tottie Mawley who resides with her sister and to whom The Guardian extends its sincere sympathy in her sudden sorrow.—S.

Dr. William D. Morris, whose relatives live in Victoria, B. C., had been in practice as a surgeon here for the past two years. He was graduated from McGill University in 1924 in medicine and was granted his B. A. from the University of Alberta in Edmonton previous to coming to the local university. He was on the staff of the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital. His office was situated in room 417 of the Medico-Dental Arts Building at 1396 St. Catherine Street west. He resided at 2075 Comte Street. Dr. Morris was unmarried and had no local relatives.

His father, Mr. Charles Morris, for the past seven or eight years resided in Charlottetown, and left for Victoria, B. C., six or seven weeks ago. His uncle, Mr. W. F. Morris resides in Charlottetown. He was well-known in that city, having spent several summers there and was intimately connected with tennis and golf clubs. He was born in Lacombe, Alta., and was 28 years old.

Who's Who

Continued on page 3
cial features, Ottawa Citizen and News correspondent.
Mrs. Florence Ayscough, London, Eng., world-known author and free lance.
Mrs. Lereine Ballantyne, Weston, Ont., associate editor Dry Goods Review.
Mrs. Nana E. Baxter, Windsor, Ont., society editor Detroit News.
Helen Murray Boyle, B. A., Edmonton, Alta., woman's section Edmonton Journal.
Katie Broad, Saint John Telegraph

SON OF

Continued from page 1
Island, off the Verdun shore, Pilot Caldwell and Captain Jervis connected with the Canadian Vickers, Ltd., aeronautical department, were taking the seaplane on its trial flight. Dr. Morris, a close friend of Caldwell, had been invited to join them for the day.
They left the Vickers plant in the morning and returned at noon for

In Memoriam

In loving memory of F. P. Hennessy, who died June 23, 1924. 6081

Nature never grew a perfect tea

REALLY good tea can only be made by blending—flavor from one kind of tea, strength from another, fullness from a third. For strength and fullness and flavor almost never come from the same plants. Finding these desirable qualities in the varying tea crops is part of the problem; putting them together to form perfection is the other part. The combination is King Cole. We need not tell you how good it is; you know!

You will enjoy King Cole Coffee too

lunch, reporting the new plane functioning well. At 1 o'clock they left again to continue the tests. Just before the accident the plane had passed over the C. N. R. shops in Point St. Charles and is reported to have appeared to be in some difficulty at that time.
When the plane struck the wires linking the mainland with Nuns' Island, the pontoons of the watercraft were ripped off. Following a deafening explosion, the plane turned over and dropped to the water.

Dr. William D. Morris.

Mr. Fielding's career. It gave fresh impetus to Canada's growing trade, and in its amplification, a year or two later, provided new bonds for the unification of the rapidly growing British Commonwealth, a problem that was already regarded as pressing for solution among the academically inclined. Moreover it inspired Rudyard Kipling to write one of his best known poems: A Nation spoke to a Nation, A Queen sent word to a Throne; "Daughter am I in my mother's house
But Mistress in my own. The gates are mine to open, As the gates are mine to close, And I set my house in order," Said Our Lady of the Snows.
But as epoch making as was undoubtedly the introduction of the British Preferential Tariff, it is unquestionably true that Mr. Fielding himself regarded the negotiations of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States in 1911 as his greatest contribution to Canadian statesmanship, and this despite the fact that it was subsequently rejected by the Canadian people in a manner so decisive as to carry with it the downfall of the Government led by Sir Wilfred Laurier. Indeed, when the smoke of battle had cleared away, it was found that Mr. Fielding himself was among the slain.
The outbreak of the world war in 1914 found Mr. Fielding without a seat in the House of Commons. But this did not prevent him from rendering valiant services in the Allied cause and when in 1917 a Union Government of Conservatives and Liberals, headed by the Conservative Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, appealed to the country with a policy of conscription for the better prosecution of the war the former finance minister promptly arrayed himself on the side of the conscriptionists, and was elected by acclamation in his old constituency of Queens-Sheburne. He did not become a member however of the administration, and when the war was won he was among the first to return to the ranks of the Opposition.
Nevertheless it is generally agreed that his action in supporting conscription cost him the leadership of the Liberal Party, following the death of Sir Wilfred Laurier. The opposition to conscription had centered in the Province of Quebec and it was the action of the Quebec delegates which determined that the mantle of the great French-Canadian should be worn by William Lyon Mackenzie King. But the convention was unable to take from the aging statesman the de facto leadership of the party. From the time he returned to the post of Finance Minister in the administration of Mr. King, 1922 down to his last illness he stood dominant on the Government side of the House and the Prime Minister has never lost an opportunity of paying tribute to the invaluable help he received from his first lieutenant during the early years of his premiership.

Chief among Mr. Fielding's achievements as Premier of Nova Scotia was the introduction of coal mining legislation which paved the way for the formation of the Dominion Coal Company and an ensuing very substantial increase in coal royalties. The state of the provincial revenues was of necessity his chief concern. It was this which prompted the demand for a revision of the terms of Confederation and it was probably due to the successful way in which he addressed himself to the problem that he laid the foundation for his long career as finance minister in the wider field of federal affairs.
Perhaps the most striking characteristic of William Stevens Fielding was his disinterestedness. Any honor within the attainment of a Canadian certainly was his but he stoutly eschewed all and in the days when his countrymen were not adverse to knightships, he preferred to remain plain Mr. Fielding. It was only in 1923 that he became a "Right Honorable" by being made a member of the Imperial Privy Council. Nor was he interested in the accumulation of wealth. When he stepped down from his office of Minister of Finance in 1911 he found it incumbent upon himself to still work for a living. He promptly returned to his first love, journalism, and first with the Montreal Daily Telegraph and subsequently with the Journal of Commerce continued to exert an important influence on Canadian affairs, until called upon to resume the responsibilities of a Minister of the Crown.
Mr. Fielding was born at Halifax, N. S., on Nov. 24, 1848. He was a son of Charles Fielding and Sarah (Ellis) Fielding, both being of English descent. He was educated in Halifax, and married in 1876, to Hester, daughter of the late Thomas A. Rankine of St. John, N.B.
He was President of the St. George's society in his native city for some years. Mr. Fielding was a Baptist and member of the Rideau Club, Ottawa; Ottawa Golf Club, Ottawa Country Club, the Halifax Club and the City Club, of Halifax.

EAR MITE DESTROYER

We have prepared A SPECIAL REMEDY which is being effectively used by many

LEADING FOX RANCHERS

Testimonials of its merit received daily. THE PROMPT DRUGGISTS

Mackinnon Drug Co. THE REAL KODAK STORE 331

Journal, general news, special articles.
Jessie I. Lawson, Saint John, N.B., publicity and free lance.
Georgina Lefavre, Quebec, editor woman's and children's pages Le Soleil.
May Clendenen (president) London Ont., editorial staff Farmer's Advocate.
Margaret E. Lawrence, Saint John, N.B., book reviews, literary subjects, editorial.
Elizabeth D. Long, Winnipeg, sub-editor Free Press and Prairie Farmer.
Mrs. A. E. Morris, Montreal, free lance writer metropolitan press and magazines.
Amanda Campeau, Ottawa, daily news writer.
Mrs. Clyde Patch, Ottawa, writer of children's stories.
Sophy L. Elliott, Montreal, fashion editor Montreal Star.
Lole E. Stephenson, Montreal, fashion editor The Passing Show.
Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa, editor Canadian Child Welfare News and free lance.
Kenneth M. Haig, Winnipeg, editorial staff Free Press.
Mary Barker, Ottawa, advertising writer.
Amy J. Roe, Winnipeg, free lance.
Kathleen Scott, Galt, Ont., social and personal Galt Reporter.
Mrs. J. H. Robson, Ottawa, advertising writer.
Olive M. Delahaye, free lance writer.
Beryl M. Swall, Saskatoon, staff of the Phoenix.
Elizabeth M. Somerville, Montreal, Canadian representative N. Y. Spur, society periodical.
Lena M. Nicholson, Montreal, publicity department C.N.R.
Gladys E. Elliott, St. Thomas, editor woman's page Times-Journal.
Bessie James, Winnipeg, publicity department C.P.R.
Hilda Hesse, Winnipeg, assistant editor Western School Journal, travel articles, regular page Western Home Monthly.
Mabel Crewes Ringland (Mrs. H. S.), Toronto, free lance.
Helen M. Mackie, Toronto, editor woman's section Canadian Countryman.

1922 down to his last illness he stood dominant on the Government side of the House and the Prime Minister has never lost an opportunity of paying tribute to the invaluable help he received from his first lieutenant during the early years of his premiership.

Chief among Mr. Fielding's achievements as Premier of Nova Scotia was the introduction of coal mining legislation which paved the way for the formation of the Dominion Coal Company and an ensuing very substantial increase in coal royalties. The state of the provincial revenues was of necessity his chief concern. It was this which prompted the demand for a revision of the terms of Confederation and it was probably due to the successful way in which he addressed himself to the problem that he laid the foundation for his long career as finance minister in the wider field of federal affairs.

Perhaps the most striking characteristic of William Stevens Fielding was his disinterestedness. Any honor within the attainment of a Canadian certainly was his but he stoutly eschewed all and in the days when his countrymen were not adverse to knightships, he preferred to remain plain Mr. Fielding. It was only in 1923 that he became a "Right Honorable" by being made a member of the Imperial Privy Council. Nor was he interested in the accumulation of wealth. When he stepped down from his office of Minister of Finance in 1911 he found it incumbent upon himself to still work for a living. He promptly returned to his first love, journalism, and first with the Montreal Daily Telegraph and subsequently with the Journal of Commerce continued to exert an important influence on Canadian affairs, until called upon to resume the responsibilities of a Minister of the Crown.

Mr. Fielding was born at Halifax, N. S., on Nov. 24, 1848. He was a son of Charles Fielding and Sarah (Ellis) Fielding, both being of English descent. He was educated in Halifax, and married in 1876, to Hester, daughter of the late Thomas A. Rankine of St. John, N.B.

He was President of the St. George's society in his native city for some years. Mr. Fielding was a Baptist and member of the Rideau Club, Ottawa; Ottawa Golf Club, Ottawa Country Club, the Halifax Club and the City Club, of Halifax.

Continued from page 1
Mr. Fielding's career. It gave fresh impetus to Canada's growing trade, and in its amplification, a year or two later, provided new bonds for the unification of the rapidly growing British Commonwealth, a problem that was already regarded as pressing for solution among the academically inclined. Moreover it inspired Rudyard Kipling to write one of his best known poems: A Nation spoke to a Nation, A Queen sent word to a Throne; "Daughter am I in my mother's house
But Mistress in my own. The gates are mine to open, As the gates are mine to close, And I set my house in order," Said Our Lady of the Snows.
But as epoch making as was undoubtedly the introduction of the British Preferential Tariff, it is unquestionably true that Mr. Fielding himself regarded the negotiations of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States in 1911 as his greatest contribution to Canadian statesmanship, and this despite the fact that it was subsequently rejected by the Canadian people in a manner so decisive as to carry with it the downfall of the Government led by Sir Wilfred Laurier. Indeed, when the smoke of battle had cleared away, it was found that Mr. Fielding himself was among the slain.
The outbreak of the world war in 1914 found Mr. Fielding without a seat in the House of Commons. But this did not prevent him from rendering valiant services in the Allied cause and when in 1917 a Union Government of Conservatives and Liberals, headed by the Conservative Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, appealed to the country with a policy of conscription for the better prosecution of the war the former finance minister promptly arrayed himself on the side of the conscriptionists, and was elected by acclamation in his old constituency of Queens-Sheburne. He did not become a member however of the administration, and when the war was won he was among the first to return to the ranks of the Opposition.
Nevertheless it is generally agreed that his action in supporting conscription cost him the leadership of the Liberal Party, following the death of Sir Wilfred Laurier. The opposition to conscription had centered in the Province of Quebec and it was the action of the Quebec delegates which determined that the mantle of the great French-Canadian should be worn by William Lyon Mackenzie King. But the convention was unable to take from the aging statesman the de facto leadership of the party. From the time he returned to the post of Finance Minister in the administration of Mr. King,

Former Minister

Continued from page 1
Mr. Fielding's career. It gave fresh impetus to Canada's growing trade, and in its amplification, a year or two later, provided new bonds for the unification of the rapidly growing British Commonwealth, a problem that was already regarded as pressing for solution among the academically inclined. Moreover it inspired Rudyard Kipling to write one of his best known poems: A Nation spoke to a Nation, A Queen sent word to a Throne; "Daughter am I in my mother's house
But Mistress in my own. The gates are mine to open, As the gates are mine to close, And I set my house in order," Said Our Lady of the Snows.
But as epoch making as was undoubtedly the introduction of the British Preferential Tariff, it is unquestionably true that Mr. Fielding himself regarded the negotiations of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States in 1911 as his greatest contribution to Canadian statesmanship, and this despite the fact that it was subsequently rejected by the Canadian people in a manner so decisive as to carry with it the downfall of the Government led by Sir Wilfred Laurier. Indeed, when the smoke of battle had cleared away, it was found that Mr. Fielding himself was among the slain.
The outbreak of the world war in 1914 found Mr. Fielding without a seat in the House of Commons. But this did not prevent him from rendering valiant services in the Allied cause and when in 1917 a Union Government of Conservatives and Liberals, headed by the Conservative Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, appealed to the country with a policy of conscription for the better prosecution of the war the former finance minister promptly arrayed himself on the side of the conscriptionists, and was elected by acclamation in his old constituency of Queens-Sheburne. He did not become a member however of the administration, and when the war was won he was among the first to return to the ranks of the Opposition.
Nevertheless it is generally agreed that his action in supporting conscription cost him the leadership of the Liberal Party, following the death of Sir Wilfred Laurier. The opposition to conscription had centered in the Province of Quebec and it was the action of the Quebec delegates which determined that the mantle of the great French-Canadian should be worn by William Lyon Mackenzie King. But the convention was unable to take from the aging statesman the de facto leadership of the party. From the time he returned to the post of Finance Minister in the administration of Mr. King, gave some very interesting incidents of the pioneer life, describing the great trees in the primeval forests in her childhood days. She well remembers the terrible storm, when she was about ten years old, which wrecked one of the largest vessels of that day, carrying to the Old Country the huge pine timbers which were hewn two feet square. This vessel was wrecked in Richmond Bay and there are to this present day remnants of the wreck and some of these huge timbers to be found at the mouth of the Indian River and Barbara West. The stumps of these large trees are to be seen in many places on the Island today.

Guardian Reader

Continued from page 1
Miss McIntyre remembers the building of the first store in Travellers Rest and St. Eleanors, which were later hauled to Summerside. Before these stores were built it was the custom of traders to cross to Miramichi and bring back goods which they bartered mostly for home made woolen and flaxen goods. This flax was ground by women, and in the fall of the year tents were pitched in the woods and the flax dried by big fires. There was lots of hard work in those days and no cars, but the people were very contented and happy. The bread was dark and coarse, as it was some years before wheat could be grown successfully, as the weevil fly attacked the crops in many seasons.
Then they would have to rely on the oat cakes and barley bread. Miss McIntyre's mother used to tell how their grandmother at harvest time would be helping in the field and about the middle of the morning would take a sheaf of barley home, and burn it in the ashes of the hearth (there were no stoves in these days) which dried and thrashed it at the same time, and then ground it on the "quern" or hand stone and make it into bread for their dinner.
Miss McIntyre attended school in New Annan, which is one of the oldest schools settlements on the Island. Before the frame church at Indian River was built the priest used to go to the houses to say Mass. On her 100th birthday, Rev. J. J. McDonald, of Summerside, who is a relative, celebrated a special mass on her behalf in the present magnificent church there.
There were no newspapers in Miss McIntyre's early days, but now she keeps thoroughly abreast of the times by reading the Morning Guardian, perhaps more thoroughly than 90 per cent of its readers.
Miss McIntyre is not much interested in present day styles, but looks remarkably dainty and picturesque in her pretty mauve cap and awail, in the administration of Mr. King,

Church Services

THE BAPTIST CHURCH
Rev. A. C. Vincent's two impressive sermons were heard by large audiences Sunday morning and evening. The subject of the morning sermon was "God's challenge to His People." The text was taken from Jeremiah 33, "Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and will show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not."
From all sides, said the preacher, we hear the criticism that the Church is losing its power, that it is ineffective. And the trouble is that much of the criticism is true. The business of the Church is the salvation of mankind. It is being carried on with success? Would we be satisfied with our investment in a factory that produced no more in proportion to its apparent power? The Church is outnumbered by the powers of evil. Unbelief, opposition, indifference stand armed in the way, and too many of us have only enough religion to keep us alive, not enough to "fight the good fight with all our might." All over the world the doors are open, we fall to enter in. Only through a great, believing return to calling mightily upon God, shall the Church regain, and more than regain her power.
The evening service was in the general charge of the girls of the C. G. I. T., from whose membership the choir was provided for the occasion. The Scripture reading was conducted by one of the girls, Miss Evelyn Simmons, the Prayer by Miss Nina Clark.
Miss Simmons presented the annual report of the C. G. I. T. which reflected a very fruitful and busy year. Closing her report, Miss Simmons announced the donation of a generous sum toward the purchase of new hymn books for the Sunday School. Rev. A. C. Vincent delivered a special sermon to young people, "The Strength of Youth." His text, 1 John 2:14, "I have written unto you young men because ye are strong."
The various church activities were announced for the coming week. Particular attention was called to the mid week Prayer Meeting, Wednesday at 7.30. A constantly increasing number has been in attendance at this service, and much interest is evident. All members of the congregation are urged to be present.
The Guild and the W. M. A. S. unite in an afternoon tea Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, in honor of Dr. Zella Clark, of Sompeta, India, and Miss Laura Bain, who are home on furlough. All members of Church and congregation are invited to be present.

ZION CHURCH

A joint service between St. James and Zion was held yesterday. Mr. Fulton preached at both services, in St. James in the morning, when he delivered an excellent sermon, the subject being, "A Good Workman's Inevitable Reward." Texts were from Joshua XXIV-15 and John XV.
The evening service in Zion was also well attended. Sermon subject,—"The Cities of Refuge," their location, purpose and regulations were touched upon.
Striking analogies between these Cities of Refuge and the provision of the gospel were cited.
Arrangements are being made for the church picnics. Mission Band picnic to Rocky Point will be held Friday, June 28th. Children and parents meet at the church at 1 p. m.
The annual picnic of Zion Church and Sabbath School will be held on Wednesday, July 3rd.
Beginning next Sabbath, June 30th, and until further notice is given, the Sabbath School will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning.
At the united service in St. James in the morning a full choir was present and rendered the anthem "The Lord is My Shepherd" by Foster in fine style and Mr. Elmer Farnell sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" in Guardian representative made a surprise visit on the eve of her birthday. This very sweet old lady is still active and upright and is able to knit and do some sewing which she says she does to keep her fingers from getting stiff. Since the vote has been extended to her sex she has not failed to use it on any occasion. Curiously enough she has never travelled by train but delights in auto riding. In the old days she travelled in a gig to Charlottetown and Tignish. The progress of every new invention is keenly watched by this interested lady.

Miss McIntyre receives many calls from summer tourists visiting the Island from all parts of the Dominion and they are always graciously received in her charming home and surroundings. On her 100th birthday she had a big celebration and then decided only to have a real big one every five years. So the next is due two years hence, when The Guardian representative hopes to find her as well as she is today. In the meantime The Guardian offers its felicitations and best wishes.—S his usual good style.

At the united service, at Zion Church in the evening the choir rendered the anthem "How Long Will Thou Forget Me," Priester, Mrs. Jas. MacMillan taking the alto-voice and the mixed quartette being sung by Miss Flora Campbell, Mrs. Dr. Hodgson, Messrs L. Sutherland and Mr. MacKinnon. Mr. Leonard Sutherland was the soloist of the evening and sang MacDougal's setting of "Jesus Lover of My Soul" in a very pleasing manner and much expression.

RETURNS FROM

Continued from page 1
The unusual experience of spending the St. Mark's Day in Venice, formed another interesting feature of the tour. The crowd was in holiday attire on the day of their patron saint and thronged St. Mark's Square and the Grand Canal.
crossing. They landed at Gherbourg and proceeded to Paris where they spent a week and were joined by Dr. Jenkins' son, Mr. Harry Jenkins who is engaged in the wholesale dogwood business with headquarters at Bern, Switzerland. The Louvre, Fontainebleau, Versailles and other centres of great historical association were visited. After a wonderful week in Paris, they left for Southern France and Italy.
After a short stay in Genoa, they proceeded to Rome, where among other famous scenes in the Eternal City, they saw many ancient and mediaeval cathedrals, the Forum, the Diocletian Baths and visited St. Peter's Cathedral. Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Stephanie, while in Rome, were accorded an audience with the Pope. Several days were also spent among the palaces and museums of Florence and many fine automobile drives were enjoyed in the beautiful country surrounding that illustrious city.
After travelling over the Austrian Alps and the intervening country, the cultivated valleys of which showed little evidence of war-time discomfort, Vienna, the capital city of Austria, second in Europe only to Paris, was visited. There the palace of the famous Emperor Joseph and other celebrated sites were seen. Several days were then spent in Switzerland. At Zurich they had the fortune of seeing the May-day parade of workers, both men and women, 25,000 in number. Lucerne, the beautiful spot of Switzerland, Bern, the capital, where they stopped at the same hotel as did the Queen and Prince-Consort of Holland, and Interlaken, a small lake-town noted for its Casino, were among the places visited.
The party then motored over the Swiss Alps to the French border and on to Paris. From there, another ten days were spent in visiting the battlefields, Albert, the Somme District, Arras, Vimy Ridge and Givenchy were among the locations visited. At Vimy, they went through the tunnels which were constructed underneath the German lines and saw the memorial now being erected to Canadian troops who fell there.
After another week spent in Paris, during which they visited the Longchamps Races, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Stephanie proceeded to England. From London they visited a large portion of the surrounding country. The great parade of policemen, headed by Lord Byng of Vimy, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Metropolitan Police Force was outstanding among the many sights witnessed in that great city. Dr. Jenkins visited St. Bartholomew's Hospital from which his father, Dr. John Jenkins, graduated. He saw Sir Lancelot Ocheale, distinguished British surgeon, who visited Charlottetown during the C. M. A. conference last summer. Motor drives to Oxford and to the C. E. F. camps at Whitey, Bramshot and Hythe were interesting incidents of the tour.
They sailed from Southampton on board the "Empress of Scotland."

Agents Wanted

"FOR TRAIT AGENTS" — WRITE for Catalogue, United Art Limited, 162 John, Toronto. 4-17-wfm361pd

For Sale

FOR SALE—HUDSON TOURING Car. Bargain for quick sale. Apply 192 King Street. 6009-6-21-61.

FOR SALE—CABBAGE AND Tomato Plants. J. R. Marks, New London, P. E. I. 6067-6-24-31.

OLD PAPERS FOR SALE—3 CENTS per bundle. Apply Guardian. 4327-2-14-tf.

FOR SALE—WE HAVE FOR SALE 15 tons of mixed fertilizer and 2 tons of Potash. Apply F. J. McIvor, Kinkora. 6053-6-22-21.

FOR SALE—TWO CHOICE GRADE Ayrshire milk cows. Amos Rodd, Milton. 6052-6-22-21.

FOR SALE—MODERN DWELLING 51 Bayfield Street. First class condition, with large barn. Immediate possession. W. K. Rogers Co., Ltd. 6206-6-6-1f.

Wanted
WANTED—BY RELIABLE SANE man small house and garden. Suitable for shoemaker. Anywhere inside ten miles of City. Country Village. Apply Guardian Office. 6059-6-24-11.

Miscellaneous
CORRESPONDENCE CARDS AND envelopes with address printed. Just the thing for acknowledgement, invitations, etc. Guardian Job Printery. tf

MEMORIAM AND MOURNING cards at shortest notice. Guardian Job Printery.

JOHN ALFRED MACDONALD, Land Surveyor, Hermantville, Souris. 3559-5-2-1 mo

JOHN ALFRED MACDONALD, Land Surveyor, Hermantville, Souris. 8418-6-2-1mo.

SHIPPING TAGS EXPEDITIOUSLY supplied, Guardian Job Printery. tf

TENDERS FOR THE REMODELING of Donagh School No. 81, plans may be seen at the residences of the Trustees. Tenders to be opened July 22nd, at 8 p. m. John H. Beason Secy., Johnston's River. 6055-6-22-21

Make NURSING Your Career
An accredited school for Nurses. Forest Hills offers a three year course to girls who have one year or more High School training. Graduates preferred. Maintenance and allowance for uniforms and text books. Excellent educational and clinical facilities. Classes enter in February and September. Beautiful location.
For prospectus write Principal, Box P, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
FOREST HILLS HOSPITAL School of Nursing
June 17-24-Aug. 18-26.

Agents Wanted
"FOR TRAIT AGENTS" — WRITE for Catalogue, United Art Limited, 162 John, Toronto. 4-17-wfm361pd

For Sale
FOR SALE—HUDSON TOURING Car. Bargain for quick sale. Apply 192 King Street. 6009-6-21-61.

For Sale
FOR SALE—CABBAGE AND Tomato Plants. J. R. Marks, New London, P. E. I. 6067-6-24-31.

Old Papers
OLD PAPERS FOR SALE—3 CENTS per bundle. Apply Guardian. 4327-2-14-tf.

For Sale
FOR SALE—WE HAVE FOR SALE 15 tons of mixed fertilizer and 2 tons of Potash. Apply F. J. McIvor, Kinkora. 6053-6-22-21.

For Sale
FOR SALE—TWO CHOICE GRADE Ayrshire milk cows. Amos Rodd, Milton. 6052-6-22-21.

For Sale
FOR SALE—MODERN DWELLING 51 Bayfield Street. First class condition, with large barn. Immediate possession. W. K. Rogers Co., Ltd. 6206-6-6-1f.

Wanted
WANTED—BY RELIABLE SANE man small house and garden. Suitable for shoemaker. Anywhere inside ten miles of City. Country Village. Apply Guardian Office. 6059-6-24-11.

Miscellaneous
CORRESPONDENCE CARDS AND envelopes with address printed. Just the thing for acknowledgement, invitations, etc. Guardian Job Printery. tf

Memoriam
MEMORIAM AND MOURNING cards at shortest notice. Guardian Job Printery.

John Alfred Macdonald
JOHN ALFRED MACDONALD, Land Surveyor, Hermantville, Souris. 3559-5-2-1 mo

John Alfred Macdonald
JOHN ALFRED MACDONALD, Land Surveyor, Hermantville, Souris. 8418-6-2-1mo.

Shipping Tags
SHIPPING TAGS EXPEDITIOUSLY supplied, Guardian Job Printery. tf

Tenders
TENDERS FOR THE REMODELING of Donagh School No. 81, plans may be seen at the residences of the Trustees. Tenders to be opened July 22nd, at 8 p. m. John H. Beason Secy., Johnston's River. 6055-6-22-21

Make Nursing
Make NURSING Your Career
An accredited school for Nurses. Forest Hills offers a three year course to girls who have one year or more High School training. Graduates preferred. Maintenance and allowance for uniforms and text books. Excellent educational and clinical facilities. Classes enter in February and September. Beautiful location.
For prospectus write Principal, Box P, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
FOREST HILLS HOSPITAL School of Nursing
June 17-24-Aug. 18-26.

Notice
The Parker House is ready to accommodate permanent and transient boarders. The table is equal to some in the city. This house has been less than a year in business but has had a wonderful patronage. We expect all table boarders of last year and as many more new ones. Anyone visiting the city will find an up-to-date accommodation at the Parker House.
M. J. MCKINNON, Proprietor
6061-6-24-mw11f.

Notice
DR. J. P. MILLAR
DENTAL SURGEON
HOURS—9 to 12.30
3 to 5.00
Corner Queen and Richmond